ALLIES' DICTATION TO LEAGUE MENACES FRENCH CABINET

Leygues to Be Attacked on Order From London Barring Armenia's Admission.

VIVIANI POLICY REVERSED

CANADIAN STIRS ASSEMBLY

Rowell Indicts European Statesmanship, Declaring It Cannot Rule League Alone.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Dec. 8 (By Telephone to Paris).—Armenia, which has already caused so much trouble in the League Assembly, now threatens to involve the Government of one of the great European powers in disaster. It is likely to be the reason of an attack on the Leygues Cabinet, if not in the Chamber of Deputies at Paris, at least before the Senate and Chamber Commissions on Foreign Affairs tomorrow, whose meeting René Viviani, head of the French delegation here, has left Geneva tonight to attend.

It may also precipitate a fight on the floor of the League Assembly as to whether the allied Governments can dictate policy to their League representatives.

The situation is as follows: Viviani came to Geneva with a letter of instructions from Leygues to push for Armenia's admission to the League. In accordance with this policy he launched a demand for negotiations with Mustapha Kemal because if the Assembly agreed to this the delimitation of Armenia's boundaries and her admission to the League would have been an actual corollary. Viviani succeeded in persuading the Assembly to take the action which resulted in President Wilson, Brazil and Spain offering to mediate with Kemal.

When he went into committee to plead for Armenia's admission with all of his personal influence and golden oratory, he beat down the opposition. The committee was ready to agree when peremptory instructions came from London that the matter was to be dropped.

Being controlled by the big powers, the committee has decided against Armenia, as they wished, by a majority vote. The little powers, however, are not satisfied, and Delegate Costa of Portugal threatens to fling a bombshell into the Assembly by demanding to know how it is that the Premiers of the big powers in London can induce the League to go back on its own intentions.

Before leaving, M. Viviani issued the usual diplomatic denial that he was thinking of resigning, but it is hinted by his friends that matters are rather strained. The fact that he is one of the leading candidates for the Premiership in the event of the Leygues Cabinet falling is probably not without effect on the situation.

Canada Attacks European Control.

That the League of Nations will never work smoothly until the big powers relax some measure of their control for the benefit of the smaller nations was indicated in today's debate in the League Assembly.

The incident that showed this was a bitter attack on European statesmen and European management by Newton W. Rowell, former President of the Canadian Privy Council. The attitude of the Assembly on the subject was easy to gauge by the applause that greeted his speech, which recked nothing of the smoother niceties of European diplomacy nor indicated a desire to learn them.

Mr. Rowell spoke his mind in commenting on the report of Commission 2, laying down a plan for the establishment of three large new bureaus to deal with the following subjects: First, economy and finance; second, transportation and transit; third, health. According to the suggestions of the commission, these bureaus should be permanent, with a considerable degree of autonomy, like the Labor Bureau. They would theoretically be responsible to the League, but really to the Council. And so comes in the old struggle between the Assembly and the Council.

Warns of Control by Big Powers.

The Canadian delegate argued that Article XXIII. of the Covenant provided that these bureaus be instituted by a convention of the member Governments. By creating them now, as proposed, the Covenant was being violated, he said, and control was being given directly to the big European powers forming the Council. He said that this was true because, firstly, the big powers of the Entente control the Council, which is to have control of the bureaus, which will report to it during the whole time the Assembly is not sitting, and secondly, States situated at a great distance from Geneva cannot send their best men as members of permanent bureaus, whereas the great European powers can do so.

"The Assembly should not set up a machine which it cannot control," said Mr. Rowell. Canada, for instance, was unable to send her leading men so great a distance to become a part of several different bodies.

"The countries of Europe, being on the spot, will control these bureaus," he continued. "This might be all right

Rumor of Resubmission Of Treaty Is Discredited

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—There was a report current at the Capitol today that President Wilson intended to resubmit the Treaty of Versailles for ratification by the Senate. As far as can be ascertained, the report has no basis, and the general opinion seems to be that, the Senate at the last session having definitely rejected the treaty, President Wilson will not submit it again. If the treaty is submitted, it is certain, according to Senators opposed to it, to be defeated.

The Knox peace resolution to end the war with Germany is not expected to come up at the present regular session, but to be offered immediately after the convening of the extra session, which Mr. Harding will call when he assumes the Presidency.

WILSON DECLINES LEAGUE INVITATION

Won't Send Representative Even in an Advisory Capacity, to Disarmament Conference.

WIRES DECISION TO HYMANS

Unable to Accept Because This Country Is Not a Member of the League of Nations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—President Wilson today declined the invitation of the Council of the League of Nations to name a representative to sit in a commission of the League of Nations, or cooperate in its study of the reduction of armaments.

His refusal is based on the fact that the Government of the United States is not a member of the League of Nations, and for that reason he does not feel justified in appointing a commission to take "even a de facto participation in the deliberations of the commission acting in behalf of the Council, in the execution of the provisions in the covenant of the League of Nations."

The President's decision was embodied in a cablegram sent by Norman H. Davis, Acting Secretary of State, to Paul Hymans, President of the Assembly of the League at Geneva. It was in response to a communication received a few days ago from M. Hymans, addressed to the Government of the United States, making formal request that this Government co-operate with the League in its task of disarmament. M. Hymans's letter was drafted on the basis of recommendations made by the permanent military, naval and air commission of the League, which declared that in its consideration of various phases of disarmament it was highly desirable to have the technical advice of the United States.

This action resulted from a letter by General Clive of England, a military member of the commission, who felt that American participation, even if only in a consultative way, in the studies being made by the League's Disarmament Commission would be very useful.

General Clive and other members of the commission felt that as America had co-operated with England and other nations in The Hague Conference in favor of steps toward disarmament, and that as American public opinion had always favored disarmament, the United States Government, without committing itself, would be willing to have representatives sit on the League's commission in a purely consultative capacity.

President Wilson, it is understood, feels that since the United States is not in the League, and on account of the attitude of the Senate toward the treaty, which has tied the hands of the Administration so far as participation under the treaty or the League covenant are concerned, it is absolutely impossible for him to accept this and other similar invitations, when predicated on the League or the covenant.

Here is the text of the American Government's reply:

"Department of State,
"Washington, D. C.
December 8, 1920.

"His Excellency Paul Hymans,
"President of the Council of League of Nations,
"Geneva, Switzerland.

"I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your cable of December first inviting the Government of the United States to name representatives to sit with the Military, Naval and Air Commission of the League in a consultative capacity during the discussion by this commission of the reduction of armaments, the consideration of which is to be undertaken by it forthwith at the request and on behalf of the Council.

"The Government of the United States is most sympathetic with any sincere efforts to evolve a constructive plan for disarmament which is so necessary for the economic rehabilitation, peace and stability of the world. The President of the United States is deeply interested in this question and is most desirous of co-operating to this end, but as the Government of the United States is not a member of the League he does not feel justified in appointing a commission to take even a de facto participation in the deliberations of the Council, or of the commission acting on behalf of the Council, in the execution of provisions of the covenant of the League of Nations.

CITY NEARLY LOST $1,240,000 ON STONE ON COURT HOUSE JOB

Agreed to Pay Hanlein $1,840,000—Work Could Have Been Done for $600,000.

REVEALED BY UNTERMYER

Builders Forced to Pay $2.75 for Sand Originally Sold by Combine for 50 Cents.

FIGHT OVER SAND BOOKS

Counsel for Combine Threatens to Replevin Them From Lockwood Committee.

The limestone work on the County Court House, for which the city agreed to pay Henry Hanlein & Son $1,840,000, could have been done for $600,000, a saving of $1,240,000, according to calculations made by the Lockwood Committee yesterday from evidence furnished by Louis Horowitz, President of the Thompson-Starrett Company, one of the largest building concerns in the country.

Mr. Horowitz, who said that it was a "farce" to ask the limestone "ring" for bids, described how he went to the quarries in Indiana, had limestone cut to his order and then shipped to the place where it was to be used. The cost amounted to $5.25 a cubic foot against $9, which Hanlein wanted to charge to the city, and which it agreed to pay. The contract was canceled by the Board of Estimate following the exposure by the Lockwood Committee of John T. Hettrick's "Code of Practice," of which Hanlein was a member.

When Hanlein appeared before the committee he testified that the large blocks, which he contracted to furnish the city, cost more than smaller blocks. According to Mr. Horowitz yesterday the small blocks cost more because additional cutting was required. He explained that when he had the stone cut in Indiana he saved the cost of freight on the waste and said the work was better done because of improved methods and machinery. Cutting stone in New York was an artificial condition brought about by stone employers through labor unions, he said, adding that this city was the only one in the country where that "provincial" practice was followed. He went to Indiana, he said, to escape the "ring of indecent graft" in the limestone business.

Late in the afternoon, after a member of the committee had made some calculations based on Hanlein's estimate to the city, Mr. Untermyer announced that instead of costing the city $9 a cubic yard, the figure Hanlein named, the work would have cost about $10 or $12 a cubic yard. It was estimated that, had the work of cutting and setting the stone been done here on a legitimate business basis and without the artificial increase due to the "Code of Practice," the work could have been done for $1,000,000, thereby saving $840,000. Had the stone been cut in Indiana it could have been done for $600,000, according to the estimate, saving the city $1,240,000.

Building Material Prices Uniform.

Representatives of three building contractors doing a business of about $85,000,000 a year described the remarkable unanimity of prices quoted to them when they asked dealers to bid on large quantities of brick, sand, cement, broken stone, lime and gravel. In scores of cases brought to the attention of the committee there were but occasional variations in price. In many instances dealers refused to quote prices on future delivery, but merely sent in bids that they would charge "at market prices on delivery."

Announcement was made by Samuel Untermyer, counsel to the committee, that next week the investigation would dig into the iron and steel prices quoted to builders. Mr. Horowitz testified that the great steel manufacturers had an arrangement with the Iron Erectors League whereby the structural steel was sold to the iron erector employers only if they did the work under open-shop conditions. He thought the term "open shop" was merely a blind to defeat union labor.

The evidence indicated that practically all of the building sand sold in New York was mined and sold by three concerns, the Goodwin-Gallagher Sand and Gravel Company, an $8,000,000 concern, which absorbed six competitors, and shut down several sand banks which had previously been operated, Henry Steers and O'Brien Bros. Peter Gallagher, Treasurer of the first named company, according to a witness, suggested the organization of the Sand and Gravel Board of Trade, and at the meetings Eugene P. Clark, Secretary, who is also an officer of one of the Goodwin-Gallagher subsidiaries, regularly suggested the increase of prices until sand, which had sold for $1.80, brought $2.75 a cubic yard.

Clark is one of the fifteen witnesses who are being sought by the Lockwood Committee. He has not been at his office for two weeks. Mr. Untermyer suggested that on Jan. 1 the committee ask the Legislature to extend its powers, so as to give the missing witnesses "a very long vacation if they persist in remaining out of the jurisdiction." The other missing witnesses are:

Wholesale Arson Ascribed to Reds; Loss of $4,000,000 Near Uniontown, Pa.

Special to the New York Times.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 8.—"Red" radicals, agents of the Russian Soviet Government known to have been working among the foreign-born population in this section, particularly those who labor in the mines, are responsible for the wholesale burning of schoolhouses, churches, stores, residences and mines during the last six weeks, according to county officers who have been investigating the fires during the last ten days.

It was learned today that literature confiscated in a raid on Russian "Reds" at Brownsville several days ago gave the county authorities their first information as to the identity of those responsible for the incendiary fires which have destroyed approximately $4,000,000 worth of property in the northern part of Fayette County.

That the incendiaries planned to strike terror into the hearts of the 20,000 foreigners in the district and force Bolshevism on them by ruthlessly destroying unprotected school buildings and other property is the belief of the authorities after carefully perusing the literature.

Nine school houses, housing between 1,500 and 2,000 pupils; several large stores and residences and two small churches—thirty buildings in all—have been destroyed by fire. Five large mines, two of them valued at $1,500,000 each, are now seething furnaces, due to fires the origin of which has completely puzzled mining engineers and geologists. Old miners and mine bosses declare the fires were of incendiary origin. Each instance the fire was discovered in a coal seam where there was absolutely no likelihood of fire reaching unless caused by some human agency.

Following the breaking out of fires, on several occasions uncouth, rough looking foreigners have been seen in the neighborhoods.

It is no secret that the industrial districts of Fayette and Westmoreland and sections of Washington Counties contain thousands of radical thinkers and these have publicly declared that education in the public schools is a most effective antidote for Bolshevism.

Two pyromania experts have been sent into the field by the National Underwriters' Association, with headquarters in New York City, to co-operate with the State troopers.

Rewards totaling $6,000 are now offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties, Fayette County Commissioners having offered $5,000 yesterday and the School Board of Perry Township, in which was located the Star Junction School, destroyed Sunday morning with a loss of $100,000, having today added $1,000. It was said today that more than 200 men, including constables and police, have joined the thirty State police, under Captain Herbert Smith, in a systematic combing of the district.

ENRIGHT DENIES CRIME WAVE HERE

Commissioner Says It Is at a Lower Ebb Than at Any Time for Five Years.

RETURNS FROM CANAL ZONE

Says 92 Persons Have Been Arrested for 52 Murders, Instead of Only 2, as Charged.

Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright returned to his desk at Police Headquarters yesterday morning after a four weeks' vacation trip to the Canal Zone, and immediately set to work preparing a defense of his administration of the Police Department. Just before he left his office last evening he issued a statement in which he denied that the city has experienced a "wave of crime" since the beginning of the year, and in chronological order contradicted a report that in fifty-two murders committed in this city since Jan. 1 only two arrests were made by the police.

Commissioner Enright's statement asserted that crime was at a lower ebb this year than at any time within the last five years, and asserted that instead of only two arrests being made by the police in connection with the 52 murders, 92 persons had been arrested for the crimes, and of that number 17 were accused of being the slayers.

The Police Commissioner incidentally revealed in his statement that he differentiates between the perpetrator of a murder and persons arrested in connection with such crimes, and in a few instances he specifically declared that those arrested in connection with a murder were taken into custody as material witnesses.

In several instances the Police Commissioner failed to state that those arrested in connection with murders were later discharged in court, such as in the murder of Robert Eckert, the "bootlegger" chief on Staten Island, in which the five persons arrested in connection with the shooting and killing of Eckert were discharged because no evidence was submitted to prove they had any connection with the crime.

In two of the murders which were referred to in the report criticized by the Police Commissioner he asserted that the two persons shown to have been arrested by the police were released when they proved the killings were justifiable, and in three other murders in which it was declared the police made no arrests he declared the murderers were arrested and sent to prison.

Complains of "Muckraking."

After revealing statistics of the Police Department for the last five years, the Police Commissioner declared in his statement that "the worst criminals are given another chance, but, of course, a policeman cannot expect as much consideration as a dog." He attributed "muckraking, roasting and lying" about the Police Department to politics.

He also turned critic of the Mitchel administration which preceded that of the present administration and declared that criticism of his reinstatement of policemen to the force was unjustified because during the three years of his administration of the Police Department only forty-three men were restored to their positions on the force, while "during the last two and a half years of the Mitchel-Woods administration thirty-one members of the force were reinstated."

"But, of course, things which were entirely proper during that administration are not considered at all proper during the present administration," sarcastically commented the Police Commissioner in his statement.

Commissioner Enright began his statement with the declaration that "during my recent absence the Police Department has been made the victim of the most audacious attack in a collection of ingeniously contrived falsehoods published in The Tribune on Nov. 29, and reiterated and re-echoed, in part, by the various other newspapers. A cursory examination of this two-page article reveals a deliberate falsification of public records unparalleled in the history of journalism in this city.

"These statements," said Mr. Enright, "are wholly false and obviously used for political propaganda against the responsible heads of the present city administration," and he then quoted from the article in detail.

For the killing of James Doyle on Jan. 1, 1920, an arrest was made, according

REJECTS PASSPORTS FOR IRISH INQUIRY

MAY PROTEST ON DE VALERA

Bonar Law Says the British Government Is Considering Advisability of Sending a Note.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The special committee of six which the commission of the Villard Committee of One Hundred, now holding hearings here on the Irish question, had hoped to send to England and Ireland to gather first hand information will not be permitted to visit Great Britain.

William MacDonald, Secretary of the commission, was informed in a letter sent today by R. L. Craigie, First Secretary of the British Embassy, that "the proposed visit to British territory is not agreeable to his Majesty's Government" and that therefore the embassy would not visé the passports issued to members of the committee by the American State Department.

Mr. Craigie's letter apparently was in reply to one from Mr. MacDonald making formal application for visé of the passports. It follows:

"With reference to your application for visé of the passports of certain gentlemen whom your committee have designated as their representatives to proceed to the United Kingdom to investigate conditions in Ireland, I am directed by his Britannic Majesty's Ambassador to inform you that the proposed visit to British territory is not agreeable to his Majesty's Government. Visés will therefore not be affixed to the passports in question. The passport officer in New York has been instructed accordingly.

"This decision has been reached after full consideration of the circumstances of the case, and I am to refer you to the Ambassador's letter of Oct. 23, in which he informed you that he was unable to believe that the truth could be established until there had been a period of quiet in Ireland, and then only by persons of the greatest experience of the laws of evidence, with power to compel the production of books, papers and records, and that any other form of inquiry would, in his opinion, lead only to a mass of statements unsupported by facts being made for propaganda purposes.

"Sir Auckland Geddes had ventured to hope that the full meaning and significance of these observations would have been clear.

"In view of the fact that the Ambassador's letter to you of Oct. 23 last appeared in the press, I am to inform you that this letter will be published."

Members of the special committee which it had been planned to send to England and Ireland, as announced by the commission, were Oliver P. Newman, former District Commissioner of this city; the Rev. Norman Thomas and Arthur Gleason of New York; James H. Maurer, President of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor; William MacDonald and Dean Morss Lovett of the University of Chicago.

Passports issued to members of the committee were for "travel and study in Europe, including Great Britain," or for purposes similarly stated, it was said today at the State Department. Applications for the passports were made by the committee members individually, and thus the question of whether the State Department would grant passports for a committee as such to go to England and Ireland was not raised.

Members of the Villard Committee tonight declined to comment on the Embassy's refusal to visé the passports. When asked for a copy of the letter, an official of the committee said:

"We are not anxious to advertise the Embassy in advance of our own statement."

CORNWELL WARNS MINGO RIOTERS HE MAY CALL U. S. ARMY

SPEAKS AT DINNER HERE

3 INDICTED FOR MURDER

Censuring the United Mine Workers of America as largely responsible for the disorders in the West Virginia coal fields, Governor John J. Cornwell said last night that he would preserve order and force respect for the law in Mingo County if he had to call out every able-bodied man in the State and ask for the entire United States Army. He was speaking here at the annual dinner of the Southern Society in the Waldorf, where he was introduced by Samuel McRoberts as a "law and order Governor."

"If John L. Lewis wants the respect of the people for his union he has got to cut out the rough stuff," said Governor Cornwell. "And the time has long ago passed, too, when anybody could blackguard a public official who tried to enforce the law. I say that the labor unions must respect the law, and must put out the radicals from their midst."

The Governor asserted that it was not the injunction that broke the coal strike a year ago and forced the issuance of an order for the men to go back to work, but the 40,000 to 45,000 non-union miners in West Virginia, who produced 300,000 tons of coal a day.

"A Crime Against America."

"They furnished the fuel to keep the railroads running," he continued, "so that food was hauled to this city and other large cities of the country. They kept factories running and homes warm because they did not go out on strike."

He characterized the coal strike of 1919 as "a crime against America," and censured the union officials for their conduct of that walkout. After that strike, he said, he was informed unofficially that there would never be another general coal strike until the entire industry had been unionized. He pointed out that of 100,000 miners engaged in twelve West Virginia coal fields in the production of 100,000,000 tons annually about 40,000 to 45,000 were not members of the union.

Disorders started when the union began its organizing work in the westernmost county of Mingo, he said, where the fields were full of agitators. Some of the public officials in that county had failed in the discharge of their duties, he asserted, and the offices of some of them virtually had become headquarters for organizers of the United Mine Workers of America.

"Some of the operators in the Mingo fields employed their men on contract," he continued, "and, whether wisely or unwisely, dismissed employes when they joined the union. Then the operators unwisely sent in private detectives to dispossess the men of the company houses, and trouble started."

Only One County Involved.

Pleading for a temperate view of the disorders, the Governor pointed out that the trouble was confined to one of fifty-five counties and one of twelve coal fields. He asserted that this field was in a wilderness of hills and that a malicious man with a high-power rifle could climb some eminence, conceal himself and shoot men at mines a mile away.

"We do not judge this city by the man who drove the bomb wagon into Wall Street," he added. "Nor by the building grafters who are now being uncovered. I suppose between forty and fifty deaths have been caused in Mingo County since last Spring, and I suppose you have as many violent deaths in New York in a week. I ask you not to judge our State by this one thing."

Turning from direct discussion of the troubles in West Virginia, Governor Cornwell warned against the spread of radical doctrines in this country and of the propaganda campaign for the recognition of the Soviet Government of Russia. He said that he had received letters and circulars beseeching his support for the recognition of the Lenin and Trotzky regime by this country and added:

"I believe the hand stained with blood, as if it were the hand of savages, should never be grasped in friendship and recognition by this country. Recognition would accelerate immeasurably an undesirable campaign here against our institutions."

Duty to Combat Radicalism.

The Governor expressed the opinion that Spring again would find the Red armies on the move and perhaps at the gates of Warsaw and that their success at arms would give fresh impetus to Communistic and Soviet propaganda campaigns in this country. Thousands of recruits might come to this country, he said, to join the forces already at work here for revolution in this country.

"A year ago I said that radicals were 'boring in' in the American Federation of Labor and other unions in this country," he continued, "and my statement

COX TO NAME WILLIS IF HARDING DESIRES

OFFER IS BEING CONSIDERED

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Dec. 8.—Upon his return here at noon today, Senator Harding found awaiting him a telegram conveying an offer from Governor Cox to appoint former Governor Frank B. Willis, Senator-elect from Ohio, to succeed the President-elect in the Senate immediately. Senator Harding postponed a reply until he could consult Mr. Willis.

Governor Cox's telegram reads:

Hon. W. G. Harding, Marion, Ohio:

I read in the papers of your intention to resign from the Senate Jan. 10 or 11, at which time, so you announce, the new Governor will appoint Senator-elect Willis.

I have no doubt that in preparing for executive tasks you are desirous at the earliest possible moment, of bringing the Senatorial responsibility to an end.

If it will in any way give furtherance to your plans or aid your convenience I shall be most happy to appoint Mr. Willis immediately upon your resignation. This suggestion is prompted by a spirit of helpfulness which must possess our people without regard to political association, if government is to efficiently meet the needs of humanity.

JAMES M. COX.

Immediately after receiving Governor Cox's telegram Senator Harding telephoned to Mr. Willis for a conference and this afternoon he dictated the following statement to newspaper correspondents:

"Senator Harding thought it best to withhold reply until he could confer with Senator-elect Willis concerning his convenience in the matter. This conference was impossible today because of the dying condition of Mr. Willis's father."

Delays Taking Up New Cabinet.

During the remainder of this week, before visitors arrive for conferences on international relations, Senator Harding intends to catch up with his correspondence and familiarize himself with political and governmental events that have occurred during his month's vacation. Because of limited facilities of communication, he has been somewhat out of touch with the situation.

Having announced at the outset of his holiday that he would give no consideration to Cabinet appointments until he returned to Marion, the President-elect upon arriving in this country finds that others have been busy picking his Cabinet for him. Only a few hours in Washington were necessary to discover that a number of men there are regarded as certainties for the same Cabinet position, and this despite Mr. Harding's protestations that no such offers have been made.

Senator Harding repeated this statement today to newspaper correspondents: "There will be time to mourn, too," he added.

Although it is understood that Harry M. Daugherty would accept the post of Attorney General if it were offered, the surface indications are that there are few, if any, openly avowed candidates for Cabinet appointments. The activities of the friends of those who might be in a receptive mood for an invitation to sit around President Harding's Council table have been centred mainly in attempts to discourage the qualifications of others mentioned as Cabinet possibilities. Each side appears to have been trying to kill off the other.

The most noticeable feature in this connection has been the attitude of various Republican Senators, who, in public statements, in newspaper interviews and in private conversation, have sought to discourage the selection of Senators for Cabinet posts. Some, as in the case of Mr. Lodge's reference to talk of Senator Harry S. New as Postmaster General, have expressed the opinion that the Senators mentioned in Cabinet gossip are more needed in the Senate. Others, like Senator Albert B. Fall, have said that they prefer to remain where they were.

See Warning to Senators.

Enough has been said, however, to create the impression that there is a group of Republican Senators who regard their present position as superior to any place in the Cabinet. It is not believed that Senator Harding agrees with this opinion, although both before and after the election he promised close co-operation with the Senate.

Already the President-elect has acted contrary to the most insistent Senatorial pleading in delivering his address last Monday at the opening of the Senate despite the protestations of Republican Senators active in advising him during

HOUSTON ADVISES LARGER TAXATION ON SMALL INCOMES

Also Urges Present Surtax Rates on Large Incomes Be Cut Because Uncollectible.

WOULD CHANGE PROFITS TAX

HOUSE UNLIKELY TO HEED

Secretary of the Treasury Forecasts a Four-Billion Tax Burden for Next Four Years.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—More equitable distribution of the $4,000,000,000 tax burden which the American people must bear for at least four more years was recommended to Congress today by David J. Houston, Secretary of the Treasury, who, in his annual report, submitted a comprehensive scheme of tax revision.

"Revision of taxes should be effected," Mr. Houston wrote. "There can and should be a better distribution of the tax burden. Unwise taxes should be eliminated. But any scheme which would after this fiscal year yield for several years to come less than $4,000,000,000 would be incompatible with safety and sound finance. And the country should face the fact that present taxes even may not in the future be relied upon to yield the needed revenue."

The Secretary held the excess profits tax ought to be repealed. He believed it should be "replaced in large part by some form of corporation profits tax."

Reduction of the higher groups of the income surtaxes, accompanied by increases in the lower income surtax rates, also was suggested by the Secretary, who asked that Congress "consider such a general revision, with a reduction to a maximum rate, lower than that contained in the present law, provided acceptable new taxes of equal yield can be found."

The Secretary said the plain fact was that the present rates, which are as high as 70 per cent., could not be successfully collected, and that "the effective way to tax the rich is to adopt rates that do not force investment in tax-exempt securities."

He advised an increase of 2 per cent. in the taxes on incomes up to $5,000, and 4 in the taxes on incomes from $5,000 to $10,000.

Substitute Taxes Proposed.

To make up for the estimated loss of revenue, due to revision, the Secretary suggested sources of revenue to be tapped and others to be changed so as to yield $2,000,000,000. His recommendations were as follows, with the expected yield:

	Expected Field.
20 per cent. on corporation profits, distributed or undistributed, in a higher surtax rate	$690,000,000
Additional 6 per cent. on corporation incomes	465,000,000
Readjustment of surtax rates on incomes	230,000,000
Abolishment of $2,000 exemption on corporation income	58,000,000
Increase from 4 per cent. to 6 per cent in tax on incomes of $5,000 or less, and from 8 per cent. to 12 per cent. on incomes of $5,000 to $10,000	150,000,000
Doubling and quadrupling stamp taxes	134,000,000
2 cents a gallon on gasoline	90,000,000
Federal license tav of 50 cents a horsepower on motor cars	100,000,000
Additional sales tax an automobiles, motorcycles and accessories	100,000,000
10 per cent. additional on theatrical admissions	70,000,000
Additional $2 a thousand on cigarettes	70,000,000
Additional 25 cents a thousand on cigars	5,000,000
Additional 5 cents a pound on tobacco and snuff	8,000,000
Additional 5 per cent. on candy	20,000,000
Additional 7 per cent. on chewing gum	2,000,000
Additional 7 per cent. on toilet soap and toilet soap powders	4,000,000
10 per cent. tax on sales by manufacturers and importers of perfumes, cosmetics and medicinal articles in lieu of tax on the consumer	16,000,000
Additional 5 per cent. tax on jewelry and precious metals	25,000,000
Additional 5 per cent. on motion picture films	4,000,000

In the readjustment of surtaxes on incomes, Mr. Houston proposes the division of incomes into "saved" or reinvested and "spent." On the former class he would limit the highest tax to 20 per cent. while the income spent would be subjected to a tax ranging as high as 50 per cent. Under the plan proposed by the Secretary, incomes of $5,000 to $6,000 would be taxed 2 per cent. on the part saved and the same on the part spent. The same ratio with a graduated increase would apply to incomes up to $30,000 where the maximum of 20 per cent. on saved incomes is reached. From $30,000 to $40,000, the rates would be 20 per cent. on saved and 25 per cent. on spent; $40,000 to $50,000, 20 per cent. and 30 per cent.; $50,000 to $75,000, 20 per cent. and 35 per cent.; $75,000 to $100,000, 20 per cent. and 40 per cent., and over $100,000, 20 per cent. and 50 per cent. or a total tax of 70 per cent.

The present maximum rate is 70 per cent. on incomes of $1,000,000, but Mr. Houston declares after it has "long passed the point of its minimum productivity," since it encourages the investment in tax-exempt securities.

The new rates while not laying as high a levy against the large incomes would, the Secretary said, produce a greater return to the Government, since the wealthy class would not find it profitable to invest in bonds of States, countries or municipalities which were tax-exempt, but paid a lower rate of interest.

Opposes Indiscriminate Consumption Taxes.

"These possible sources of income are mentioned for the information of Congress," Mr. Houston went on. "While I shall not attempt to discuss them, attention should be called to the new and additional consumption taxes. Reasons have been given for the belief that no valid objection exists to the employment of a moderate number of consumption taxes properly selected, but it would, in my opinion, be neither wise nor expedient to increase radically the volume of consumption taxes. * * * The articles included in the suggested list of additional consumption taxes have not been selected because their use is particularly harmful or in any sense less legitimate than those not included.

"Consumption taxes must be judged by practical standards. What should be sought are a few consumption taxes which tap the surplus income which is being wasted, not a conglomerate multiplication of petty taxes upon every article of luxurious or unnecessary consumption which can neither be clearly defined, cheaply collected nor administered without widespread evasion."

The repeal of the tax on soda fountain and other beverages is asked, the Secretary says, because the collection of the tax, the aggregate of which is small, presented an administrative problem of much magnitude. Added to that, Mr. Houston said, there had been constant and widespread evasion of such taxes.

The excess profits tax, Mr. Houston declared, has not fulfilled the theoretical grounds upon which it was enacted, and has been found to be wrong in theory and in political philosophy. He said it discriminated against the conservatively financed corporation, while aiding materially the firms whose capitalization was exaggerated. He urged that its place be taken by some form of a corporation profits tax, "not only on the grounds of the Government's revenue needs, but upon grounds of equality and justice." The corporation profits, the Secretary continued, should not be allowed to escape with a tax of 10 per cent., while other taxpayers were subjected to taxes on their incomes ranging as high as 70 per cent.

Mr. Houston again urged the necessity for rigid economy in Government expenditure, asserting that only by conserving the finances carefully could the expenditures be kept within the $4,000,000,000 annually which he suggested should be the basis for a revenue program. He was hopeful, however, that with the "heavy burdens placed by the Transportation act" out of the way, there would be a substantial excess of Government receipts over Government expenditures.

An analysis of the Government expenditures for the last fiscal year shows that almost one-fifth of the $6,400,000,000 paid out was spent in connection with Federal control and the guaranty of earnings fo rthe railroads. Only one department of the Government (the War Department) spent more than was used in connection with the carriers. The War Department's total was $1,611,000,000, against $1,037,000,000 for the railroads.

As to Retiring the War Debt.

Discussing the war debt, and a program for its retirement, Mr. Houston said that within thirty months the Government would have to pay off approximately $7,500,000,000 in Victory notes, War Savings certificates and Treasury certificates of indebtedness. He proposed that the Treasury certificates not be funded further and that they be retired as rapidly as the Treasury's condition permitted, so the program for redeeming other Government obligations would not be hampered by simultaneous payments.

Mr. Houston stated that the heavy payments required by the Transportation act had "disarranged the Government's fiscal plans," but he believed that early Spring would witness final settlement of the claims of the railroads under the guaranty provisions and that the Treasury then could proceed with its announced program of meeting and retiring the War Savings certificates ($800,000,000) and the Victory note issue ($4,500,000,000).

Through operations of the sinking fund, use of the small repayments by foreign Governments on loans, and the employment of certain salvage returns to the Treasury, it had retired $1,764,896,150 in bonds, Mr. Houston said, saving $100,000,000 on the transactions by buying in the open markets. Of the amount purchased, bonds aggregating $119,109,000 were retired from funds repaid by the foreign Governments.

The Pressure for Credits.

Near the outset of his report Secretary Houston discussed at length the pressure on the Treasury for extension of credits and the urgent appeal for revival of the War Finance Corporation to help various classes of the community.

He pointed out the great extension of credit during the crop-moving season and the efforts of the Government to prevent this getting out of bounds and to reduce loans to non-essential industries. The expansion of credits from January 23, 1920, to late September, he said, was probably three to four billion dollars. Then he went on:

"But still, for reasons beyond the control of banking establishments, or of the Government, prices of farm products fell, and fell suddenly; and those who were distressed began to look in other directions for relief.

"The first impulse of many who were searching for a way out was to turn to the Government, and especially to the Treasury, as the sole instrumentality for full economic salvation. This disposition, well developed before the war, was reinforced during hostilities by practices of the Government which became necessary for the successful prosecution of the war and for the preservation of national life. It is the same disposition which causes resort to the Government for appropriations for all sorts of enterprises, many even of a purely local character.

"It is this disposition, rather than self-aggrandizing efforts of Federal departments to extend their functions, which is the main explanation of mounting Federal budgets and of centralizing tendencies frequently criticised. If there is a fault, and that there is one there is little doubt, the blame must rest largely on the public which remains quiescent while interested groups are clamorous. When the people appreciate this fact there will be a remedy, and not until then.

"This attitude so extremely manifested is unwholesome and menacing, and it is of the highest importance that individuals and communities return to a normal degree of self-help and self-reliance. We have demobilized many groups, but we have not demobilized those whose gaze is concentrated on the Treasury.

"In the circumstances producers whose products could not be satisfactorily marketed and whose prices were falling, demanded that the Treasury intervene. They asked either that it deposit money in certain sections or that the activities of the War Finance Corporation be resumed.

"Neither of these things was feasible. The Treasury had no money to lend and no money to deposit except for Government purposes. It is not in the banking business and should not be. * * *

"Furthermore, the War Finance Corporation was a war agency and was created to help win the war. It was clearly desirable that war agencies should cease to function as quickly as possible. The only power of the corporation which had any possible bearing on the situation is one which was inserted after the armistice with a particular possible state of facts in view."

This condition, says Secretary Houston, did not arise.

Would Transfer Some Bureaus.

Lessons of the World War, Mr. Houston said, have shown the need for the transfer of some of the Treasury activities to other Departments. Five bureaus, War Risk Insurance, Prohibition, Public Health Service, Supervising Architect and the General Supply Committee, were in no way related to the fiscal operation of the Government, he said, and urged that they be placed under other jurisdiction. The request, he added, was unusual, for few if any other executive department heads had been willing to see their departments dismembered. His request, he said, demanded the more attention for this reason.

In connection with this suggested reorganization, the Secretary asked that the position of Under Secretary of the Treasury be created, at a salary of $10,000. He recommended also an increase in the salaries of Assistant Secretaries from $5,000 to $7,500.

Mr. Houston strongly urged the establishment of a Federal budget system, declaring that unless such a plan is adopted the financial burdens of the people would be greatly increased through the piecemeal methods of handling appropriations without regard for or relation to income of the Government."

Reviewing the loans to foreign Governments, Mr. Houston said that the American Government advanced in cash between April 24, 1917, and Nov. 15, 1920, a total of $9,580,823,677. Of this amount, approximately $163,000,000 was advanced since Nov. 15, 1919, under credits previously established to five foreign Governments. Of this, France received $110,000,000; Italy, $20,416,000; Greece, $15,000,000; Belgium, $10,469,000, and Czecho-slovakia, $8,566,000.

The Treasury had reached no determination as to the form which the obligations of the foreign Governments would take Mr. Houston said, but he recommended that they be allowed to extend until June, 1917, at which they must be paid under existing law. The foreign Governments, the Secretary said, should have every advantage to prepare for the payment by whatever arrangements they deemed best suited to their individual requirements.

OPPOSE INCOME TAX RISES.

Ways and Means Committee Will Hear Houston on His Proposals.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—With the exception of Secretary Houston's recommendation for the repeal of the excess profits taxes, the suggestions in his report apparently made little impression upon Republicans. In general they are said to be opposed to any increase in income taxes, whereas Secretary Houston recommended an increase of 2 per cent. on incomes up to $5,000, and 4 per cent. on incomes of $5,000 and $10,000.

Secretary Houston will be called before the Ways and Means Committee soon to explain his proposals. Committee members said today that they had had no opportunity to study his report and wished to do so before questioning him.

Said Representative Fordney, Chairman of the committee:

"I have studied the annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury and his estimates for Government expenditures sound like a fairy tale. They are ridiculously high. I can go down his list of estimates and chop out approximately a billion and a quarter dollars as unnecessary.

"Just for example, he wants $181,000,000 for the War Risk Insurance Bureau. I think that is a hundred million dollars or more too high. With the proposed consolidation of the soldiers' relief agencies into one bureau we can save a hundred million dollars and eliminate 30,000 clerks in Washington.

"Last year $14,000 was appropriated for 'miscellaneous expenses of military posts.' This year Secretary Houston is asking for $71,000,000 under that same item. He wants $75,000,000 for rivers and harbors improvements. I do not think Congress will grant any such sum this year."

AGAINST MORE AUTO TAXES.

Head of Automobile Association Protests Against the Proposal.

More than 200 New York City automobile dealers were urged yesterday by Alfred Reeves, General Manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, to protest against any increase in motor taxation, as suggested by Secretary Houston in his annual report.

Mr. Reeves was the guest of dealers at their clubrooms, 1,845 Broadway, and during the luncheon hour a report of Secretary Houston's suggestion was shown to him.

"The automobile industry is paying heavy taxes and is ready to pay heavy taxes to cover the expenses of the war and the present needs of the Government," said Mr. Reeves. "At the present time it is not alone in paying taxes with other industries, but is forced to pay many discriminatory taxes against the modern method of transportation by motor vehicles.

"The motor car industry is now paying $143,000,000 annually to the Federal Government and, in addition, State fees aggregating $64,000,000, making a total of $207,000,000. Secretary Houston now suggests an increase of more than 100 per cent. on these taxes. He would add 50 cents a horse power on motor vehicles, 2 cents a gallon on gasoline and extra sales taxes to raise $290,000,000 more from motor car owners, which would make the total taxation sum from the industry practically $500,000,000. It would mean a tax of $30 on every buyer of a $1,000 car in addition to the present sales taxes, registration fees and property taxed.

"Unfortunately many persons in talking taxes on motor cars think merely of the few high-priced cars on Fifth Avenue instead of the millions of low-priced cars doing utility service in all parts of the country. Farmers own a third of the 7,200,000 passenger automobiles in the country, while 55 per cent. of the cars registered are in towns of 5,000 population or less. More than 100,000 doctors own automobiles, and motor vehicles are an essential part of the equipment of salesmen, contractors and hundreds of others whose time is of importance."

BIGGER TAX PAYMENTS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Taxes collected by the Government in October increased by about $16,350,000 over the same month a year ago, according to reports compiled today by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Collections for the month amounted to $199,637,000, as compared with $183,286,000 in October, 1919.

Collections from the beginning of the fiscal year, however, showed a decrease of about $161,000,000, as against the corresponding period of 1919. From July 1 to Oct. 31 the aggregate receipts were $1,392,000,000, as against $1,553,000,000 during the same months of 1919.

PLANS AID FOR TAXPAYERS.

Senator Overman Would Allow Exemption on Inventory Losses.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Another proposal for the relief of taxpayers, declared to be subject to losses by recent commodity price declines, was put before the Senate today by Senator Overman, Democrat, of North Carolina. It would extend to the current year provisions of the revenue law, effective in 1919, which allowed inventory losses on goods in stock to be subtracted from taxable income as reported in preceding or subsequent years.

GERMANS SOUGHT IRISH AID.

Tried to Buy Paper Here to Win Support, Says Rumely.

Dr. Edward A. Rumely, continuing his testimony yesterday in Federal Court at the trial of himself, S. Walter Kaufman and Norvin R. Lindheim, lawyers, on a charge of concealing from the Government in 1917 the alleged German ownership of The Evening Mail, admitted that in 1915 he acted as "go-between" for Dr. Heinrich F. Albert, German fiscal agent in this country, and Louis Hammerling, President of a foreign language newspaper advertising company, to disseminate pro-German propaganda in foreign language newspapers here to stop the manufacture of munitions for the Allies.

He was questioned about a letter he wrote to Dr. Dernberg regarding the acquisition of The Irish American, a weekly controlled by Anthony Brogan, "to crystallize the Irish in America." Brogan wrote to him in November, 1914, he said, that the Redmond faction in Ireland wanted to purchase the paper to combat an attack on the Irish leader in a rival Irish-American publication.

Brogan did not want to sell the newspaper to the Redmond faction, Dr. Rumely said, and he thought it would be a good opportunity for the German interests to acquire the publication to obtain the sympathy of the Irish in this country.

Held for Admitting Minors to Theatre

The proprietors of the motion picture theatre at 76 Catharine Street, where six children lost their lives and others were injured in a panic caused by a false cry of fire on Nov. 14, were held in $500 bail each by Magistrate Marsh in the Tombs Court yesterday, pending trial on the charge of admittance of minors unaccompanied by parents or guardians. The defendants are Max Schwartz and Barnett Weinberg.

La Follette for Espionage Act Repeal

PLAN FOR HEARINGS ON TAX REVISION

Ways and Means Committee Will Begin on Internal Revenue Proposals and Then Take Up Tariff.

INQUIRY BY SENATORS ALSO

Hope Is to Conclude Hearing Early So Bills Can Be Drafted for the Extra Session.

Special to the New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Plans were made by both House and Senate Republicans today for hearings during this session on the proposed revision of internal revenue and tariff taxes, thus clearing the decks for legislation by the new Congress at the extra session.

Following a meeting of Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee, Chairman Fordney announced that hearings on the revision of revenue taxes would be begun within a few days. Following these hearings the question of tariff changes will be taken up Jan. 6 and continue until mid-February.

Senator McCumber, acting Chairman of the Finance Committee, took steps today to have a meeting of the committee tomorrow to plan similar hearings.

It is hoped to conclude all hearings in time so that the work of drafting tax and tariff measures will begin with the extra session. It was explained today that past hearings and legislation on the tariff had consumed nine months, and thus an early start was necessary.

The Ways and Means Committee announced these dates for tariff hearings:

Schedules.	—Dates.—
A—(Chemicals, oils and paints)	Jan. 6 7 8
B—(Earths, earthenware, glassware)	Jan. 10 11 ..
C—(Metals and manufactures of)	Jan. 12 13 14
D—(Wood and manufactures of)	Jan. 15 17
E—(Sugar, molasses and manufactures of)	Jan. 18 19
F—(Tobacco and manufactures of)	Jan. 20
G—(Agricultural products and provisions)	Jan. 21 22 24
H—(Spirits, wines and other beverages)	Jan. 25
I—(Cotton manufactures)	Jan. 26 27
J—(Flax; hemp and jute, manufactures of)	Jan. 28 29
K—(Wool and manufactures of)	Ja.31, Feb.1 2
L—(Silks and silk goods)	Feb. 3 4
M—(Papers and books)	Feb. 5 7
N—(Sundries)	Feb. 8 9 10
Free list	Feb. 11 12 14
Administrative & miscellaneous	Feb. 15 16

Persons desiring to be heard on tariff legislation must apply to the clerk in advance to obtain a place on the calendar.

No definite plans for tax revision are now in the minds of the Ways and Means Committeemen, with the exception that Chairman Fordney believes in simplifying the tax on corporate incomes. He favors a flat tax.

"It is my desire," he said, "that the income tax laws can be made so simple that a corporation will not have to hire an expert or a lawyer to find out how much it owes the Government. I think that a billion six or eight hundred million dollars can be raised by such a tax."

He finds no fault with a consumption tax.

"I have thought the matter over," he said, "and a tax of half of 1 per cent. upon sales of all kinds does not seem so bad to me. After the Civil War there was a tax of 8 cents a pound on coffee imports. If we tax coffee 5 cents a pound it would raise $65,000,000. If we tax tea 10 cents a pound we can raise $10,000,000 to $15,000,000."

New York Postmasters Named.

WAR COST TO AMERICA PUT AT $24,010,000,000

This Is Outside of the Nearly $10,000,000,000 Owed to Us by Other Governments.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The net cost of the war to the American Government was fixed by Secretary Houston today at $24,010,000,000. This, he said, represented the "adjusted" expenditure of the Treasury, excluding all outlays which had no relation to the actual prosecution of the war during the period from April 6, 1917, to June 30, last, which, he said, covered the extremes of the Government's war-time fiscal operations.

Total expenditures by the Government during the period covered, excepting postal disbursements from postal revenues, were $38,830,812,895, the Treasury figures showed. Of this amount $16,078,844,097 was obtained in taxes and revenue from sources other than borrowed money.

Mr. Houston said that a deduction of $9,523,000,000, the amount loaned to foreign Governments, should be made from the grand total, since these loans would be repaid, and consequently could not be charged as an actual expenditure.

The Secretary made other deductions, aggregating about $4,500,000,000, which, he said, represented the excess cost of Government operations for the three years and three months over what they would have been in normal times.

PENSION OUTLAY DROPS.

243,520 Soldiers of the Civil War Still on the Roll.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Pension disbursements for the fiscal year 1920 aggregated $213,295,314, according to the annual report of Commissioner Saltzgaber of the Pension Bureau, made public today.

The figures showed a decrease of about $9,000,000 from the 1919 totals. The report recorded the death during the year of 27,871 civil war pensioners, leaving 243,520 soldiers of that war on the pension roll in addition to 290,100 civil war widows.

While no survivors of the war of 1812 were shown, seventy-one widows of soldiers in that war are receiving government pensions. Only 148 Mexican war survivors were reported and 2,423 Mexican war widows.

Survivors of the World War do not show on the roll. Their dependents alone are carried, such as invalids, widows, minor children and mothers and fathers of regular army soldiers for the period prior to the application of War Risk Insurance legislation.

PAWNS GOBELINS FOR WHEAT

Austria's Action Interests Germany, Which Keeps Kaiser's Masterpieces.

Copyright, 1920, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—Germany is keenly interested in Austria's decision to pawn the late Emperor Francis Joseph's famous Gobelin tapestries in Holland this month.

Germany has already sold rare engravings and duplicates of rare old Dresden china, but the priceless masterpieces, including the Kaiser's possessions, remain.

Although Austria has pawned her Gobelins to pay for 60,000 tons of American wheat, it is believed here that they will eventually be sold with other rarities to feed Austria's starving population and bolster her exchange.

HELD FOR STEALING TIPS.

Stranger in Restaurant Is Accused of Petty Larceny.

Samuel Miller of 207 East 105th Street, who said he was a waiter, was arrested in a restaurant at Broadway and Forty-third Street yesterday afternoon for taking tips intended for waitresses. He was charged with petty larceny in the West Side Court and held in $100 bail for Special Sessions.

Miller pleaded not guilty and failing to furnish bail was locked up pending trial.

Affirms Cable Concern's Bank Suit.

The decision of Federal Judge Mayer in favor of the Commercial Pacific Cable Company, which sued the Philippines National Bank for the difference in rates between those allowed the Government and those charged by private customers, was affirmed yesterday by the Circuit Court of Appeals. William J. Deegan, of the Commercial Cable Company, said last night that the difference amounted to approximately $250,000.

PEACE COMMISSION COST $1,651,191.09

HOTEL CLAIM BIG ITEM

The Crillon Asks $125,870 "Damages and Property Loss"—Bullitt's Russian Trip $5,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8. — President Wilson today informed the Senate, in an official communication, that the actual expenses incurred on behalf of the American Peace Commission that represented this country at Paris totalled $1,651,191.09. The President submitted an itemized expense bill which covered all items down to the smallest detail. The largest single item in the bill was $166.17, which was for food, hotel and kitchen supplies, and the smallest was $166.17 for telephone hire.

The message of the President transmitting the expense account was as follows:

"To the Senate and House of Representatives.

"On the 28th of August, 1919, I submitted to the Congress a partial statement of the expenses of the American mission to negotiate peace, which was printed in Senate Document No. 80, Sixty-sixth Congress, first session. It now gives me pleasure to lay before the Congress, for its information, a statement of all the expenditures of the American commission to negotiate peace for the entire period of its existence from Dec. 1, 1918, to Dec. 31, 1919.

"WOODROW WILSON.

"The White House, Dec. 8, 1920."

One of the largest single items in the account is $125,870 for "damages and loss of property at Hotel de Crillon." The Hotel de Crillon was the large building on the Place de la Concorde, where all the American Peace Commissioners and many of the employes of the American commission lived and had their offices during the period of the Peace Conference. The entire hotel was taken over by the United States Government. Very few alterations were made in the hotel. The item of more than $125,000 for damages and loss of property represented the claims of the hotel ownership after the American commission's lease expired. Whether Congress will seek to ascertain why this amount was so large did not develop today.

Commissioners Lansing, House, White and Bliss had apartments in the Hotel de Crillon. A large number of the employes of the American commission took their meals in the hotel, whose restaurant was under American management. It is noted in the statement from President Wilson that all expenses incurred by the wives or other relatives of persons attached to the commission had been refunded promptly. In most instances the refund was in payment of board bills.

A number of the items are for the expenses of various American missions in Europe during the pendency of the Peace Conference, the highest being charged to General McKinstry for "proposed Reparations Commission." The amount was $73,375. The mission to Soviet Russia of William C. Bullitt, who afterward told the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations of confidential conversations with Secretary Lansing, cost an even $5,000.

There were a number of items which gave the amounts expended by Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, all these being listed under the caption "Confidential Expenses of the President." The items credited for this purpose varied in amount from $65 to $1,500.

KENYON RESUMES FIGHT ON PACKERS

Brings Up the Measure for Regulation as Unfinished Business in the Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The Kenyon-Kendrick bill to regulate the packing industry, which is the unfinished business left over from the last session of Congress, was brought up in the Senate today by Senator Kenyon, who in a three-hour speech asserted that the packing business had become a great monopoly threatening to control the food supplies of the nation. He quoted from the reports of the Federal Trade Commission to substantiate his statements and added that much of the unrest now evident among the farmers was probably due to propaganda inspired by those in sympathy with the packers.

Senator Reed took issue with Senator Kenyon and suggested that the present anti-trust laws would, if properly applied, go further in giving the protection demanded than would the proposed regulatory law. The debate will be continued tomorrow and promises to be long drawn out, a vote not being expected before the second week in January, if then. Senator Norris was quoted today as authority for the statement that the friends of the bill have enough votes now to pass it.

Senator Kenyon referred to legislation in other countries to protect the people in the same way that the bill now before the Senate is expected to protect Americans. He read from a report of the Federal Trade Commission warning that if unchecked the five great packing concerns would in a few years have a complete monopoly of the food products of this country. They now, it was charged, control the markets in which they purchase their supplies, and that their competitors are at their mercy, as also are producers and consumers.

"The producer," Senator Kenyon said, "is at the mercy of the packer for his market, and this market is not competitive. If the report of the Federal Trade Commission is untrue, as has been charged on the floor, then its members should be removed from office. If, on the other hand, it is true, it deserves the careful consideration of all of us."

Senator Borah said that in view of recent decisions of the Supreme Court he did not believe there was any Sherman anti-trust law left. Senator Kenyon admitted that the value of the anti-trust law has been practically destroyed by the application of the "rule of reason."

FARMERS PRESENT PROGRAM.

Ask Congress for New Tariff, Tax Transportation and Trade Laws.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 8.—The enactment of a legislative program was asked of Congress today by resolutions adopted at the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

As President Senator Harding was requested to appoint a Secretary of Agriculture who has a practical understanding of all phases of farming. The resolutions declared the Federation's opposition to the policy of the Treasury Department and the Federal Reserve Board for deflation, and the request was made that bankers and merchants extend farmers' obligations to give "immediate relief from the present economic crisis" confronting the farmers.

The legislative program asked of Congress the immediate enactment of a new tariff law; simplification of the Income Tax law, with a provision preventing Treasury officials from making interpretative ruling as to the law's application; a law assuring farmers of unrestricted right to bargain collectively; Federal control of all interstate agencies dealing in grain products and meat; the enactment of a truth-in-fabrics bill; legislative prohibition of short selling in agricultural products, and amendment of the Transportation act so as to preserve State regulation of intrastate commerce and car movement. The resolutions also declared opposition to any daylight saving law.

FARM RELIEF BILLS FLOOD CONGRESS

MORTGAGE BANKERS HEARD

Tobacco Growers Demand Relief—War Finance Corporation Revival to Be Called Up Friday.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Proponents of legislation to revive the War Finance Corporation and thereby afford relief to farmers confronted by falling prices plan to call up their measure in the Senate Friday and ask for its immediate passage. Senator Gronna, Republican, of North Dakota, in charge of the resolution, gave this notice today in asking that the Senate let the resolution go over until the later date.

Supporters of the measure said they had received assurances that Senate leaders would not oppose the measure, which can be brought up either by unanimous consent or by majority vote.

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska introduced his bill proposing that the earnings of the Federal Reserve banks this year, totalling about $70,000,000, be made available for loans to farmers.

The flood of bills to extend relief to farmers continued in the House. Among the various measures was a bill by Representative Strong, Republican, of Kansas, directing the Committee on Banking and Currency to investigate what legislation would be necessary to permit the "proper financing" of farmers and stock raisers.

Representative Lee, Democrat, of Georgia, put in a bill authorizing the Federal Reserve Board to take action necessary to extend liberal credits to cotton farmers, while Representative Baer, Republican, of North Dakota, reintroduced his measure which would prohibit gambling in foodstuffs and speculation in stocks and bonds. Representative Caraway, Democrat, of Arkansas, offered a bill to prevent the sale of cotton and grain in future markets.

The Committee on Agriculture resumed its hearings with a view to framing additional relief measures and was told by Virginia and North Carolina tobacco growers that they were in the same plight as other agricultural interests. Tobacco men will be heard again tomorrow, and Friday wool growers from the West will present their difficulties.

The committee also heard representatives of the Farm Mortgage Bankers' Association of America, who said in a statement:

"There can be no valid objection to the farmer bearing his just share of the burden of deflation which the entire world now confronts. The point at issue is that the farmer is obviously bearing an undue share of the burden at the present time, with results which threaten not only hardship to the farmer, but virtual bankruptcy in many quarters, both to the farmer and his creditors. Such a result would be a national disaster, threatening business chaos and the future food supply of the country and the world.

"In the face of such a crisis the members of the Farm Mortgage Bankers' Association feel a very special obligation rests on them to emphasize the problem and to contribute to its solution the best wisdom of fifty years of financing the farmer can supply."

The remedies proposed by the bankers were described by F. W. Thompson of Chicago, who said:

"Some plan is needed to relieve the banks in the reserve centres of their present load of paper eligible for discount with the Federal Reserve banks. If the banks in the reserve centres could transfer this burden to some other agency for a year's time, there would be released an entirely adequate amount of credit for present needs both of agriculture and general business, and for the relief of country banks which now are compelled to exercise undue pressure on their customers, and, worse still, to refuse to furnish their farmer customers essential credit for their operations."

It was then asserted that the War Finance Corporation was the best available agency and should immediately take over this burden. Foreign countries, it was contended, would become immediate purchasers of American cotton, grain and foodstuffs, provided they could be financed, which it was believed could be done by the War Finance Corporation.

"It was also suggested "that the farmers be urged to sell at once part of their holdings, from 10 to 25 per cent. preferably, and such a partial liquidation will itself greatly relieve the strain in the marketing of accumulated stocks."

"We would also again emphasize the feeling," ended Mr. Thompson, "that the present situation is chiefly due to lack of confidence and the present strain on our credit facilities. We believe the initiation of the proposed relief measures will restore confidence and bring relief through the ordinary channels of trade to such an extent that the actual use of the measures proposed will be comparatively limited."

Master Tailors to Open More Shops.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 8.—Two co-operative tailor shops, in addition to the two already established, will be opened here, the Master Tailors' Association announced today. Price reductions of from $10 to $15 a suit are expected to result from the enterprise, it was added.

was denied by Samuel Gompers, President of the A. F. of L. And now Gompers is in a campaign to throw out and bar radicals from the organization.

"I hope he succeeds, but I think that you, and all of us, must do our part to stay the progress of this propaganda, which is most insidious and dangerous. Radical organizations are growing all the time, and it is our duty to combat them everywhere—in business organizations, in civic organizations, and in the churches and schools. The job of Americanizing America should not be left to Gompers—it's everybody's."

About 500 diners applauded and cheered Governor Cornwell during his speech and as he took his seat after finishing. They also applauded the eulogy of the Governor uttered by Samuel McRoberts, banker and former Brigadier General in the A. E. F., who, as President of the Southern Society, introduced the speaker.

Other speakers were Martin W. Littleton and Clark Howell, editor of The Atlanta Constitution. Among those at the guest table were Frank L. Polk, Alexander J. Hemphill, Gaston Liebert, French Consul General here, and representatives of several patriotic societies.

THREE INDICTMENTS FOF MINGO MURDERS

Grand Jury Names Alleged Slayers of Constable and Union Men.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Dec. 8.—An Extraordinary Grand Jury found three indictments for murder in the first degree today in cases growing out of the strike feuds in the Mingo County coal field. Judge R. D. Bailey of the Circuit Court set the trials for next week. The indictments were returned against Taylor Cole, charged witht the murder of State Constable E. Lee Ripley on Nov. 18, and against Taylor Muncy and "Dutch" Frost, who were arrested for the shooting of two union men, Erwin Elkins and his brother Joseph, on a Norfolk & Western passenger train on Nov. 23.

From a report filed today by Captain J. R. Brockus of the State police it was established that John B. Marcum, who was found dead beside the Norfolk & Western track, near Breeden, on Monday morning, had been killed by a detachment of the State Constabulary, which had been dispatched to this section of Mingo County, for many weeks infested with outlaws, to clean out the gang responsible for violations of the law, ranging from moonshining and whisky-running to train robbery.

According to the report Marcum was killed while escaping after being declared under arrest by one of Captain Brockus's men, who encountered him riding in the engine cab of a train on which ten of the State troopers were traveling while patroling the troubled section. Marcum, when ordered to throw up his hands and submit to arrest, jumped from the engine and was running along the track, drawing his revolver as he ran, when one of the troopers shot him in the back with a riot gun. Only one shot was fired.

It appears from the report that the State troopers failed to make a search for Marcum's body because they feared that members of the criminal gang might be concealed on the mountainside and make trouble under the cover of darkness. Another indication of the nervousness that prevails, even among the agents of law and order themselves, is found in the fact that the identity of the trooper who shot Marcum is being concealed.

Captain Brockus reported that he was on one side of the engine and that the shot was fired from the other side. When the members of the detachment boarded the train again they handed their rifles and shot guns to the first man who got on. Through this process the weapons were mixed beyond any possibility of establishing who it was that fired the shot. The inference drawn here from the tenor of the report was that the identity of the man who put a halt to Marcum's career was being withheld, so that he might not be singled out for retaliation at the hands of Marcum's followers.

No trace had been found tonight of Henry Sizemore, who shot Deputy Sheriff "Eb" Whitt of Pike County at the Black Diamond mine over on the Kentucky shore of the Tug River last night. Superintendent Bailey, who was at the mine and ordered Whitt to arrest Sizemore, said this afternoon he had learned definitely that the desperado had boarded an east-going freight on the Norfolk & Western late last night and made his escape.

Eleven shots were fired, five by Sizemore and six by the Deputy Sheriff, who, it appears, was a little slow in drawing his pistol. Sizemore while fleeing, it was learned tonight, halted at the home of another miner. He approached the house with his revolver drawn and kept the miner covered while enforcing a demand for something with which to bind up his wounds. Sizemore, according to the report, said he had been shot twice, that one of the bullets had entered his body and one taken effect in his right arm. Deputy Sheriff Whitt, however, stated today that the wound in the arm was the only one Sizemore had received, adding apologetically that he had been wounded when he fired and consequently was a little shaky.

Colonel Herman Hall, in command of the Federal troops, said tonight that reports received at his headquarters here during the day showed that there had been no disturbances anywhere within the military control zone.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Dec. 8 (Associated Press).—Assurance has been given by Governor Morrow of Kentucky to United Mine Workers' officials that protection will be afforded the striking miners in removing tents from Freeburn, Ky., to Vulcan, W. Va., where they will be used by miners without homes, according to announcement today. The tents will be removed at once, David Fowler, international representative said.

A half dozen mines in the strike area are still idle, it was announced at the offices of the Williamson Coal Operators' Association. Favorable reports as to the operation of four mines started within the week continue, the operators said.

GREEN ATTACKS CORNWELL.

Union Official Says Governor Knows Operators Employ Gunmen.

Special to the New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 8.—Governor Cornwell of West Virginia cannot deny knowledge of the presence of hired gunmen and thugs in the West Virginia coal fields, where they are employed by coal companies, said William Green, International Secretary-Treasurer of the United Mine workers of America, this afternoon, on behalf of the International Executive Board, in reply to a statement by the Governor.

"Laboring men who have been the victims of the brutality of these guards have been presented to the Governor," said Green in his statement. "They were brought to his office in the State House at Charleston, W. Va., so he could see their bruised bodies and broken bones. Men whose bodies were bandaged, still suffering from attacks made by Baldwin-Felts detectives, and who had been beaten into insensibility and left for dead, were brought to the Governor as living exhibits of the murderous attacks made by private guards employed and paid by coal corporations in West Virginia. These are incontrovertible facts and cannot be dismissed as 'lying propaganda.' The Governor dare not deny this is true.

"Representatives of the miners and other citizens of West Virginia have appealed to the Governor for the removal of these gunmen, who control some sections of West Virginia, and his answer has always been that he is powerless to act. To be specific, we charge that in McDowell and Mercer Counties, West Virginia, hundreds of armed detectives or gunmen are employed by coal corporations; that this private corporation-owned army will not allow certain citizens of these communities who are members of the United Mine Workers of America to enjoy their constitutional and civil rights.

"These mining sections are contiguous to and regarded as a part of the commonly called Williamson coal district. Will Governor Cornwell dare deny this charge?

"The Governor of West Virginia has failed miserably to give all citizens equal protection of the law. Property rights have been made superior to human rights. The United Mine Workers of America have fought against armed guards, thugs, and gunmen in the Cabin Creek and Paint Creek districts of West Virginia. They are now fighting against them in Mingo, McDowell, and Mercer counties."

Coal operators in Alabama and Mingo County, W. Va., are determined to fight the striking miners in those regions "to a finish," said a statement issued last night by George Dexter, director of the New York Wholesale Coal Trade Association. Mr. Dexter, who owns four mines and who has just returned from the strike districts, said:

"Less than 10 per cent. of the miners have joined the union and by their murderous tactics they are attempting to force the other 90 per cent. to join their organization. Most of the fighting is being done from ambush in traditional feudal fashion, but the introduction of troops is gradually bringing order out of chaos.

"The producers are determined to continue the fight on the unionizing of the men against their will, until the union concedes defeat."

the campaign. While the fears of these Senators that the President-elect's speech might arouse discord in the slender majority of the upper house were not realized, Senator Harding, in denying the existence of a "Senate oligarchy," gave a warning that none would be tolerated under his administration.

It has been generally noted that in many important matters Senator Harding is a "last-minute man." Such were the circumstances of his nomination at Chicago, and in virtually all important questions during his campaign he deferred decision until all sides had been heard. Those close to him assert that the President-elect will not announce his complete Cabinet until February, and they believe that if there is a temporary slate of two or three names there is a possibility of its being changed frequently until all Cabinet appointments are made public.

The indications are that Republican leaders, especially in the Senate, would not welcome early announcement of Cabinet posts that might endanger party harmony. Rumors of sectional coalitions have made them "jumpy." Despite opposing opinions concerning the League of Nations, the party was held together during the campaign through the postponement of offering a detailed plan for an association of nations, and it is known that some Republicans active in the direction of party policies hope for the sake of concert in the Senate majority that early Cabinet selections will not be made.

Free Tolls for Coast Ships Urged.

"It is a notable but not a surprising fact that some of the newspapers that were most zealous in their advocacy of the United States entering the League of Nations as framed by President Wilson are now upholding the attitude of Great Britain toward the question of tolls for American shipping through the Panama Canal.

"In any effort of the Republican Congress to restore to the United States its right to promote its merchant marine by granting free tolls for coastwise shipping through the canal, the contest of 1913 over this important question would be fought over again. The provisions of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and the proper interpretation of the language of the provisions will once more be thoroughly discussed both in and out of Congress.

"Among other things the Hay-Pauncefote treaty provided:

> The canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and war of all nations observing these rules, on terms of entire equality, so that there shall be no discrimination against any such nation or its citizens or subjects in respect of the conditions or charges of traffic or otherwise. Such conditions and charges of traffic shall be just and equitable.

"There has always been room for dispute as to whether the United States should be included in 'all nations observing these rules.' It was the contention of one side of the dispute that this language meant all nations except the United States, for the reason that the United States owns the canal, adopts the rules, collects tolls and sits as judge as to compliance with the regulations. There is room for contention, however, that Great Britain understood that ships of the United States would be required to pay tolls when engaged in commerce in competition with the ships of that nation.

"But the act of Congress which granted free tolls to American shipping did not apply to shipping engaged in foreign commerce. It applied only to coastwise shipping, from participation in which Great Britain and other foreign nations were excluded. There would be no discrimination against foreign shipping if the United States should fail to collect tolls from American merchant ships engaged in coastwise trade.

"There could be no reason, therefore, why Great Britain should object to the exemption of American ships from the payment of the charge for passage through the canal. During the war foreign ships were permitted temporarily to enter the coastwise trade of the United States, but that privilege is to be withdrawn hereafter. Therefore, it will be immaterial to British ships whether the United States does or does not collect tolls from American ships engaged only in coastwise trade."

MACSWINEY'S SISTER ATTACKS BRITISH

Tells Villard Committee That Britain Foments Religious Dissension in Ireland.

SAYS WE ARE DECEIVED

We "Made the World Safe for England, Not for Democracy," She Declares.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Charges that the British Government had kept alive and continuously stirred religious hatred in Ireland and had sought through a "reign of terror" to starve that country into submission, brought to a conclusion eight hours of testimony today by Miss Mary MacSwiney, sister of the late Lord Mayor of Cork, before the commission from the Villard Committee of One Hundred investigating the Irish question.

Miss MacSwiney told the commission that she and Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, the Lord Mayor's widow, had come from Ireland to "aid the commission in obtaining the true facts." She made the prediction that Ireland would gain its freedom, even though "England had to be beaten to the ground." Her sister-in-law will be heard tomorrow.

Miss MacSwiney punctuated her story of the movement for Irish freedom with the assertion that the United States had not lived up to its ideal of "making the world safe for democracy."

"We are not disturbers," the witness said. "We want just to be left alone. We are not using coercion and we will not be coerced. We simply want England to clear out. We'll forgive her of everything if she will only leave us alone."

"We are going to get our freedom," she continued. "That every Irish Republican knows, for you cannot keep in continual slavery a people, every one of whom is ready to die for his country."

Miss MacSwiney recounted instances which she said proved that the British Government was deliberately firing religious hatreds, and added that there would be no religious differences "if the Protestants and Catholics were left without outside interference."

"The Irish have not persecuted anybody, she asserted, adding that the peace and prosperity of the large Jewish quarters in Cork and Dublin attested to that fact. The witness said that "where there are no Black and Tan police there reigns peace and prosperity and a satisfied population."

"The British Government," Miss MacSwiney continued, "has instituted a reign of terror in Ireland. It seeks to destroy property and to throw people out of work. It wants to starve us into submission. The Irish people don't want war. If England will get out we will establish prosperity in our republic. We will keep our ports open and promise to let none use them as a war base."

Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, a member of the commission, propounding a series of questions, led the witness to declare that a de facto government had been created in Ireland and that under it the citizens of the provisional republic sought to govern themselves. Also under his questioning, Miss MacSwiney said that the British courts "sat behind barbed wire barricades and sandbags, surrounded by a regiment of soldiers waiting for cases which never come," while the Irish Republicans, she said, turn their controversies over to their own courts, sitting in secret, and abide by their decisions without further litigation.

Senator Walsh asked the witness to place in the record all facts concerning the formation of the provisional republic, its declaration of independence and its methods of dealing with the people. Another question from the Massachusetts Senator brought the declaration that the history of the Government's creation found an exact parallel in the Declaration of Independence by the Thirteen American Colonies. To this she added that, as was the case with America's early struggles, France was looked upon as the best friend of the Irish freedom movement.

To her statement that America "had not made the world safe for democracy, but had made it safe for only a short time and especially for the British Empire," Miss MacSwiney added:

"You have sheathed the sword when England got what she wanted. The world has been made safe for a little while, but when England gets control of all oil, all coal and all else that she wants there will be other troubles."

Miss MacSwiney told the commission that she strongly protested "against the insinuations that my fellow-republicans in Ireland did anything to secure the aid of the Central Powers" during the war. "They did not," she said; "but if they had been able to do so they would have done so," adding that France was glad to get English gold to help her in the war and that England was equally glad to obtain American gold to aid her.

"Any nation," the witness continued, "has the right to take gold from another when it is at war. But let me make myself clear: If Germany tried to take Ireland, we would fight Germany just as hard, just as long and just as earnestly and just as successfully as we have fought England."

NO AMNESTY OR TRUCE FOR IRISH EXTREMISTS

Report Cabinet Is Prepared to Announce This Decision as Reply to O'Flanagan.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The recent message of the Rev. Father O'Flanagan of Roscommon to Premier Lloyd George concerning a truce in the Irish situation is understood to have been under consideration by the Cabinet this morning. The knotty problem said to be confronting the Government is whether Father O'Flanagan represents the full force of Sinn Fein moderate opinion. It is stated on high authority that if it is decided that Father O'Flanagan does represent such opinion the Government will reply to his message with a statement embodying the following terms: "No amnety, no republic and a cessation from the present campaign of outrage and murder."

The opinion was expressed today by some students of the Irish problem here that the repudiation of Father O'Flanagan's message by a section of the Sinn Fein had its origin in a desire for amnesty for certain Sinn Feiners who are fugitives from justice.

Arthur Henderson, labor leader, did not see Premier Lloyd George today, and neither Mr. Henderson nor William Adamson will return to Ireland. It is expected that the Labor Commission, of which they were members, and which has been investigating conditions in that country, will return to London next Tuesday. Its intervention in favor of a truce, it is understood, has been unsuccessful.

Mr. Henderson, questioned on this subject by the Parliamentary correspondent of The London Times tonight, replied: "I am not returning to Ireland; you can draw your own conclusions."

CORK, Dec. 8.—Warning of possible danger along the road to Tralee was given the party of British labor representatives investigating Irish conditions today when the labor men announced their expectation of leaving for Tralee by motor this afternoon, accompanied by a party of American and British journalists. The authorities told the delegation and the newspaper men they had best proceed slowly, owing to the possibility of encountering trenches cut in the road. They also stated that information had been received in Cork indicating that the road had been mined at several places in County Kerry.

Aside from raids on private houses and intermittent rifle and revolver firing in various parts of the city, last night passed quietly here. The usual military curfew patrol was reinforced and numerous raids and searches were carried out in the western part of Cork.

MAY SEND PROTEST ABOUT DE VALERA

America of Professor Eamon de Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," according to a statement made today by Andrew Bonar Law, Government leader in the House of Commons, in response to questions.

Horatio Bottomley, Liberal, later asked whether the time had not arrived when Great Britain should make serious representations to the American Government that any further toleration of de Valera and the conferring on him of municipal honors was an unfriendly act. This was greeted by cries of "No!"

Mr. Bonar Law answered: "I think there is no doubt that we would, from the diplomatic point of view, have the right to take the course suggested; but it is not a question of a right, but of what is expedient."

Responding to another query Bonar Law said: "Undoubtedly a very severe campaign is being conducted in America against this country, but so far we have found the Americans can be trusted to look at the matter from a reasonable point of view."

Eamon de Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," who has been ill here for several days, yesterday dictated from his sick bed a statement dealing with the announcement by Andrew Bonar Law in the House of Commons that the British Government was considering asking the United States to take official notice of de Valera's "anti-British" activities in America.

"I do not think that the British Government will, in fact, make any official representations to the American Government, because even the British Government well knows that my activities have been not anti-British, but pro-Irish," said Mr. de Valera.

"I have simply advocated Ireland's right to justice. If there are forces disturbing Anglo-American relations, they are not of Irish origin, but fundamentally of English origin. If Britain wants to continue to overrun Ireland with the Black and Tans and to massacre the Irish people until even British generals and British statesmen themselves are compelled to cry out that their barbarities have been worse than those of the Bashi-Bazouks, surely Britain does not expect that the people of any self-respecting nation can covet her friendship.

"The instigation by Bonar Law and Lloyd George of the assassination of Irishmen and the murder of women and children, the wholesale burnings of Irish towns and vallages, the general destruction of property and of crops and the attempted dislocation of the whole civil and economic life of the country, with the idea of compelling, through anarchy and starvation, the surrender of Ireland's right to liberty—those are the things that are causing the disturbance of Anglo-American friendship, because they reveal how hypocritical were the professions of British statesmen during the war, when they said that England's ideals were the same as those of America."

De Valera asserted that no British protest to the United States concerning him would cause him in any way to modify his plans here.

"All my activities here have been within recognized American law and custom," he said.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 8.—Dispatches this afternoon saying that Andrew Bonar Law announced in the House of Commons that his Government might ask the United States to take official cognizance of the activities in this country of Eamon de Valera, were called to the attention of the State Department.

Norman H. Davis, Under Secretary of State, refused to comment until he had received official advices through the customary channels.

There was some surmise tonight that the British Government may have made such a request and that this may have something to do with the reported refusal to visé the passports of the Villard committee.

TO TAKE DUBLIN CITY OFFICES.

Military Order Departments to Make Room for Officers' Barracks.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Dec. 8.—From Monday next the municipal buildings in Dublin now occupied by the Rates Department, City Treasurer's Department, Estates and Finance Committee, Public Health Department, Accountants Department, Telephone Exchange and Engineering and Veterinary Departments, are to be taken over by the military. The effect, it is declared, will be practical disorganization of the municipal departments, which have to evacuate before Monday. The officials have no alternative accommodation for their staffs.

It is understood that the authorities intend to convert the buildings into a hostel for officers, for whom there is no room in barracks. The danger to officers from being quartered in separate private residences was tragically demonstrated by the recent murders.

SAY GREENWOOD BENDS PREMIER ON IRELAND

Observers Remark That the Irish Secretary Has Proven 'Strong Man' Lloyd George Wanted.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Premier Lloyd George's position in regard to Ireland was likened today to that of a man who was being carried in his own motor car along a road on which he didn't wish to travel by a chauffeur of his own choosing.

When the Prime Minister asked Sir Hamar Greenwood to undertake the work of the Irish Secretaryship he was chiefly influenced by two reasons, both equally good and honorable. Sir Hamar was his personal friend and the Premier wished to give him the advancement to which his services entitled him. At the same time Mr. Lloyd George believed Greenwood to be a strong man who would handle the difficult position at least as well as, if not better than, some of his predecessors.

Sir Hamar accepted what promised to be a somewhat thankless task, partly, as he said at the time, because of his personal relations with his chief, who had claimed his assistance. Sir Hamar, according to information received by THE NEW YORK TIMES, has now justified Mr. Lloyd George's belief in him as a strong man by bending the Premier's will to his. Mr. Lloyd George's aspirations toward peace in Ireland have not been allowed their fullest development owing to the opposition of his nominee. The Premier's anxiety to see avenues to peace opened up has come in conflict with the unyielding attitude of the Irish Secretary and, according to today's reports, Mr. Lloyd George has himself abandoned hope of any good results from his own conversation with Russell or the efforts of the British labor delegation in Ireland.

Sir Hamar Greenwood will not agree that moderate elements in the Sinn Fein can guarantee anything in respect to the extremist element, and at the same time he is convinced that the present policy of suppression of the extremist section is bound to win.

There can be no truce with murder, nor any negotiation with people more than inclined to find excuses for murder, even when they are not actually sympathetic. That is Sir Hamar Greenwood's view, and he has succeeded in impressing it not only upon the members of the Cabinet generally, but even upon Mr. Lloyd George himself.

CAPTURE SINN FEINERS TRYING TO BUY ARMS

Two Are Said to Have Offered £550 to a Scotch Corporal for Machine Guns.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GLASGOW, Dec. 8.—Rigorous inquiries by the Scottish police into armed plots in the Sinn Fein interest are having daily developments. Two men, James Fagan and Robert O'Donnell, were charged at Mary Hill Police Court, Glasgow, today with having solicited an army Corporal to sell to them a number of machine guns, 500 rifles and a quantity of ammunition. Deputy Fiscal said his information was that the material was for the use of the Sinn Fein. A sum of £550 was tendered for delivery of the rifles and ammunition and £15 to £20 each for the machine guns. The case was adjourned until Dec. 21.

Four men have been taken into custody by the Clydebank police on suspicion of acting on behalf of the Sinn Fein. It is understood that some of the men sought to purchase rifles from the local Territorials.

Three brothers were brought before the St. Rollox Magistrate this morning on a charge of having conspired against his Majesty's Government in a motor garage by repairing cars for Sinn Fein movements. They were remitted to a higher court. It is believed that the arrests are the outcome of a daring attempt to convey explosives from Alloa to Glasgow on Saturday last, when two men were captured in a car containing several hundredweights of gelignite as well as rifles and other destructive material.

WILSON TO MEDIATE WITHOUT ASSISTANCE

Special to the New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—President Wilson is awaiting a reply from the League of Nations to his inquiry concerning the avenues he may use in his efforts to mediate between Armenia and the Turkish Nationalists before taking a further step.

The President expects to receive the co-operation and support of the principal allied powers in his task and looks to these nations to support morally and diplomatically the efforts of his representative. It is understood, however, that Brazil and Spain will not be required to appoint delegates to act with President Wilson's agent in the mediatory undertaking.

This Government is conducting an inquiry, independent of the Council's investigation, to discover the most promising way to proceed with the mediation. This Government's representatives at Constantinople are considered to be in an excellent position to make a quick survey of the field as it is observed from Constantinople, and it is possible that they may get in touch with Mustapha Kemal himself in a short time. The State Department has a representative at Tiflis and the navy destroyer at Batum.

The State Department is expected to make public at an early date the text of the definition of the boundaries of Armenia as fixed by President Wilson at the invitation of the signatories to the Treaty of Sèvres, which established peace between Turkey and the allied countries. The boundary document was so lengthy that it was mailed to the signatories of the Sèvres treaty.

REPORT ALL ARMENIA RED.

Azerbaijan Said to Have Been Ceded to Her—Georgia May Follow.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 8.—Unconfirmed reports received here say that the whole of Armenia has gone Bolshevist.

The reports add that Soviet Azerbaijan has been ceded to Soviet Armenia and that it is expected Georgia will follow Armenia's lead and adopt Bolshevism.

A dispatch from Constantinople last Sunday said the allied Commissioners there were showing no surprise at an announcement that a Soviet Government had been set up in Armenia, following the capture of Erivan, the capital of Armenia, by Russian Bolshevist forces the previous Thursday.

It was reported that a Soviet cabinet had been formed at Erivan. The revolutionary troops were said to have met with no resistance, but on the contrary to have been welcomed throughout the republic.

Czernin Confers on Teutonic Union.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 8.—Count Ottokar Czernin von Chudenitz, former Foreign Minister of Austria, is in Berlin discussing with leading politicians the possibility of uniting Germany and Austria following Austria's admission to the League of Nations, says the Berlin correspondent of the Politiken today.

ALLIES' DICTATION MENACES LEYGUES

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

if the League were a European League, but it is a world League. I am very sure that the people of Canada are not ready to turn over control to a European Council.

"It is not that we have not the greatest respect and admiration for European statesmen, but simply that they do not understand our point of view. Even the statesmen of the mother country, for whom we have the greatest respect and affection, we do not permit to settle Canadian affairs. We settle them for ourselves.

Tells of Canada's Sacrifice.

"You may say that we should have confidence in European statesmen. Perhaps we should. But it was European statesmen, European policies and European ambitions that drenched the world in blood and from which the world is suffering and will suffer for generations. Fifty thousand Canadian soldiers under the soil of France and Flanders is what Canada has paid for European statesmanship. Therefore, I submit that we have no right in this International Assembly to part with our control in these matters.

"Do everything necessary that you can this year to grapple with your national economic and financial problems. Summon your conferences and let us see at the next Assembly meeting what the results are, but do not set up a machine which, when once you have started it, you cannot control, and for which you will have to pay in days to come."

It was a remarkable sight—this Canadian statesman making an attack on the old world. A. J. Balfour and H. A. L. Fisher, British delegates, sat up to listen. René Viviani, who was Premier of France when the war began, leaned forward on his elbows, eagerly trying to grasp the full significance of the Canadian's words.

Gabriel Hanotaux replied. "When we bring forward here a carefully prepared report for submission in which highly technical problems are dealt with," he complained, "we are met with an attack on European statesmen. Europe fought for the world. Europe fought for humanity. Do you therefore say that after we have fought in the name of humanity and when we call upon men to help solve these world problems in the name of the League you are going to refuse the call?"

Then came another unruly child of Great Britain's family, Millen, delegate of Australia. He said:

"I have listened to the eloquent words of the distinguished French delegate, but he has not answered the speech made by Mr. Rowell, who, in my opinion, showed clearly that an attempt is being made to put the cart before the horse."

He quoted Article XXIII. of the Covenant and argued that until that had been carried out new bodies should not be created. Without prior agreement, he said, no nation was bound by what the bureaus decided or would contribute to the expense, which would be heavy.

Gustav Ador of Switzerland said that Mr. Rowell had made too much fuss about organizations whose functions were advisory. Their decisions, he pointed out, must be ratified by the Governments before they could become effective. He did not agree that the Assembly was losing control.

Lord Robert Cecil, representing South Africa, said that there was a good deal in Mr. Rowell's argument. He added that it would be disastrous if the League did not obtain agreement and support from nations outside of Europe. Nothing could be more disastrous, he held, than that the idea should spread abroad that the League was a European League and not a world League. He thought that in view of the difficulties the assembly should not commit itself definitely to the form the organizations brought forward in the report.

M. Hanotaux said that the proper place for Mr. Rowell's speech was in committee, and to this Mr. Rowell quickly replied that if the French delegate would look up the report of the committee proceedings he would find that he had made the same speech there, but nobody had wanted to listen. He did not want to be too hard on European statesmen, but to tell them what Canada thought of them. He wanted the Assembly to retain all its powers under the Covenant.

A suggestion was made by a Brazilian delegate that the whole question be referred to another committee. President Hymans, however, said that if the Assembly could not itself deal with prickly questions it would never get to any decision and that the best thing was to continue the debate tomorrow. This decision was agreed to.

Accept Finland and Luxemburg.

GENEVA, Dec. 8 (Associated Press).—The League of Nations Assembly Committee on the Admission of New States today decided in favor of admitting Luxemburg and Finland into the League.

The question of the admission of the Baltic States and Albania was put over for future consideration.

The possibility of conflict between the League and the various powers has arisen as a result of the proposal on Albania, and it is likely to be discussed on the floor of the Assembly. Lord Robert Cecil has insisted stoutly that Albania should be admitted to the League. René Viviani of France and Signor Pagliano of Italy have opposed this step on the ground that Albania has not been recognized by any power, and that admission at this time might interfere with the national policies of some Governments. They were able to secure postponement of Albania's application, but Lord Robert reserved the right to continue the discussion on the floor of the Assembly.

The commission considering the manner in which the four elective members of the Council shall be chosen has decided they are to be elected for a term of two years. At the expiration of this time they will be eligible for two years more, but after the second term they will be ineligible until after four years have elapsed.

It is expected that the discussion of the scope and powers of the military, naval and aerial commission may develop what connection it may have with the League's international force that is being sent to supervise the plebiscite in Lithuania. On one occasion Lord Robert Cecil referred to this commission as a "staff." This appelation, however, was distasteful to many delegates, who do not care to encourage the idea of the militarization of the League.

When the Assembly meets again next September it will receive a report from a special committee to which Argentina's proposed amendment to the League covenant was referred. All proposed amendments have been sent to this committee.

Some of the principal delegates, wearying of the protracted discussions and somewhat discouraged in their efforts to hasten the work of the Assembly, are talking of going home. The general opinion, however, is that it will be impossible to finish before the end of next week unless the debates are summarily shortened.

PREDICT ARGENTINE REFERENDUM ON LEAGUE

Fierce Controversy Over Withdrawal Question—Pueyrredon in Paris on the Way Home.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 8.—The question of the withdrawal of Argentina from the League of Nations Assembly appears likely to become the subject of bitter political controversy. Predictions are made by some of the newspapers today that the question will be an issue in the next Presidential election, which will be held in March, 1922. Various patriotic and civic organizations are already preparing movements for and against the Government's international policy. The radical party of Buenos Aires announces that it will hold great public demonstrations in front of the Government house in support of President Irigoyen.

On the other hand, prominent Argentinians who during the war organized "the Association of Friends of France and the Allies" have called a meeting to protest against President Irigoyen's policy. They have issued a manifesto declaring that the Argentine delegation at Geneva "has placed the nation in a ridiculous position before all the civilized countries of the world."

Most of the newspapers are criticising the Government for having failed thus far to make any announcement regarding its future policy with respect to the League of Nations.

PARIS, Dec. 8.—Honorio Pueyrredon, head of the Argentine delegation, which withdrew last week from the League of Nations Assembly in Geneva, arrived in Paris today. The remainder of the Argentine delegates remained in Geneva.

"Argentina will be glad to return to the League when the Assembly has seriously considered the amendments in which Argentina is interested," Señor Pueyrredon told the Associated Press shortly after his arrival. "The Argentine Government and I myself think the League has wonderful possibilities, but my country felt as would a partner in a new commercial enterprise who has been refused an active part for one year and so preferred to delay in being a member until that time."

Asked if Argentina would seek membership in the League a year hence, Señor Pueyrredon said that after withdrawing his country could hardly do that, but he hoped Argentina could find some graceful way to become a member. He added:

"The Argentine Parliament is intensely interested in the four amendments we proposed at Geneva, and if the Argentine delegation had continued its membership in the League and returned home without having secured the adoption of any of these amendments or a seat in the Council, there is not much likelihood that our course would have been approved or credits voted."

Señor Pueyrredon, who will remain in Paris a few days before sailing for Argentina, said it was unlikely that he would meet United States Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois, who at present is in Paris, as he doubted they had common interests, he himself being enthusiastic about the League.

Don Marcello de Alvear, Argentine Minister to France, who was one of Argentina's delegates to the League Assembly, will return to Paris from Geneva tomorrow.

to the Commissioner. For the killing of Robert Collins on Jan. 4, 1920, the perpetrator of the murder was arrested and died in prison.

In the case of Lea Branch, on Jan. 3, 1920, the perpetrator was convicted and sentenced to serve twenty years to a life sentence in State Prison.

Denial in Detail.

Further assertions in the Commissioner's statement, denying in each case the truth of the assertions in The Tribune article are:

An arrest was made for the killing of Sylvester Duran on Jan. 5, 1920, and the Grand Jury failed to indict the accused after a plea of justifiable homicide. Two arrests were made for the killing of Mary Signorelli on Jan. 27, 1920. The man arrested for killing Salvatore Scolaro on Jan. 25, 1920, was discharged after a plea of justifiable homicide. In the case of the killing of Henrietta Clark on Jan. 27, 1920, "the perpetrator is known and is a fugitive of justice."

As to the killing of William Sheehan on Jan. 30, 1920, the Commissioner said this homicide was committed in New Jersey.

The murderer of Beneditto Tommilleo on Feb. 17, 1920, was sentenced to two years in prison.

In the case of the murder of Patrolman Henry Immen on Feb. 27, 1920, the trial of the accused is still pending. For the killing of Charles Norton on Feb. 25, 1920, two arrests were made. Two arrests were made for the killing of Francisco Oliva on March 4, 1920. One arrest was made for the killing of Frederick Waters on March 7, 1920, and the trial of the accused is still pending. Seven persons were arrested for the killing of Waldemar Bjergo on March 7, 1920, and the case is awaiting disposition of the court. Coloyero Fossano's slayer is known and is a fugitive from justice, the Commissioner said.

Two more murderers are at large but are known to the police, Mr. Enright said, in the cases of the killing of Vancenzo Campisi and Lorenzo Sarullo on March 25, 1920.

For the killing of Dennis Meehan on March 31, 1920, an arrest was made and the person arrested was discharged. The man who killed Lydia Okum on April 12, 1920, is known and is a fugitive.

For the murder of Concetta Corredo on April 12, 1920, the perpetrator was arrested, convicted and sentenced to serve eight years in State prison. Another murderer at large is the slayer of Charles Cagnio on April 18, 1920, but the Commissioner said the perpetrator was known.

Two persons were arrested for the killing of Ovilio Locilento on April 19, 1920, and ten persons were arrested for the killing of Robert E. Simpson on April 18, 1920. For the killing of Joseph Blumenthal on May 3, 1920, the perpetrator was arrested. An arrest was also made for the killing of Joseph Martino on May 8, 1920, and also in the case of the killing of Vultaggio Brothers on May 11, 1920. Three were arrested following the killing of Eleuterio Rivera on May 13, 1920.

For the killing of Henry J. Clarke on May 16, 1920, the perpetrator is known and is a fugitive from justice, while three other persons, material witnesses, are being held in custody.

An arrest was made for the killing of Salvatore Corraeon May 28, 1920. The murderer of Louis Picopo on June 11, 1920, was arrested.

For the killing of Thomas Garey on June 25, 1920, four persons were arrested and one was convicted and sentenced to prison for life.

The killing of Anthony Kanclarz on June 5, 1920, was followed by one arrest. A man accused of the murder of Alexander Oakes on July 8, 1920, is being held for the Grand Jury.

Five arrests, instead of two, were made for the killing of Frederick C. Eckert on Aug. 21, 1920. Four were arrested for the killing of Felice Simone on Sept. 2, 1920.

An arrest was made for the killing of Alfred Grassino on July 16, 1920, and for the killing of Alberto Benitz on July 22, 1920, and the accused man is being held for the Grand Jury. One arrest was made for the killing of Michael Carana on July 27, 1920.

In the killing of James Gillespie on July 29, 1920, an arrest was made and a material witness is held. Two arrests were made for the killing of William Gill on August 5, 1920, one for the killing of Giovanni Beslim on August 8, 1920, and one for the killing of Joseph Messina on August 12, 1920. Two men were held for the Grand Jury for the killing of Joseph Thomas on August 23, 1920.

Five arrests were made for the killing of Aaron Tanhill on Sept. 4, 1920, one arrest was made for the killing of Frederick Ennis on Sept. 6, 1920, and three for the killing of George McAvoy on Sept. 8, 1920.

Other murder cases in which the commission says one or more arrests were made include the following:

Angelino Tommilio on Sept. 16, 1920; Antonio Labruzzio on Sept. 20, 1920; Charles Lopez on Sept. 24, 1920; Thomas Fox on Sept. 21, 1920; Leung Yung on Nov. 21, 1920, and Frank Barbor, Nov 23, 1920.

Referring to an article published Dec. 4, in which it was asserted that the police suppressed until yesterday news of an assault committed on Henry Steinman of 229 Fulton Street, the Commissioner says that "no such assault or robbery ever occurred."

"A particular effort has been made to show that there has been a 'crime wave' in operation in this city for the last year or more," the Police Commissioner continued. "The crime records of this department show that so far as the four important crimes against persons and property are concerned there has been no increase in crime, and, in fact, there has been a substantial decrease over conditions existing during the previous five years.

"The figures for the last six years are as follows:

Felonious assault—	2,587	2,537	2,354	2,591	3,466	3,203
Assault and robbery—	1,007	1,133	849	864	886	849
Burgl'y.	6,830	7,398	7,412	9,450	9,893	11,611
Total.	10,614	11,292	10,838	13,141	14,431	15,885

The statement then declared that the statistics on murders during the last eleven months did not include the deaths of the thirty-nine persons killed in the Wall Street bomb explosion and indicated that Commissioner Enright is not yet satisfied the explosion was not due to an accident.

"While it is reported that there is a considerable increase in crime throughout the world, including many cities of the United States, conditions in this city have remained normal or slightly subnormal," asserted Mr. Enright. "There have been no serious riots or disturbances of any character. There have been a large number of strikes in progress during the last two years, some of them of large proportions, occupying the entire attention of a large percentage of the force for several weeks at a time, but all of these disturbances have been handled with the utmost efficiency and without serious results so far as the general public is concerned.

"Critical Times" for Police.

"These are critical times for police departments throughout the world, but particularly in large centres of population like the City of New York. There has been no increase in the force of the department since 1913, notwithstanding the fact that nearly a million population has been added to this city since that time. The police problem is becoming more complex all the time. We have passed through a great war, and we have been through the worst part of an anxious post-war period, during all of which time the police force of this city has acquitted itself with commendable efficiency.

"I have the written statement of an officer of the Casualty and Surety Company of New York that there has been no recent increase in burglary insurance rates in this city, excepting that an additional 20 cents per thousand has been charged for policies amounting to $1,000 or less in other cities of the country, to wit, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis. There has been an increase in rates for residence burglary insurance from $27.50 to $40 and on apartment house insurance from $30 to $50. There has been no corresponding increase in the general rates in this city.

"Of course, we all realize that we are entering that hysterical and also interesting season for muck-raking, roasting and lying, which always precedes a municipal campaign in the City of New York. The pride, prestige and efficiency of the city and police administration are quite unimportant so long as the muckrakers and their entourage of job-hunters are given an opportunity to get the jobs."

BANDIT ATTACKS BOY IN HOTEL COMMODORE

Youth's Skull Fractured and $50 Taken—Woman Robbed of Gems in Apartment.

Early yesterday the clerk in the Hotel Commodore was requested by "James Wilson of Boston," a guest, to send a bellboy to his room with change for $50. Paul Cadieux was sent.

About three hours later, shortly after 8 o'clock, a maid heard groans in "Wilson's" room. She found the door locked, and notified the manager.

When the door was opened with a pass-key the bellboy, 18 years old, was found unconscious on the floor, with a deep cut on his head. After being revived by the hotel physician the youth said he gave the money to the guest and was waiting for the $50 bill when the man struck him on the head with what he believed was a blackjack.

Cadieux was taken to Flower Hospital, where it was discovered he had suffered a fracture of the skull.

Mrs. Edward H. Greenburg, wife of a manufacturer, was preparing a meal at noon Monday in her apartment on the first floor of 2,105 Mohegan Avenue, the Bronx, when a muscularly built negro entered the kitchen. Pointing a pistol at her, the negro demanded that she lead him to her jewels.

Mrs. Greenburg's daughters, Ethel, 6 years old, and Rae, 5, and her niece, Annie Karp, 5, were seated at the table in the dining room when the man entered.

One of the children screamed when she saw the negro's pistol, but the intruder warned the mother that if she didn't silence the child he would kill her. Mrs. Greenburg later told detectives she pleaded with the children not to alarm the neighbors, and then led the negro to a bureau drawer, in which was a handbag containing $4,700 in jewelry and $60 in bills.

As the robber was leaving the apartment, Mrs. Greenburg pleaded with him not to take her platinum wedding ring. The negro, she said, returned the ring and all the money to her. He kept the rest of the jewelry.

The apartment house is near a lot at Mohegan Avenue and 181st Street, and, according to Mrs. Greenberg and several neighbors, the negro fled through the apartment house court yard and escaped by way of the lot.

Magistrate Nolan, in Harlem Court, held Albert Duncan, 32 years old, of 2,022 Second Avenue, in $10,000 bail for hearing tomorrow on a charge of holding up and robbing James Joyce, proprietor of a grocery at 1,991 Lexington Avenue.

Mr. Joyce told the Magistrate that on Monday night Duncan and two other men entered his store. While Duncan held a pistol to his head the other men went to the cash register. Mr. Joyce was standing behind the counter and, he said, when Duncan turned for an instant, he threw a can of tomatoes that struck the hold-up man on the head. Then he pounced on Duncan, he said, and wrested the pistol from him. During the struggle the other robbers fled. He held Duncan until a policeman arrived.

Detective Finn of the West Thirty-seventh Street Station, who for the last two weeks has been investigating the murders of Lee Vaughn Waters and Frank Barbor, last night arrested Frank T. Cianci, 20 years old, of 60 Manhattan Avenue, on a charge of being an accomplice in the killing of John Rice of 225 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, in a hold-up last October at 203 Leonard Street, Brooklyn.

RIGHT TO CARRY PISTOLS.

Philadelphia Judge Comments on Need of Defense Against Bandits.

Special to the New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 8.—Judge Audenried today gave approval to the carrying of revolvers during the present outbreak of lawlessness. He gave his opinion on the carrying of weapons in court during proceedings looking to the release of John Angenent, the young Dutch sailor, who shot two bandits the morning of Nov. 28.

Angenent was taken into custody this morning in accordance with the District Attorney's move to effect the sailor's release from prison. Judge Audenried approved the request that Angenent be freed.

Joseph Taulane, Assistant District Attorney, questioned Angenent as to why he was carrying a gun at the time he was held up by the bandits, who are still in the hospital as a result of the reception he gave them.

Before the sailor could reply, Judge Audenried remarked:

"Almost anybody would carry a pistol after reading of the many acts of banditry and the failure of the police to catch many of the lawbreakers."

The man we want isn't necessarily looking for a job—nor is he so satisfied with his outlook on life that opportunity means nothing to him.

He is 30 to 35 years old—Probably university trained and has had several years selling expeience either as salesman or director of sales with some progressive company.

He is mentally alert and has proved that he has sales ability of the highest order.

He must be able to assume authority and responsibility with modesty and know how to work with and as one of a thoroughly efficient organization.

Salary to be discussed later, but we do not want a man who hasn't proved to the satisfaction of others that he is worth $5000 a year.

Only written applications will be received. Make it in detail, be sure it will be treated in confidence and address it to Y 2099 Times Annex.

If your reply is considered favorably an interview will be arranged at a mutually convenient time and place.

A Subject for the Consideration of Bankers

Three recent typical incidents of the way some money goes. Will your bank be next?

"A man in a shoddy suit, his face creased with lines of worry, made his way up to the bench of Judge McDonald in the Criminal Court. 'I want to enter a plea of guilty, right away,' he said. The man was James M. Miles, former vice-president of the Standard Trust and Savings Bank.

"Miles pleaded guilty to absconding in November, 1919, with approximately $300,000 of the bank's funds and was sentenced immediately to the penitentiary for an indeterminate term of from one to ten years."
—Chicago, Ill.

"Gustave Klingenstein, who was on trial in the United States Court for the past week for aiding and abetting his son in embezzeling the funds of the First National Bank of the Town of Union, was found guilty on three of the twenty-four counts against him in the two indictments found by a federal grand jury.

"The jury in rendering its verdict to Judge Rellstab last night, strongly recommended mercy.

"Adolph Klingenstein, former teller in the First National Bank, is serving a five-year sentence at Atlanta, Georgia, having confessed to embezzling $155,000. The bank officials claim that his shortage amounts to $350,000."
Trenton, N. J.

"Leslie W. Burdick, former cashier of the First National Bank of Gouverneur, N. Y., pleaded guilty today before Federal Judge Cooper to a charge of embezzlement and misapplication of the bank's funds. He was arrested in London, England in July. He was sentenced to Atlanta penitentiary to serve three years and to pay a fine of $10,000. Original embezzlements totalled $75,000, but it was announced that the bank had recovered most of the loss."
—Auburn, N. Y.

Such losses as the above occur constantly. When they do, someone must make them good. Is there any reason why bank directors and officers should personally make good such losses to their depositors when an F & D Bankers' Blanket Bond will relieve them of personal responsibility when such contingencies arise.

Every Banker and every Bank Depositor needs the protection afforded by an F & D Bankers' Blanket Bond. This Bond covers dishonesty of employes, robbery, burglary, hold-up, destruction of money or securities, and misplacement of cash or paper.

In case of loss, this Bond also insures the prompt payment of claims without refuge behind technicalities.

LYONS ASKS AIDS TO CURB MOTORISTS

New Secretary of State Says Licensing Force Is Inadequate to Bar Reckless Drivers.

McADOO WANTS MORE POLICE

Would Increase Traffic Squad by 1,500—Magistrates Free Maimers, Says Le Brun.

The traffic problem in this city and State, which becomes more serious with the ever increasing number of motor vehicles, was discussed informally for three hours yesterday afternoon by a group of a dozen city and State officials and representatives of civic bodies at a luncheon at the Hotel Wolcott given to J. J. Lyons, the newly elected Secretary of State, by the Highways Protective Association.

The consensus was that very little additional legislation is needed, as the Secretary of State is given wide discretionary powers in the licensing of automobile operators, &c., but has been hampered because of the lack of a sufficient staff, having for the entire State only five inspectors.

Mr. Lyons declared that it is impossible for the present limited force to handle the job, and that unless he was given "adequate tools with which to work" he would resign from office.

Mr. Lyons was called upon by Colonel Edward L. Cornell, who presided, after talks had been made by Chief City Magistrate William McAdoo, Magistrate Frederick B. House of the Traffic Court, Inspector O'Brien of the Police Department, George Le Brun, Secretary of Medical Examiner Norris, F. W. De Beard of the Merchants' Association, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Benjamin J. Fyon of Pennsylvania, Commissioner William L. Dill of New Jersey.

Almost every angle of the problem was touched upon during the roundtable discussion. Chief Magistrate McAdoo stressed the importance of having a traffic policeman on every corner where traffic is at all heavy. There are 29,000 corners in the city, it was said, and only 700 of these are attended by traffic officers. He urged that 1,500 new traffic "cops" be put on duty.

Speaking of the law with respect to punishment for those who run down and kill or maim, Judge McAdoo said that if a driver kills a man he may be tried for culpable negligence, which is manslaughter, but if he maims a person there is hardly any hope of a conviction. There are only two known convictions on account of injuries inflicted.

George Le Brun, Secretary of the Chief Medical Examiner, gave an analysis of 102 fatalities of the last year. He said that 80 per cent. occurred in the city where no one would think of having a traffic officer stationed; 40 per cent. occurred between 8 P. M. and 10 A. M.; two-thirds were between crossings, and one-half of these were children under 12 years old. He did not think that the number would be decreased by increasing the Traffic Squad.

Nearly 600 homicide cases were investigated, but in a majority of the cases brought before Magistrates there was a perfunctory examination and the cases dropped. He said he thought that no more than 15 or 20 licenses of persons responsible for the 702 fatalities had been revoked.

SURGEON MUST PAY $10,000.

Woman Gets Verdict Because Gauze Was Left in Her Wound.

Special to the New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Mrs. Hulda Anderson, wife of Gust A. Anderson, a letter carrier, was awarded $10,000 damages by a jury in the Superior Court before Judge Oscar Hebel today against Dr. Albert J. Ochsner, head of the medical staff of the Augustana Hospital and widely known as a surgeon.

According to Mrs. Anderson's testimony, Dr. Ochsner operated on her for appendicitis May 29, 1918, and when, after seven months, the wound had not healed properly and she had not regained her health, she went to another physician. The wound was reopened in December of that year and fourteen inches of gauze removed.

Mrs. Anderson sued for $20,000 and a verdict for half that amount was returned.

Dr. Ochsner said he had no way of telling if he left the gauze in the wound or not.

"It is the duty of the nurses to account for all gauze and sponges we use in an operation," said Dr. Ochsner. "In this case I was told that everything was accounted for."

O'BRIEN DENIES APATHY.

Declares Untermyer's Criticism of City Investigation Is Misleading.

Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien in reply to Samuel Untermyer Counsel of the Lockwood Committee, issued a statement last night in which he said:

"In the proceedings before the Lockwood Committee on Tuesday, Mr. Untermyer offered in evidence various cards from the Hettrick papers which he stated related to municipal contracts and he made the comment that these papers had been in the hands of the corporation counsel for some weeks without any action having been taken by him. Mr. Untermyer is mistaken in his facts and misleading in his comments.

"In the first place, all Hettrick papers, so called, have never been made accessible to my investigators. Those of the Hettrick papers which were offered in evidence and are exhibits in the investigation have not been made accessible to us although several requests therefor have been made.

"Those of the Hettrick papers which were used in the Grand Jury proceedings up to Nov. 29 have not been and are not now accessible to my investigators. The only papers to which my investigators have had access were those which up to Nov. 29 were stored in Room 302 of the Hall of Records. While my staff were examining such papers during the period prior to Nov. 29 they were also accessible to and used by the representatives of the Attorney General.

"There has been no inaction and no apathy so far as the investigation is concerned which is being conducted by this office. Had I or any of my staff or associates proceeded in any different manner in our work up to date we would have been charged, in all likelihood, with attempting to interfere with and obstruct both the work of Mr. Untermyer and the Lockwood Committee and the several Grand Juries who are all delving into the same subject matter.

"It has been and is my constant endeavor to co-operate in every way with the work of Mr. Untermyer and the Lockwood Committee and to do nothing to conflict with their investigation."

WITNESS AT ATLANTIC CITY.

Special to the New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 8.—Frank E. Rousey, general manager of the Manhattan Sand and Gravel Company, who is wanted as a witness by the Lockwood committee, was found tonight by a representative of THE NEW YORK TIMES at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary F. Rousey, 3,507 Ventnor Avenue.

Mr. Rousey was asked whether, in view of the fact that his testimony was desired by the legislative committee, he would go to New York and testify. "I have nothing to say on the matter," he answered. "I must refuse to discuss it." Rousey did not say how long he intended remaining here.

Rousey refused to answer any questions concerning the testimony adduced before the Lockwood committee.

ANTI-EVICTION LAW SUSTAINED BY COURT

OPINION BY JUSTICE JENKS

All Concur Except Justice Blackmar, Who Warns of Abuse of Police Power.

The provision of the new rent laws prohibiting evictions of tenants for two years was upheld as constitutional yesterday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn. Presiding Justice Jenks said that contract rights must give way to the law of "overruling necessity." It was agreed by counsel that the case should be taken at once to the Court of Appeals.

The decision sustained an order of Supreme Court Justice Leander B. Faber denying to the Rayland Realty Company a writ compelling William R. Fagan, Clerk of the Sixth District Municipal Court, to issue a warrant for the dispossession of Joseph Reines, a tenant in a building at 1,918 Avenue H, owned by the plaintiff.

"Whatever the contract rights of the relator or of its tenant," said Justice Jenks, "they must give way to the public welfare. A statute enacted in the exercise of the police power—the 'law of overruling necessity,' as it once was termed—is paramount. This statute does not touch the title of the owner. It does not physically take the premises or directly work encroachment upon them. It does interfere to a degree for two years with the owner's absolute control.

"The Legislature is not dealing with an invasion of tramps. Confronted with a stress of circumstances, could not the Legislature have asked what city, even our own New York City, however law-abiding, can maintain its peace, health and order against the consequences of the eviction of perhaps thousands of its law-abiding citizens, so that they may become outcasts with no places to lay their heads? What consequences in this most densely populated city may not follow when the life and health of these citizens and their families face the peril of homelessness?

"New occasions make new duties. In this emergency I cannot see that the statute flouts the Constitution or is collectivism beyond the spirit and law of the land."

The opinion of Justice Jenks was concurred in by Justices Mills, Kelly and Putnam.

Justice Blackmar, in a dissenting opinion, said that during the war we became used to an immense extension of the police power, under the name of war powers, and that this also had in a measure been continued during a period of peace.

"The police power," said Justice Blackmar, "which has no constitutional limitations has no place in a free government. A literal application of much that has been written on the subject of the police power would leave the individual without protection from the arbitrary and tyrannous acts of a temporary majority."

NOT GUILTY, SAYS BRINDELL.

Judge Mulqueen Refuses to Increase $100,000 Bail in Extortion Case.

Robert P. Brindell, President of the Building Trades Council, pleaded not guilty before Judge Mulqueen, in General Sessions, yesterday to a fifth indictment, charging extortion, which was returned by the November Additional Grand Jury on Tuesday and not made public until he appeared in court. The indictment alleges that Brindell extorted $5,000 from Max Aronson of Aronson Brothers, manufacturers, 6-10 East Thirty-second Street, on Sept. 29, by threatening to call a strike on the building being erected by the firm at 235 West Thirty-sixth Street.

The Court did not increase the bail of $100,000 on which Brindell had been released on the other indictments, although additional bail was suggested by Assistant District Attorney Unger.

Mr. Aronson, discussing the alleged payment to Brindell, said:

"I guess we got off easy at the $5,000 figure. Brindell figured each floor at $1,000, and as it is a twelve-story building the payment was on a basis of less than 50 per cent."

CITY NEARLY LOST $1,240,000 ON STONE

Rousey of the Manhattan Sand and Gravel Company, Robert Scanlan of the Lenox Sand and Gravel Company, Richard Pike, John T. Taggart and Joseph Moran.

Mr. McCarthy is a friend and former business partner of Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall. Taggart, Moran and Pike are walking delegates of Robert P. Brindell's Building Trades Council.

After several arguments between Mr. Untermyer and former Senator Edgar T. Brackett of Saratoga, of counsel for officers and employes of the Sand and Gravel Board of Trade, Mrs. Helen MacDonald, a clerk, produced the books of the organization. Mr. Brackett objected to the committee's seizure of the books and said he would have them replevined. In one of his tilts Mr. Untermyer asked the former Senator to "Take that Saratoga chip off your shoulder."

Inquiry Restored Competition.

Until the Lockwood Committee's investigation began, said Mr. Horowitz, who said his concern did a business of $60,000,000 annually, it had been impossible to get competitive figures in plumbing, limestone, marble, common brick, cement, lime, fireproofing and lumber.

Because of an agreement between boss carpenters and the carpenters' union it was impossible to put trim on buildings made outside the city by non-union men. This limited competition to a few concerns making trim. He said that at the present time builders in New York were not permitted to put up their own steel work but that they could erect structural steel work on their jobs outside the city, and then told of the arrangement by means of which iron erectors had to promise the steel fabricators to put up work only on open shop conditions.

Mr. Horowitz said he did not ask for estimates on limestone work for the Straus Building, 300 Park Avenue, because he knew it was futile. He sent a representative of a limestone firm to Indiana to get away from the "ring" and "squeeze out the indecent graft." The price for the stone, he said, was $5.25 a cubic foot, against $9 asked by Hanlein.

Since the investigation prices of building materials have gone down, according to Mr. Horowitz and the other contractors. He estimated that marble was being sold at 30 to 40 per cent. below former prices, the dealers having "skimmed off the cream," yet present prices include a legitimate and fair profit.

Brick tile for fireproofing purposes, he declared, was practically in the control of the National Fireproofing Company. To offset the high prices demanded by the National, he said, he bought tile in Ohio, shipped it here and saved $19,000 on a $29,418 order. The National's price was $48,893, and its yards near by are in Perth Amboy.

Here are some of the quotations made by material dealers to the Thompson-Starrett Company: Sand, uniform price of $5 a cubic yard from seven concerns—John P. Kane Company, Candee, Smith & Howland, Empire Brick and Supply Company, John A. Philbrick & Brother, Rufus Darrow Sons, Inc., Standard Building Material Company and John A. McCarthy; brick, all prices uniform, wholesale market price, plus $1.75 for carting, plus 15 per cent. for profit; Atlas Portland cement showed a variation, some dealers bidding $4.50 a barrel and some $4.80; hydrated lime, uniform price, all at "the market price"; non-staining Atlas cement, all uniform, but prices have dropped $1.50 a barrel since investigation began; sand, all bids at $2.50 a yard; gravel, all bids at $3.50 a yard; broken stone, all bids at $3.50 a yard except a company organized by the George A. Fuller Construction Company to fight the rock and sand combine and which had a lower price.

In 1916 sand sold at about $1.50 a yard, and Mr. Horowitz thought a fair price today would be $1 above the former price. The present price is $3.50 a yard.

Uniform Prices Fixed.

James A. Mears of the Fred T. Ley Company, building contractors, doing a business of about $20,000,000 annually, gave the results he obtained when he asked for bids on several jobs. He received three estimates on brick when he asked for bids on a contract his company had for the erection of an office building at 73 Maiden Lane. All were uniform, asking "market price at time of delivery." The bidders were the John P. Kane Company, Candee, Smith & Howland and the Peck Building and Material Corporation. The prices on broken stone were uniform, $3.50 a yard. The bidders were Flanagan Bros., Lenox Sand and Gravel Company, and Manhattan Sand Company. Cement was bid for at $3.40 a barrel, a uniform price being asked by three bidders. The same concerns bid on lime, each asking $19.50 a ton. Each of the three bidders on sand asked $2.50 a yard when the bids were turned in last April.

Bids for material to be used on an apartment house at 290 Park Avenue showed great uniformity. Five bids for brick and gravel were uniform. Of five bids for sand three asked $3.25, one $2.75 and another $3.15. Five bidders on cement asked $3.40 a barrel.

Alfred R. Whiting, Jr., of the A. Whiting Company, doing an annual construction business of $5,000,000, obtained estimates for materials to be used on the Bowling Green Building. He obtained the contract on Nov. 10, 1919. Four bidders on brick asked $22.40. Four bidders on cement asked $3.40, and four on lime asked $18.50 a ton. There were two bidders each on sand, gravel and broken stone. The prices were uniform. There were similar results on bids put in for materials to be used by Mr. Whiting on the Hanover National Bank Building.

With only two exceptions the prices for materials used by Mr. Whiting on the Borden residence, 48 East Sixty-eighth Street, were uniform. Six estimates for material used in the Atlantic and Pacific Steamship Company's building were identical.

Three Firms Control Sand.

Edward B. Handy, dealer in broken stone, sand and gravel, at 205th Street and Harlem River, one of the six men who organized the Sand and Gravel Board of Trade, said it was incorporated in June, 1919. He was invited to join it by Peter Gallagher, of Goodwin-Gallagher, he said. Gallagher told him he could do "better business and make more money" if he joined.

Under the questioning of Mr. Untermyer he said that the control of the send and gravel business in New York was in the hands of three concerns, Goodwin-Gallagher, O'Brien Bros. and Henry Steers, and that prices for the product were uniform.

The members of the Sand and Gravel Board of Trade, he said, agreed to have their books examined by accountants so that the board might know how much yardage each man's business amounted to and the price he was getting. James M. Ames, of the James M. Ames Building and Material Corporation, was "invited to resign" because he refused to permit an examination of his books. Handy said he always "ducked" when the accountant appeared, and so his books were not examined.

Dues of $100 a month, he said, were paid to Eugene P. Clark, Executive Secretary of the board, who, it was understood, represented the Goodwin-Gallagher Company. The members of the board followed Clark's directions as to price, he said. Gallagher had two other representatives in the board, his brother-in-law, Frank E. Rousey, of the Manhattan Sand and Gravel Company, and William S. Mahoney, of the Lenox Sand and Gravel Company, two subsidiaries of Goodwin-Gallagher.

It was a few weeks after the board was formed that the price of sand was fixed and made uniform. An agreement was also entered into between the members of the board and the New York Trap Rock Corporation by which the price of trap rock was fixed. In one year and five months the board increased the price of sand from $1.80 to $2.75. He said Clark was "like the boss." He always brought up the new price and the members knew that anything they said "over Clark's head" would go back to Goodwin-Gallagher.

Handy testified that dealers in sand also had membership in the Contractors' Protective Association, which had a Sand Committee. This organization also took in truckmen who hauled sand. He was asked if he thought he could get Cowbay sand from Henry Steers. He thought not. Asked what the arrangement was between Steers and Goodwin-Gallagher, he thought that it was a "gentlemen's agreement," and that Goodwin-Gallagher had the output and sold some of it to Steers and some to O'Brien Bros.

Peter Gallagher said that Gallagher Bros. consolidated with the Goodwin Sand and Gravel Company and absorbed the Manhattan Sand and Gravel Company, the Crescent Company, the Lenox Sand and Gravel Company and the J. L. Keating Company. The President of the Goodwin-Gallagher Sand and Gravel Company is Mr. Dupuy of Pittsburgh, who owns half the stock. Gallagher said that his brother-in-law, Rousey, general manager of the Manhattan Sand Company, was at Atlantic City. He refused the committee's request to telegraph Rousey and ask him to return.

In reply to Mr. Untermyer's questions Gallagher said his company did an annual business of about $700,000 in sand alone and that O'Brien Bros. was one of his competitors. He admitted that the sand sold by O'Brien Bros. was bought by them from the Goodwin-Gallagher Sand and Gravel Company, at 50 cents a yard. Both his concern and O'Brien Bros. sold it to sand dealers for $1.25 a yard, he said, and the dealers charged the builders $2.75. Gallagher finally admitted his corporation had a contract with O'Brien Bros. whereby the latter organization agreed to take about 300,000 yards a year.

Sand Dealer Defies Committee.

Mr. Untermyer asked the witness where he got his information from time to time as to the prices the Board of Trade was fixing for sand, whether he got it from his brother-in-law, Mr. Rousey. Gallagher refused to answer on the ground that it might tend to incriminate him. He refused to answer any other questions concerning the price fixing on sand indulged in at the meetings of the Sand and Gravel Board of Trade.

Early in the day Senator Brackett indicated that a legal fight would be made by him to keep the books of the Sand and Gravel Board of Trade from the committee. Mrs. Helen MacDonald appeared as a witness after having been subpoenaed and said that she was a clerk in the office of the board, 405 Lexington Avenue. She said she was engaged two weeks ago by Cornelius Gallagher, a cousin of the witness Gallagher and has only answered telephone calls.

Mrs. MacDonald said that since her employment she has not seen Mr. Clark, but that he spoke to her on the telephone the day she came to work. Her only duty consists of answering telephone calls. She said she knew nothing of the books of the board.

Mrs. MacDonald said she had received correspondence at the office since she took up the work and that her only duty consisted in telling friends of Mr. Clark who called that he was not in. She did not know whether there were any quotations and contract cards similar to the Hettrick cards in the office. She was subpoenaed to produce the minute book and the quotation cards. Late in the afternoon she was again put on the stand and there followed a wordy battle between Mr. Untermyer and Senator Brackett as to the disposition of the books which she produced.

The committee will meet at 10:30 this morning at the City Hall.

The Man's Shop
A Floor of Complete Masculinity

There are the Twentieth Century Limited, the Pennsylvania Special and the Express Elevators to The Man's Shop at Lord & Taylor

Storm Without—Cheer Within

ABOUT now one expects to see the lapels and shoulders of the caller's overcoat flecked with snow.

The passer-by's overcoat is of special interest, because one thinks of a new coat himself.

In The Man's Shop you will see, in your own size, every worldly, desirable overcoat one would encounter in the theatre and hotel lobbies, in the railway stations, on the streets and in the motor cars of London and New York.

The fleecy storm coat, the tourist ulster, the coat of dignity for the professional man, the coat to wear over evening clothes, the leather or leather-lined coat, and the fur-lined coat of English cut.

And all the suits to wear under them, which speak the same worldly language when the coats are tossed aside—conservatively plain, whether of brightest tweeds, or darker materials.

Just now, particularly with the approach of the Holidays, the special evening clothes room is attracting attention—with its daylight to judge quality, and its evening shadows to observe effect.

Dinner coats, full evening dress, dress boots, dress waistcoats, dress overcoats, silk hats, and The Man's Shop's own One-Stud-to-show evening shirts.

There is no similar evening dress room on the continent—as cheerful as a brilliant reception room.

The Express Elevators will land you in the midst of many surprises—not the least of which are today's representative prices.

CLARA SMITH NOW ACCUSED OF MURDER

REPORTED NEAR JUAREZ

El Paso Sheriff Says He Can Get Her and Father Takes Surrender Proposal to Her.

Special to The New York Times.

ARDMORE, Okla., Dec. 8.—Clara Smith Hamon was formally charged with the murder of Jake L. Hamon in an information filed here today by County Attorney Russell B. Brown. A warrant for her arrest on the same charge was immediately issued and given to Sheriff Buck Garrett for service. The original charge was assault to kill.

It was definitely established during the day that Clara Hamon had been for several days just over the Mexican border from El Paso. Following the publication of a telegram sent by Sheriff Orndorff of El Paso to Sheriff Garrett here, she is believed to have left the town in which she was staying for one still further in the interior of Mexico.

The new information against the woman uses the words: "With the premeditated design to effect the death of one Jake L. Hamon." This brings a new element into the case. Heretofore it has been generally believed that the shooting occurred during a scuffle.

Behind the use of these words is said to be the testimony of Miss Bertha Lipscomb, owner of a beauty parlor in Ardmore. Clara Hamon is said to have shown her a 25-calibre automatic pistol several weeks before the shooting with the remark that some day she "would show Jake Hamon what she would do." This testimony is said to be supported by others.

County Attorney Brown also has begun inquiries in Fort Worth relative to the alleged action taken by the law firm of McLain, Scott & McLain, who were said to be making arrangements for Clara Hamon's surrender.

"Understand you have reliable information as to whereabouts Clara Smith Hamon. Will you advise at once by wire if this is true? Please do not let any one give you the impression that we do not want her here. We will take any and all steps to apprehend her when advised by you that you know of her whereabouts."

Special to The New York Times.

EL PASO, Dec. 8.—"Clara Smith Hamon is across the border in Mexico, and I know where she is," was the statement made today by Sheriff Seth Orndorff of El Paso County.

"I was tipped off about the woman by a man in Juarez who has put people across the line before for me," he said, "and I know that he knew who she was. Her folks are here in El Paso and her father made application for a passport to Juarez Thanksgiving Day. She has several friends here, one of them an Alderman of the city."

The publication of Sheriff Orndorff's telegram to the Ardmore authorities put the woman on her guard, said the Sheriff, who added:

"But I know where she is and I think I can get her yet."

There is an extradition treaty between Mexico and the United States, but it is of little value. When a fugitive is wanted in the United States the Sheriff utilizes certain persons in Mexico to get them over to American soil.

"But you can't go over and make an arrest and try to bring that person over here openly and by force," the Sheriff said. "It would cause international complications. However, if someone over there smuggled the person and you get him or her over here it is all right."

The Sheriff made the statement that Clara Smith Hamon had been in El Paso and had registered at the St. Regis Hotel under the name of Wilson. She then went to Juarez and members of her family have been crossing daily to see her, he said.

"This woman is well known here, and I have talked to persons who have seen her and know her well. Unless she goes further into Mexico and hides, I'll get her."

FORT WORTH, Dec. 8.—A proposal that Clara Smith Hamon surrender and return to Ardmore will be submitted to her for final decision, it was announced today by a law firm, members of which say they conferred with J. L. Smith, father of the missing woman yesterday.

Mr. Smith, the attorneys said, was on his way to a small town in Mexico to submit the proposal to his daughter.

Should she decide to surrender the attorneys said they would defend her in court and insist on a speedy trial. The woman is not in Jaurez but is concealed in a near-by Mexican village, the attorneys declared, adding that they expected word of her decision tonight or tomorrow.

MONKEY GLAND CURE FOR DEFECTIVE CHILD

Hope to Save Girl of 19 Who Has Spent All Her Life in Dark Cellar.

Special to the New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Mary Zembok, 19, of Joliet, Ill., may become a normal girl of 19—that is, if the grafting of a monkey gland into her neck today restores her mentality and physical development. Physicians who performed the operation at the American Hospital said that it had been successful.

Mary has been mentally defective almost since birth, and completely paralyzed. The mother, a Pole, has five children besides Mary, all of them normal. When Mary was 2 years old it became apparent that she would not develop into a normal child, and Mrs. Zembok relegated her to the basement of their home, where she lived in perpetual darkness until two months ago, when the health authorities learned of the case.

The child, when found, was immediately removed to a hospital here. It was decided that the only hope for full recovery would be the gland transplanting operation. Today the monkey, a full-grown animal, and the child were taken to the operating room, the thyroid gland removed from the animal and transplanted into the neck of the child.

TIENTSIN AFFAIR SETTLED.

Apologies Exchanged by American and Japanese Governments.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Announcement was made by the State Department tonight that "a satisfactory settlement" had been reached by the Government of Japan in the matter of the Tientsin affair of March, 1919.

Under instructions from his Government Baron Kirjuro Shidehara, the Japanese Ambassador to the United States, has tendered to the American Government an expression of "sincere regret" for the "illegal arrest" of American soldiers at Tientsin. The Japanese Government also has expressed regret for a "misleading statement" made by the Japanese police chief at Tientsin relative to the presence of soldiers detained by the Japanese on that occasion.

The American Government, on the other hand, has repeated to the Japanese Government an expression of regret for an unprovoked attack on a South Manchurian railway official by American soldiers during the trouble.

Gets 10 Years for Killing Engineer.

Edward J. Cunneen, described as a gangster and ex-convict, was sentenced yesterday to ten years in prison by Judge Wadhams in General Sessions for killing Charles W. Classon, an engineer on a navy transport. Judge James T. Malone tried Cunneen, but dropped dead in his chambers while the jury was considering the case, and the jury returned its verdict of first degree manslaughter to Judge Wadhams.

The 1920 Imported Havana Cigars

Facts and Features

It's a fact that present prices of Imported Havana Cigars have come to stay—for another year, or longer.

It's also a fact that these cigars are made from the 1920 Havana Tobacco crop, the best in 15 years. They are of the rare kind that age well.

It's quite a feature that they are a luxury—and yet not an extravagance. Their prices have gone up only about 40% during the past ten years, while other commodities have gone up 100% or more.

WARN PERFUME MEN OF BOOTLEG EVIL

Prohibition Director O'Connor Says Most of 3,000 Holding Permits Are Not Legitimate.

HONEST TRADERS IN PERIL

Members of Aroma Club Promise to Co-operate in Weeding Out Crooked Manufacturers.

A note of warning was sounded to the legitimate manufacturers of perfumes, barber supplies and hair tonics by Charles R. O'Connor, Federal Prohibition Director for New York State, at a luncheon at the McAlpin Hotel yesterday of the Aroma Club, composed of the leading perfumery manufacturers in this city. He called on the members of the club to aid the Government in driving out the "bootleggers" who infest their trade, and declared that unless something was done radically to correct the present situation as respects the number of illegitimate permit holders, the manufacturers would find themselves in about the same position as the old-time saloonkeeper, whose place "became a stench in the nostrils of law-abiding citizens" and resulted in national prohibition.

More than 3,000 permits were issued this year to persons and firms to engage in the manufacture of essential oils, barber supplies and perfumeries, Mr. O'Connor said, whereas prior to prohibition there were possibly 125 legitimate concerns engaged in the business. He explained that many of these permits were obtained through fraud, perjury and deceit.

"Prior to prohibition," Mr. O'Connor said, "I am reliably informed there were about forty concerns in the greater city engaged in the manufacture of essential oils. There were possibly twenty-five or thirty firms engaged in the manufacture of hair tonics and barber supplies and about fifty engaged in the manufacture of perfumes and toilet articles. Then along came prohibition, and it became apparent that the days when alcoholic liquors could not legitimately be used for beverage purposes, except in the home, had gone never to return. But their desire thereafter was not dead, and many unscrupulous persons, seeking to enrich themselves at the expense of the law, saw in the diversion of alcohol from non-beverage to beverage purposes an opportunity for enormous profits; thus a barrel of alcohol for legitimate purposes is worth from $300 to $400, for illegitimate purposes a matter of $1,000 may be added. Thus it was easy to obtain a profit of 300 to 400 per cent, and when we bear in mind that if you add to a barrel of alcohol a dash of whisky, prune juice and a few other ingredients you may make about two and one-half barrels of so-called whisky, it will readily be seen that it was possible to obtain fabulous profits providing the law could be evaded successfully.

Members of the club said after the luncheon that Mr. O'Connor would have the co-operation of the club in weeding out the illegitimate manufacturer.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph Solovel, who is under suspension, entered before Federal Judge Augustus N. Hand yesterday a plea of not guilty to the indictment charging him with giving a bribe of $500 to Special Internal Revenue Agent Frank J. Seib to release a prisoner and abandon a prosecution of two alleged violations of the Volstead act. Albert and Benjamin Gross, brothers, real estate brokers in Garden City, also pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging them with aiding and abetting the giving of the bribe to Agent Seib. The defendants were continued in $2,500 bail each.

'MILLINERY' SPRINGS A LEAK.

New Yorkers Therefore Lose 88 Quarts in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—A suitcase of "millinery samples" sprung a leak today as the Pullman in which it was being carried neared Chicago.

The conductor sent a wire ahead to police here. Detectives arrested two New Yorkers as they left the train and confiscated four suitcases labelled "New York Hat Company." Eighty-eight quarts of whiskey were found in the cases.

ELECTIONS AT HARVARD.

Football Men Make Clean Sweep for Class Day Marshals.

Special to the New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 8.—The football men made a clean sweep in the election of class-day marshals at Harvard today.

Henry H. Faxon of Quincy, substitute tackle on this year's eleven, and a member of the crew which defeated Yale in June, was chosen first marshal. On graduation he becomes the permanent President of the class. Robert M. Sedgwick of New York City, who started at left tackle in the Yale game, was elected second marshal, and John A. Sessions of Northampton, manager of the eleven, received the third marshalship. Dennis O'Connell, the track Captain, was within five votes of Sessions's total.

Roy A. Larsen of Brookline was elected class treasurer with a vote of 161, which was fifty-nine votes more than that polled by Thomas S. Lamont of New York, who finished second. Francis W. McVeagh of New York was elected class poet over Paul Jackson of Boston by a good margin. Leon De Turenne of Seattle, captain of the tennis team, won the position of class odeist, polling fifty-seven more votes than Samuel S. Ordway of New York, the captain of the fencing team.

Thomas H. Mills of Portland, Ore., had one more than William S. Holbrook Jr. of Davenport, Iowa, in the battle for class orator, while David T. W. McCord of Cambridge won the post of Ivy orator. The position of chorister went to Joseph F. Lautner of Evansville, Ind.

Election of a class secretary and members of the class, class day, and photograph committees will take place next week.

SALOON MAN IN CONTEMPT.

Special to the New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Jack Galligana, a saloon owner at 61 West Harrison Street and one of the 120 saloon men temporarily enjoined from selling liquor by order of Federal Judge Landis, has been ordered to appear before the Judge tomorrow to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court.

Inquiry had disclosed that saloon men were disregarding the orders of Judge Landis. Contempt proceedings will be instituted against every one of 120 men if necessary to enforce the law, prohibition enforcement officers declare.

Under the injunction orders saloon men were restrained from selling liquor, moving their furniture or disposing of their property.

RUM FEUDIST KILLED.

Prohibition Officer Shoots Two Brothers—He Is Dying.

Special to the New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 8.—A story from Pikeville, Ky., tonight says that in a clash between feudists Will Hopkins, Prohibition enforcement officer, shot and killed Will Blackburn on a train this morning, probably fatally wounded his brother, Henderson Blackburn and himself received wounds from which he is dying.

A brother of the Blackburns recently shot "Buddy" Hopkins, brother of the Prohibition officer. The Blackburns were on their way to Pikeville for the trial today, as also was Hopkins. Will Blackburn was killed instantly. His brother was shot in three places. Hopkins was shot through the lungs. Other passengers had narrow escapes from flying bullets.

New York Ship Afire in Pacific.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8.—The steamer Susbury, bound from New York to San Francisco, reported by radio that a fire which started on the ship last night was out of control at 7 o'clock today. The steamer reported she was heading for San Pedro. Her position was not given in the message.

Free Mrs. Moody in Murder Trial.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 8.—Mrs. Bernardina Moody, on trial since Monday on a charge of first degree murder, was acquitted this afternoon of the charge of killing her husband, Hans Moody, former trainer of the late "Bob" Fitzsimmons. The jury was out less than one hour.

ARMY COURT TO TRY SELF-STYLED SPY

HIS BRIDE VISITS PRISON

Officials Take No Steps to Investigate Story Germany Sent 300 Spies With Him.

John A. Willers, former captain of Company K, Forty-eighth United States Infantry and self-styled German spy, is being held incomunicado in Castle Williams, Governors Island. A court martial will convene within a week to try him for alleged violation of Articles of War 58 and 94. Lieutenant Cohn has been assigned to defend him.

Willers, who faces charges of desertion from the army and embezzlement, refused to talk yesterday. Despite his picturesque story of how he and 300 other German army cadets came here in 1914 to spy, no charge of enemy activity was made against him. Army officials were inclined to discredit Willers's tale.

Willers was arrested on Tuesday night at Sixth Avenue and Forty-second Street. He had been recognized by Hugh Hanigan, a lieutenant in Camp Sevier, S. C., when Willers was the crack drillmaster there, as the chap who had departed with $6,000 of Company K funds. In the East Fifty-first Street Station house, however, when the charge of embezzlement was made against him, Willers depicted himself as an international spy awaiting a chance to get Company K overseas and lead it to slaughter. The tale sent Willers away from police jurisdiction to Governors Island, where army officers closely scrutinized his self-made character.

Willers's Bride Visits Him.

One of the first visitors to the island was Willers's wife, a bride of four months. She was a Miss Crawford of Chicago. Mrs. Willers is about twenty-one years old, short, of dark complexion and hair, and pretty. She was agitated almost to the point of tears.

"I can't believe his story is true," she said after talking to her husband. "I met him eighteen months ago in Chicago and we were married four months ago. I noticed that he appeared to have something on his mind, but he explained that he was German born and told how while he was in the army he had trained men to kill Germans. He was very good to me and I never had cause to doubt that what he told me was all the truth. He told me that he had been honorably discharged from the army. I never knew that he had deserted."

When Willers came to Governors Island he was recognized by Lieut. Col. John L. Bond, who served at the South Carolina camp for a time. Colonel Bond described Willers as a "marvelous" trainer of soldiers. He said that none of the officers associated with Willers suspected him of German ancestry. The Captain had just the suggestion of an accent and he was usually regarded as a Swede.

Another former campmate was Francis Hatch, of the American International Corporation, 120 Broadway. Lieutenant Hatch was intelligence officer of the Third Battalion of the Forty-eighth Infantry, which included Captain Willers's company.

"We liked Willers in the company," Mr. Hatch said. "He was a good fellow, playing a good game of poker. He shunned having his photograph taken, always stepping out of any group pictures we had taken. Down at Sevier he took a keen interest in officers detailed to go overseas. I remember once how keen was his disappointment. He looked over the names of the lucky ones, but instead of just being disappointed, like the rest of us, he flew into a rage and banged the table in the mess shack."

His Room Searched.

Willers's home was in 894 Riverside Drive, the Loyal Apartments, near 162d Street, where he and his wife rented a room in the ground-floor apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Nevins. Late yesterday afternoon two men who described themselves as Federal agents searched the room. They spent about an hour going over the couple's effects, but apparently failed to remove any of them.

Inquiry at the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, 21 Park Row, disclosed that no operatives of that arm of the Government had been assigned to the case. Special Agent Reddy also said that no orders had come from Washington directing a search for the 300 fellow-spies Willers reported as coming over with him six years ago. The belief was expressed that the visitors to the Willers apartment were members of the Military Intelligence Section seeking evidence for use at the court-martial.

Since his arrival from Chicago, not quite two months ago, Willers had set himself up in business as "The New York Products Company." He was established in a dingy little store, one of two in the four-story tenement at 542 West Fifty-third Street. He was the salesman and his wife the stenographer-bookkeeper. Yesterday the little shop was closed.

WILLERS'S ARMY RECORD.

Enlisted Twice as Private, Then Obtained Commission as Captain.

Special to the New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Secretary of War Baker today said he did not believe former army Captain John A. Willers, self-confessed German spy, was telling the whole truth, or that he was one of 300 German cadets alleged to have been sent to this country in 1914 to join the American Army, become officers and act as spies. Regular army officers took the same view as the Secretary. Some of them said they would be obliged to Willers for the names of any of the other "three hundred."

The War Department records show it has been looking for Willers since Dec. 7, 1918, when he deserted from Camp Sevier. The department today issued this statement in regard to Willers:

"The enlistment records show that John A. Willers first enlisted at Fort Slocum, New York, Sept. 22, 1914, at which time he declared he was a citizen of the United States, born in St. Louis, Mo., was 23 years old, and by occupation a baker. He gave his emergency address as Frank Dose, cousin, 1,007 South Third Street, Lafayette, Ind. He was honorably discharged April 19, 1916, as first-class gunner, Fifth Company, C. A. C., with character excellent.

"He re-enlisted at Fort Slocum, N. Y., Aug. 11, 1916, for mounted service with field artillery, again stating that he was born in St. Louis, Mo., age 25, occupation a baker. He was honorably discharged at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., Nov. 26, 1917, with character excellent, to enable him to accept a commission. He was commissioned captain, infantry, Officers' Reserve Corps, Nov. 27, 1917, from Plattsburg Training Camp, and deserted from Camp Sevier, S. C., about Dec. 7, 1918."

OIL GIANTS BUY FRENCH PALACES

Standard Company and British Interests Make New Moves in Contest There.

AMERICANS LATE ON SCENE

And Englishmen Are Said to Have the Lead, With Official French Concessions.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 8.—The Palace of Dufayel, in the Champs Elysées, used during the Peace Conference by the French Government as a sumptuous club for foreign press and conference officials, has been bought, says the Humanite, by the Standard Oil.

One of the most expensive and most pretentious town houses in the world, it was built for the millionaire furniture merchant Dufayel shortly before the war, but he felt that it was too gorgeous to be lived in, and until his death he resided in a more modest dwelling abutting on the court of the palace.

Its acquisition by the Standard Oil is the latest step in the great fight being waged here between the American company and the British oil interests. It is in response to the British purchase of a historic mansion on the Place de la Concorde, says the Humanité. Each of the rival oil titans has founded a daughter company here, with French directors, of whom the principal are Paul Cambon, ex-Ambassador to Great Britain, for the Standard, and Sir Basil Zaharoff for the Shell Transport Company.

France as an oil consuming country first became prominent immediately after the Commune. A group of astute financiers managed in the early days of their régime to get the Government to vote a law handing over a monopoly of the sale of oil to them. There were nine companies interested. The argument put forward by the supporters of this law, passed in July, 1871, was that mineral oil, then new in use, was an extremely dangerous substance and should be carefully controlled by the Government. Great use was made of the incendiarism of the famous "petroleuses" of the Commune, which was said to have tried to burn Paris by their means.

The law was in the form of a tariff by which a duty of 20 francs per hundred kilos on raw paraffin was imposed on entry, this duty being raised to no less than 32 francs per hundred kilos on the refined variety. The consequence was practically to prohibit the entry of refined oil and to set up the group of nine in possession of a monopoly of the oil refiners in France. Oil at that time was used only for domestic lighting purposes, but with an average consumption of 300,000 tons a year this left the "cartel" of nine refiners a net profit of 36,000,000 francs a year.

Quite early in the game the cartel made an agreement with the Standard Oil by which 90 per cent. of the supply of raw oil was controlled by the American company. This continued for many years.

Lower Tariff Destroys Monopoly.

In the decade before the war, however, in the face of violent opposition in the Chamber, the 12 franc refinement protection tariff was successively reduced, first to 7 francs, then to 3 francs 50 centimes. Finally, just before the war, the cartel, now consisting of ten firms, finding that the protection was only 2 francs per hundred kilos, gave up the business of refinement and took on distribution only.

Still the monopoly rested in their hands. The same factory made tins and ten different sorts of labels, but the profits were divided by private agreement, as before. In 1917, in the midst of the war, the cartel had to confess that it could no longer guarantee sufficient supplies of gasoline to the armies and the French Government let the British into the business. In 1919 the British trust's arrangement expired and it made an offer to the French to continue.

At the same time the shares of the principal competents of the British combine, the Royal Dutch, Shell and Mexican Eagle, were put on the market in Paris in considerable quantities, to get the French investors interested. The trust was paying well at the moment, and coming at the same time as a boom to foreign securities, owing to the fall in value of the franc, there resulted the greatest bull movement the French Bourse had experienced since the Panama Canal days. The whole of France seemed to be engaged in speculating on the Mexican Eagle and Royal Dutch shares. The first crowd in made huge profits. The Royal Dutch rose from 21,000 francs to nearly 70,000 per share in the wild days of 1919 and the beginning of 1920. Every one seemed to be a buyer. Storekeepers, demi-mondaines, duchesses, workmen, rentiers, priests, country gentlemen and others found their greatest interest in life to watch the fluctuations of the Royal Dutch, the fame of which was spread and applauded in every music hall. And there are 500,000,000 francs worth of Royal Dutch held today in France.

What happened to the boom is another story. The culminating point in the fortunes of the British trust was at San Remo, where in return for the major part of the Mossoul oil field Lloyd George gave Millerand a free hand in Syria, incidentally abandoning the Emir Feisal. A by-product of the San Remo agreement was the entry of the British oil interests into France.

The Standard Oil all this while seems to have been rather slow to take in what was happening. Then Mr. Bedford came over to try to pick up the pieces of the lost monopoly on sale and development. He followed closely in the traces of the British. The latter had engaged French banks to look after their interests—the Crédit Lyonnais and Union Parisienne.

According to Francis Crucy, one of the leading French authorities on the question, Bedford allied himself to the Banque de Paris et Pays Bas, and started a Franco-American Standard Oil Company. The British bought the Concorde mansion for offices, the Standard in turn took over Dufayel's White Elephant. No outsider can claim to pierce the secrets of the two giant trusts, but it is held in sound quarters here that so far the honors of battle rest with the British. They had all the French agreements in their pockets before Mr. Bedford arrived on the scene.

Morse Estate Is $2,162,515.

The estate of Harry F. Morse, retired capitalist, who died Oct. 9, 1919, was appraised yesterday at $2,162,515. His residence at 3 West Forty-sixth Street was valued at $95,000, and the bulk of the estate was in stocks and bonds worth $2,041,105. The chief holdings were in bonds of oil companies.

FRENCH
Hand-Made Beaded Bags

—each a fine example of the skill of the most expert beadworkers of France—

Bags Regularly $19.50 to $28.50	Bags Regularly $25.00 to $38.00	Bags Regularly $45.00 to $75.00
$14.50	$20.00	$38.50

Rarely even in Paris has a collection of bags so beautiful been seen—and in no other collection are values so remarkable to be found. Every bag is a decided masterpiece in its beading, every one was made by hand in France, and not one bag in the entire presentation has before been offered at such a low price. Roses, poppies and other colorful posies are shown upon many, quaint scenes and geometrical designs upon others, all so wonderful in the blending of their soft harmonious colorings as to be comparable only to works of art by the Old Masters.

Many have Carved or Inlaid Shell Frames, others are in Drawstring Styles, many are suspended from steel chains in harmony with their cut steel beading.

—there are large, small and medium sizes, solidly beaded, or of rich French satins elaborated with brilliant, starlike steel beads. They are the very bags critical women are now wearing in the great French metropolis, all priced so low their immediate selection for gift purposes is certain.

SWERVED TO AVOID TRUCK

Home Turned Into Emergency Hospital When Victims, Mostly Women, Are Rescued.

Frank Cullen, the chauffeur of a southbound Fifth Avenue bus, turned his car sharply east into Seventy-ninth Street yesterday at 8:55 A. M. to avoid a five-ton auto coal truck which came out of Central Park at Seventy-ninth Street. Cullen was jammed against a police box and killed, while the conductor and fifteen passengers were painfully injured.

The bus overturned, according to passengers and the police record, although this was denied by the company. Twelve or thirteen persons were flung from the top of the bus to the sidewalk, according to passengers, but this also was denied by the company.

The inside of the bus was filled, according to the passengers, most of whom were young women. They say they were tumbled two or three deep on the windows of the bus, which lay upon its side. They wriggled and crawled to the rear of the car, climbed through the door, and then squeezed their way to safety through the crammed space under the winding stairs, which were in a horizontal position.

Passers-by Help Injured.

By the time those nearest the rear on the inside had crawled through the door, a dozen automobiles had stopped and the chauffeurs and occupants were helping the injured passengers. Meyer Kasdan, 30 years old, of 635 West 170th Street, was one of those who told of the bus overturning. A man who was inside the bus said:

"If the company officials say the bus was not overturned, it is probably due to the fact that their reports come from persons who were not on the scene until about fifteen minutes later, when the bus had been righted.

"The motorman was pinned directly under the bus, with its weight on him. It was impossible to drag him out, and a large number of men, including passengers like myself, policemen and men from the crowd, used our combined strength to lift the bus. Cullen, the motorman, was unconscious all this time.

"On the inside of the bus we had a fraction of a second or so of warning before it fell over, and every one made a desperate effort to catch hold of something and keep right side up. The women screamed, but were quiet in a second, when most of them found they were not much hurt. To get toward the door it was necessary to move on all fours or crawl frontwards or sidewise, according to the position in which you found yourself."

Turns Home Into a Hospital.

Mrs. J. F. Feder, who lives at 973 Fifth Avenue, near Seventy-ninth Street, turned her home into an emergency hospital. Her servants, aided by policemen and men from the crowd, carried the badly injured ones into her house, and many of those slightly hurt walked in for first aid. Calls were sent out from her house and from the police box, and ambulances and surgeons soon arrived from Flower, Mt. Sinai, Lenox Hill and other hospitals.

Cullen was taken in an automobile to Lenox Hill Hospital, where he died in a few minutes. Fred Rothenhauser, 26 years old, of 602 East Eighty-third Street, was taken to Mt. Sinai Hospital in a critical condition from fractures of the right arm and left leg and internal injuries. The others injured were:

RUBIN, ANNIE, 22, 500 West 176th Street; contusion of right hip.
WOLF, FLORENCE, 452 West 163d Street; shock.

Truck Owner Held in $2,500.

The driver and owner of the coal truck was Andrew Meyer of Jersey City. He was held in $2,500 bail on a charge of homicide, although William O'Shaughnessy, Assistant District Attorney, told the Court a preliminary inquiry indicated that the driver of the bus was at fault, as witnesses said he had been making twenty miles an hour. John A. Ritchie, President of the Fifth Avenue Coach Company, ascribed the accident to lack of knowledge on the part of Meyer of New York traffic laws.

"Meyer told two witnesses," said Mr. Ritchie, "that he had the right of way. He comes from New Jersey. The rule there is that traffic approaching a boulevard has the right of way over traffic on a boulevard. He applied that theory here, where it was just contrary to the law.

"The bus did not turn over. There never has been an accident in which one of the Fifth Avenue buses turned over. We have reports from a large number of sources, which shows that idea is a mistake. No one was thrown off the top, according to our reports. I am positive they are correct."

Had the two cars reached this corner five minutes later there would have been no accident, because a traffic policeman would have been on duty to stop one or the other. Traffic Policeman Ziegler was only three blocks away, walking toward his post, when the accident occurred. He goes on duty at 9 o'clock.

GIRL STUDENT MISSING.

Led by their Principal, Dr. Charles Vosburgh, 150 boy students of Jamaica High School spent yesterday searching the woods and marshes between Jamaica and Flushing for Goldie Blanche Hagerty of 278 Marion Street, Brooklyn, but found no trace of the missing student. Following a dispute with another girl student on Monday regarding a pair of gymnasium slippers, Miss Hagerty disappeared, leaving a suicide note.

"Miss Hagerty was a very sensitive, high-strung girl," Dr. Vosburgh said, "and the incident evidently impressed her more than any one supposed." The girl, so far as is known, had only 30 cents in her possession when she left home to go to school on Monday morning.

Bosch Magneto Closes for Month.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 8.—The production departments of the Bosch Magneto Corporation, it was announced today, will close tonight for a month, though the toolroom force will remain at work for a few days longer. Five hundred employes are affected. The office force will remain on duty. Lack of orders, due to quietness in automobile motor manufacture, is the reason given.

SEEK RADCLIFFE GRADUATE.

She Disappears From Boston Leaving Note Hinting at Suicide.

Special to the New York Times.

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—Diligent search for Miss Maud M. Daniels, Radcliffe graduate and secretary to Edward A. Merritt, a director of the Christian Science Church, who disappeared Sunday evening, Nov. 28, has failed to disclose the slightest clue to her whereabouts. Her mysterious absence has just become known.

Suicide is suggested, as it became known today that she left a letter with Mrs. Marie Le Claire, with whom she lived at 94 Gainsboro Street, Back Bay, requesting the disposition of her personal property.

Miss Daniels won the degree of A. B. at Radcliffe in 1913. She studied medicine at Johns Hopkins University and for a time was a teacher in Miss Agnes Irwin's school in Philadelphia.

On Sunday evening, Nov. 28, she attended service at the Christian Science Church, returning to her apartment about 9 o'clock. She was heard about her room, but in the morning it was discovered she was gone. The bed had not been slept in and a suitcase was missing. Miss Daniels is reported to have a sister in Englewood, N. J., and a brother in Colorado. Both have been communicated with.

Miss Daniels is tall, a strong swimmer and of athletic build. Samuel Burtis Baker Jr., an artist and close friend of Miss Daniels, declares she had no men admirers.

Puts 100 Women on Jersey Jury List

Judge Freeman Woodbridge directed the clerk of the District Court in New Brunswick, N. J., yesterday, to put the names of 100 women upon the jury list, announcing that after Jan. 1, women would serve regularly on juries.

CHRISTMAS CANDY SLUMP.

Retailers Are Blamed for Not Lowering Their Prices.

Special to the New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Despite the near approach of Christmas, candy sales in the United States have slumped, while the first nine months of the year saw record sales in every part of the nation, according to John T. Poole, President of the Western Confectionery Salesmen's Association, in session here.

Speakers at the convention said that the business slump was the fault of the retailers, who were not passing the manufacturers' reductions along to the consumer. They saw little hope of increased business until these price cuts were made.

The consensus of opinion was that by Jan. 1 candy prices would hit the bottom and probably stay there for some time.

PENNSYLVANIA KNIT COAT

The Christmas Gift that is long remembered

WHERE are the gifts you gave last year? Gone and forgotten? Worn out, smoked up, eaten up, broken up or poured down?

Why not give that man, woman, boy or girl a PENNSYLVANIA KNIT COAT this year? Every time they put on their PENNSYLVANIA KNIT COAT the spirit of Christmas Day will be revived in the minds of the wearer—it will be a constant reminder of your thoughtfulness and kindness.

A PENNSYLVANIA KNIT COAT will wear satisfactorily for several years—because the NOTAIR buttonholes are unbreakable; the shape-keeping shoulders are reinforced on the inside; the pockets are sag-proof, due to the patented reinforced feature; every garment fits right, looks right and feels right.

For every person there is an ideal style of PENNSYLVANIA KNIT COAT. For every purse there is a proper price. It is truly a long remembered Christmas gift.

BOND THIEF TURNS STATE'S EVIDENCE

Former Messenger Identifies Arnstein and Sullivan as Men He Dealt With.

ALSO ACCUSE "NICK" COHN

Gluck Tells of Accompanying Them When Stolen Securities Were Taken to Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 8.—Joseph Gluck, formerly a Wall Street messenger, under indictment for complicity in the $5,000,000 bond thefts of last year, was the principal witness for the Government today at the trial of Jules W. (Nicky) Arnstein and the other defendants under indictment on charges of conspiracy to transport stolen securities into the District of Columbia.

Gluck turned State's evidence and told the jury how the stolen bonds were brought to Washington by Arnstein, the witness himself and Isadore ("Nick") Cohn, who has never been captured. Gluck's testimony came as the climax to a series of revelations of immunity alleged to have been promised the offenders by the New York District Attorney if they would give evidence which would tend to convict Arnstein.

The securities, Gluck said, included 500 shares of Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies and 300 shares of St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad, which he had obtained from his brother, Irving, another messenger, upon arriving here, he continued. The securities were given to Cohn, who took them to the office of Sullivan & Co. but later reported to him that he had been unable to "put through all the bonds because it was past hours." Gluck said he received $1,000 as part payment on his share of the proceeds.

Gluck identified David W. Sullivan as the man who met Arnstein at the Pennsylvania Station in New York in October, 1919, and conferred with him at length about the stolen bonds. Gluck said the party then boarded a train for Washington, where the bonds were turned over to the local offices of Sullivan & Co.

Arnstein was introduced to him in New York, the witness said, by Cohn, as one who had outlets for stolen securities in many sections of the United States and Canada.

"I knew Arnstein as 'George,' and was introduced to him by Nick Cohn," said the former bank messenger. "I met Arnstein in New York the same day that the bonds were reported stolen. It was at the Wellington Hotel that I met him. I went there with Cohn. He told me that he had an appointment with a gentleman, and I was to wait in the lobby for him. After a few minutes a gentleman came in and stopped before Cohn. It proved to be Arnstein. I thought his name was 'George,' and knew him by no other name."

John F. Hogan of New York, a financial investigator, testified that he was visited by Cohn in October, 1919, and that a proposal was made that he assist in disposing of bonds which, Cohn declared, had been taken from strong boxes and would never be missed. Hogan said Cohn first made the proposal to a Mr. McKettrick of a New York brokerage house, and that McKettrick had referred Cohn to him. Hogan reported the matter to the New York authorities, he said.

MR. HOUSTON'S TAX PROPOSALS.

The Secretary of the Treasury presents an unanswerable indictment against the present income tax laws when he shows that more and more they are becoming unproductive. That is the fate of every impost that is heavier than the taxpayers can bear, and from the point of view of Government it is the worst of all faults in a tax law. Secretary HOUSTON shows in his annual report that the progressive surtaxes, rising to rates in excess of 70 per cent., cannot be collected. In 1916 taxpayers with an income of over $300,000 a year made returns of $992,972,985 subject to the tax; the next year this aggregate fell to $731,372,153, and in the year 1918 the aggregate was $392,247,329. The payers of the tax either took means to reduce their individual incomes or invested in non-taxable securities. Mr. HOUSTON shows that for the present fiscal year the excess profits tax is estimated to yield about $1,250,000,000, while for the fiscal year 1922 the estimate is $800,000,000, against an estimated yield for the fiscal year 1920 ended last June of a little more than $2,000,000,000. Other vices of the present system are pointed out by the Secretary, as, for instance, that the excess profits tax is grossly inequitable, bearing most heavily upon conservatively capitalized corporations, while those that have been overcapitalized escape with light exactions. But in truth the time has gone by for any argument that the surtaxes and excess profits taxes are unjust, extortionate and a menace to the prosperity of the country's business. They were vicious in theory, they have become unbearable in their application.

The amendments and substitutes proposed by Mr. HOUSTON will not, we are confident, commend themselves to the judgment of business men or of students well grounded in sound theories of taxation. There is a universal public demand for simplification of the tax laws, his proposals would add new complexities. Moreover, it would appear that he has not entirely freed his mind from the Kitchin theory that the duty to support the Government falls exclusively upon the "rich," that they must, and can be made to, pay its whole cost. That is a popular theory, we suppose it is widely held. It is unsound in two particulars. First, it is not and can never be true that only those who receive tax bills pay taxes; an attempt to "punish wealth" by high taxes operates in a large measure to increase the living costs of the people, insomuch that they are far more out of pocket than they would be under a system of taxation which equitably distributed the burden. Second, there is no just basis for the theory that a part of the people should pay the whole costs of the Government, the protection and benefits of which are enjoyed by all the people. A wise and just system would lay taxes in such a manner that no citizen would feel that he was assessed beyond his just proportion of the whole levy or beyond his ability to bear the burden. To indulge great numbers of the people in the delusion that they escape taxes altogether does not make for good citizenship.

It is commendable that the Secretary urges, what is obviously imperative, a reduction of excess profits taxes and surtaxes in the individual income schedules. His proposal that individual incomes should be taxed at two rates, the lower upon income saved or invested, the higher upon income spent or wasted, say 20 per cent. upon the former and rising to 50 per cent. upon the latter, seems to be objectionable upon several grounds. It is not simplification, it is a new complexity; it would put the penalty of higher taxes upon income spent for food, clothing and rent, a lighter impost upon money paid out for securities or invested in business; it imports into the business of raising revenue for the Government a social theory of encouragement to thrift that, like the theories of social justice which in its earlier days the Interstate Commerce Commission applied to railroad rates, is manifestly out of place. The best way for the Government to encourage investment is to leave in the custody of the taxpayer all his income save what is required for the expense of economical administration.

The Secretary presents a list of new or revised taxes upon a large number of commodities. This again is not simplification. All these levies involve annoyance to the taxpayer, they increase the difficulties and the cost of collection. Why we should cling helplessly to the forms of our present tax law, demonstrated by experience to be unsound and full of vices, when a vastly better substitute for the taxes now levied can be found, is inexplicable. The Government will need, as Mr. HOUSTON shows, about $4,000,000,000 of revenue annually for the next three years. There are floating obligations of the Treasury and Victory notes, all aggregating some $7,500,000,000, to be taken care of in the next two and one-half years. While Congress should give candid consideration to Secretary HOUSTON'S recommendations, it would fail in its duty if it did not attentively examine, with the assistance and counsel of business men and financiers of experience, the proposal now finding great favor wherever the subject is discussed, of substituting some form of sales tax for the greater part of the impost now laid in the form of corporation and individual income taxes. It is just that corporations should pay their proper share of the costs of the Government under whose protection they carry on their business. No one proposes that individual income taxes be wholly abolished. But the sales tax, while certain to yield abundant revenue, has so many elements of justice and equity, and of simplicity and ease and certainty of collection to commend it, that Congress will not satisfy the country if it fails to inquire thoroughly and with an open mind into the merits of that substitute.

THE LEAGUE HIGHLY PRACTICAL.

Some profess weariness with further discussions of the League of Nations. Grant that it is a fine ideal, it must also be granted, they say, that the world is not ripe for it. So they urge that we drop the unrealizable dream and get down to the hard facts of life and of business. Give up your visions and prophecies and show us something practical.

Well, the League is, in truth, one of the most practical agencies going. Its ideas and its machinery are of the most direct application to the world's present and urgent needs. You would scarcely look for a more hard-headed man than REGINALD MCKENNA, formerly Chancellor of the Exchequer and now at the head of the London Joint City and Midland Bank. He recently made an address before the University of Manchester on the general subject of international finance. In it he pointed to the universal dislocation of foreign exchange, with its resulting handicaps to commerce, and dwelt upon the serious financial difficulties confronting all Governments, partly due to inflated currencies, but more to enormous public expenditures. And what is the one hope of a way out, in the judgment of this practiced man of affairs? Why, the acceptance and strengthening of the League of Nations.

Mr. MCKENNA cannot be accused of being a dreamer with his head in the clouds. He made a minute survey of the public finance of the leading nations. Not one of them but is threatened with a deficit in the year's budget. And not one of them but would be instantly solvent and with a margin of funds for reconstruction purposes if it could wipe out or even greatly reduce the outlay on armaments. This is the expenditure, declared Mr. MCKENNA, which is "not merely exhausting the world, but actually destroying it." The reason everywhere given for spending such vast sums is national self-defense. This means, of course, an implied foreign menace. Remove the menace and you remove the need of arming on a great scale. The instrument, affirmed Mr. MCKENNA, lies ready to the hand of civilized peoples. It is the League of Nations.

Can the would-be economizers, at Washington afford to disdain this means of great retrenchment? They are groaning at the thought of the huge appropriation bills. They are calling out to each other and to the country that expenses must be radically cut down. Yet they say nothing about the real reason why it is proposed to lay out such vast sums on the army and navy. Just now the Poor Richards at Washington are lamenting because Secretary BAKER appears to have recruited more men for the army than the minimum fixed by law. The complaint is that this may entail an added cost of $16,000,000. But what is that compared with the huge total of the entire military budget? How this can be cut to the bone the League of Nations shows. But our intensely "practical" lawmakers have no patience with such a purely theoretical scheme!

Take the matter of attacking and extirpating typhus in Poland and elsewhere. The League is undertaking that work. It has the organization and the skill to do it as it could be done in no other way. Could anything be more practical? Typhus neglected is a menace to the health and commerce of the whole world. To fight it is a service not simply humane to the afflicted, but highly useful to all others. Such tasks came distinctly within the purview of the statesmen who framed the League of Nations. Yet it is the fashion at Washington to dismiss them as fanciful visionaries. Since when has it become the mark of a dreamer to save the money and preserve the health of millions?

SELECTIVE IMMIGRATION.

In his tour of study among the European centres of emigration, Commissioner CAMINETTI has gone to the source of our problem. There would be virtually no difficulty if we could be sure of receiving only such immigrants as are sound of body, sane and capable of being assimilated to American life in employment profitable to them and to us. Under normal conditions this has never been possible; in the present crisis the impossibility is grotesque.

Many of the arrivals at Ellis Island suffer from loathsome contagious disease. These it is possible to arrest and send back. Others, whose malady is no less contagious, are morally and mentally deranged, and many of these cannot be intercepted short of a miracle of mind reading. Already a problem of Americanization confronts us which is gigantic, impossible. To the expense of compulsory instruction is added the expense of public institutions for the defective in body and mind, for the criminal and the insane. And we have our own growing problem of unemployment.

The best solution lies in the ports which Mr. CAMINETTI is studying. Ellis Island must have outposts in Europe. Each emigrant should be thoroughly examined in his native environment and in the light of the local health and police records. To do this, as Mr. CAMINETTI points out, is mere justice to the intending emigrants, many of whom sell their worldly possessions to buy their passage, only to be turned back bankrupt and without a home. To develop a system of emigrant inspection in our consular offices is a work of many months, perhaps years. The proposal to shut off immigration for six months, a year, or two years, should be regarded from the point of view of this necessity.

As it happens, the National Committee for Constructive Immigration Legislation will hold a public conference today, at the Broadway Tabernacle, for the purpose of outlining "a rational policy and program." Among the speakers are the well-known authorities on the subject, including the Immigration Commissioner, F. A. WALLIS, Professor FRANKLIN H. GIDDINGS of Columbia, Professor H. B. FAIRCHILD of Yale and Professor EDWARD A. ROSS of the University of Wisconsin.

THE DRY SEAS.

American ships are American territory. That is the main point of the opinion of Solicitor General and Acting Attorney General FRIERSON, holding that the Eighteenth Amendment follows the flag, and that consequently the forbidden juice cannot be sold on these strips of American territory when they are on the high seas or in foreign ports any more than when they are at the docks in America. From the layman's point of view, at least, the opinion seems sound. One may deplore but cannot pity the thirst which, possibly from some subtle working of the law of contrast, is generated in so many voyages on the deep. One doesn't have to go east of Suez to observe this regrettable fact. When the three-mile limit is passed the passengers who have been crying "Open, then, the door!" crowd into the smoking room. This evil custom must be stopped. There is no three-mile limit to the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead law. Americans must not be allowed to go down to the sea in ships for the purpose of violating the Constitution and the laws.

It is said that it will be hard to make American ships dry on the seas. The more merit in doing it. It is hard work keeping Americans from getting half seas over on land. Nevertheless prohibition must be enforced. Naturally there will have to be a large force of agents employed in this foreign service. Masters of vessels are too often unsympathetic. Consuls can only watch American ships in foreign ports; can't do much else if they do that. Undoubtedly there is a large class of persons who would like nothing better than to be traveling inspectors of ship smoking rooms. A delightful, easy life! One only fears that, in the agreeable languor and disintegration of the severer morals which an ocean voyage nourishes, some or many of these prohibition peregrinators will fall by the way and act on the theory that rum follows the flag. These laxities of human nature don't merit the notice of statesmen at Washington or at Westerville.

Some of the steamship men complain that if the proposed enforcement is applied to American passenger ships it will be a mortal stroke at their prosperity, their existence. They think that the majority of their passengers are mildly wet, and that these will be diverted to foreign lines. Even if this were the case, can they expect any sympathy from the lawmakers? On land or sea, in air or under ground, Americans must be total abstainers. Financial and commercial necessities must yield to the supreme moral necessity. Besides, if the majority of Americans are prohibitionists, they will prefer to travel on prohibition boats. If they don't, we must have a law prohibiting them from traveling on wet ships.

THE SOCIALIST VOTE.

Socialist enthusiasts were confident that Mr. DEBS would poll a vote of some three millions. Available returns from forty-one States indicate that he received about 900,000. Adding to these figures the Socialist vote in 1916 of the seven States from which official returns have not yet been received, Idaho, Louisiana, Montana, New Mexico, North Dakota, South Dakota, Texas, and he would have about 950,000. Double that missing vote if you choose, and he would still have less than a million. In 1912 he got 897,011 votes. In 1916 BENSON, the Socialist candidate, got 585,113. In none of the great States did women vote. Presumably woman suffrage would have doubled at least the vote of 1916. It has not done so. There is real falling off, then, as compared with 1916, just as there was in 1916 compared with 1912.

In New York the Socialist vote for President in 1916 was 45,944. In 1918 the New York Socialist vote for Governor, under State woman suffrage, was 121,705. This year, under Presidential suffrage, it was 204,120. Considering the extent of radical propaganda and agitation and the misplaced sentimental sympathy aroused in many voters who are not Socialists by the expulsion of the Socialist Assemblymen, the Socialist gain is much less than not only the Socialists but some unprejudiced observers expected.

Next to New York, so rich in alien sympathizers and exotic doctrines, Wisconsin is the strongest Socialist State. It gave Mr. DEBS more than 80,000 votes. Wisconsin remains an island of miscellaneous unrest and utopian plan. In spite of Chicago, Illinois yielded less than 75,000 Socialist votes; Pennsylvania, whose industrial regions are a favorite field for the missionaries of the Socialist faith, cast 70,000 Socialist votes, California 64,000, Ohio 57,000, Minnesota 56,000, Massachusetts only 32,000, New Jersey only 27,000. There is small comfort for the Socialists in these returns. It is notable, moreover, that California, Indiana, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Ohio and Pennsylvania were poorer in Socialist votes this year than in 1912. The Socialists had great expectations that were not realized. Some of their prophets predicted the election of a dozen or more Socialist Representatives. One was elected. Even that model of American socialism with all its patriotic connotations, VICTOR BERGER, was beaten.

In view of all the irritations, dissatisfactions, nervosities, discontents, economic and financial worries left by the war, the vote of the Socialists must be regarded as meagre. They are hardly likely to have a better chance. They have shot their bolt, and it has fallen far short of their hopes.

"PANTS" FOR THE PAGAN.

It has been plausibly held that the essence of Americanism is a state of mind—not a matter of residence or of citizenship, but of allegiance to the fundamental ideals that have made this nation great. If this be so, we should be glad that Congress is not likely to act favorably on the President's recommendation for Philippine independence; for if the islands broke away from us we should part company with a gentleman who, whatever his own preferences in the matter of nationality, seems to be an American at heart.

This gentleman is Mr. SENTOS of the Philippine Senate, who has introduced into that body a bill which might well make our Congress look to its laurels as the leader of moral reform. Mr. SENTOS has noticed with pain the appearance of "half-naked pagans" in Philippine territory. The pagans in question must have become considerably more reticent in recent years if they are only half naked, but they are still naked enough to shock Mr. SENTOS. Moreover, their appearance has brought the whole independence movement into disrepute; "it "is capitalized by the opponents of "independence as demonstrating the "incapacity of the Filipinos for self-"government." So Mr. SENTOS strikes a blow for freedom and raiment. His bill provides that the Government shall buy trousers in vast quantities and give them to the populace free; and if any pagan refuses to wear them he is to be punished by five years in jail. Mr. WILLIAM H. ANDERSON and the Rev. Dr. CRAFTS ought to admit that this is 100 per cent. Americanism.

If anybody doubts the beneficent effects of American rule over alien races, let him look at this. Such a proposal would be unthinkable anywhere but under American influence. The Scotch, for example, still wear the kilt on occasion, but nobody doubts their capacity for self-government. Only where true Americanism has flourished is the intimate connection between politics and morality so thoroughly understood that irregularities in dress become presumptive evidence of political incapacity. It may be true that in some of the Pacific islands the forcing of European clothes upon converted natives has led to an increase in the death rate; but what is an increase in the death rate among reformers? Everything is morally right or morally wrong, usually the latter. If trousers are morally right, better to die in trousers than to live in the shameless G-string. As our Blue Sunday reformers tell us, these things must be forced upon the people whether they like it or not; for what is right is right.

At any rate, the Philippines are starting their experiment in self-government on the most approved of modern models. If PERICLES had worn trousers, probably the Athenian republic would have survived to this day; but, as the reformers assure us, Greece and Rome fell because of moral decay. Never shall that be said of America or the Philippines.

THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER.

The burial of an unknown British soldier in Westminster Abbey was the expression of a national sentiment that his sacrifice had ennobled him, had made him worthy to lie in the same earth with the most distinguished dead whom the empire had honored in that hallowed spot. The unknown, who might have worn the uniform of a county regiment or followed the colors of Australia or New Zealand, will in future symbolize the patriotism of the empire, and his tomb will be the shrine of men and women of British blood for succeeding generations. The sentiment buried there will move them as no inscription on the grave of a statesman or poet could do. The dust of kings will be passed by. "Where is the unknown soldier buried?" will be on the lips of visitors who feel the appeal to patriotism no matter what country they come from. The significance of the sepulture of the brave unknown in that place is distinctly national. No one in England, using the word as a synonym for the empire, thinks of asking to have a nameless soldier buried in Kent or Ayrshire or Galway. All the soldier dead lying in France belong to the whole people whose flag flies in every part of the world.

The proposal that has been made in this country to bring back from France the body of an unknown American soldier and give it burial with military ceremony in the home soil should not be associated with any State nor with any particular army organization. As in England and France, it is the nation that should do honor to the unidentified soldier, and his tomb should be a shrine for the Americans of all the States and all the lands under the flag. And that shrine should be in the National Cemetery at Arlington, where the bravest lie, men of the South as well as men of the North, who fought for the Stars and Stripes.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

An Appeal Comes From Afar. So far away is China, so alien are its people, or rather its peoples, so frequent and so enormous are its periodic slaughters by flood and famine, and so nearly indifferent and so wholly inefficient with respect to these calamities are its own rulers, that the active sympathies of Western nations are aroused with some difficulty, even by such terrible news as is now coming from that strange country. By an effort that can and should be made, however, realization of what is happening there is possible, and, realization once attained, response to the effort now making by The Christian Herald to get funds for use in the work of Chinese relief hardly can be withheld.

Children, women and men are starving to death just now in China, literally by the millions, as the result of a drought that has ruined all crops over a wide area of densely populated land. Great numbers, indeed, already are dead, but the others, or some of them, can be saved by help immediately given, and, though the aggregate amount required is a large one, that is because the victims are so many, not because more than a pathetically small sum is required for tiding each of them over the period of scarcity.

There are practical reasons of self-interest as well as those of sentiment and human brotherhood that should inspire action for the assistance of the starving Chinese. Probably no better investment of public funds, or at any rate none that proved more profitable in more ways, was ever made than was the refusal of the United States to take its share of the indemnity imposed, nominally on the Chinese Government and really on the Chinese people, after the Boxer rebellion. For that renunciation really was an investment, and the returns from it have been coming in ever since in the shape of respect and confidence felt for us in the Far East. Now again we have a like opportunity, and, almost alone among nations, we are able to utilize such an opportunity. Whatever we give to starving China will be returned to us, in one shape or another, after not so many days.

Must Lack Some Necessaries. After what she says was careful and minutely detailed investigation, Miss M. J. MURPHY, President of the Bindery Women's Union, states that a member of that organization, or any other woman industrial worker, must earn $1,571.81 a year or go without some of the bare necessaries of life. As she also declares that the average annual wage of the women in her union is less by $485.56, or more than a fourth, than the estimated minimum, it is evident, if the computation is correct, that many of the binders somehow or other manage to get along without some of the things listed as necessaries.

Inspection of Miss MURPHY'S itemized account of expenditures unavoidable by a woman worker living on the upper east side of this city reveals no item the cutting down of which could be considered possible. Certainly $234 for food, $166 for clothing, $174 for housing and $27 for light and heat are not too large; they evidence, indeed, an amazing economy. But on the list also appear, largest of all the items, $317 for "miscellaneous" and $624 for "dependents." It is customary to think of the woman worker as having only herself to support, but it seems that in the binders' union 68 per cent. of all the members share their earnings with dependents, and that only one-half of 1 per cent. of them are only partially self-supporting.

Hired to Steal, They Say. Little as is the dependence that can be placed on the testimony of self-confessed thieves, there is such a terrible plausibility in the tale of the men who tell of having been hired to steal automobiles, aged and well insured by the owners thereof, that it cannot be dismissed merely because it is a terrible tale or because the narrators have no claim to confidence.

Of course, there are thousands and thousands of motor car owners who would scorn thus to defraud the insurance companies. On the other hand, however, there are not a few members of this now enormous class who evidently are capable of anything except a decent respect for the rights, privileges and interests of their fellow-men, and if some of them have not utilized this simple device for getting rid at a good price of automobiles in the latter stages of "depreciation," then it is because they neither thought of it themselves nor had it suggested to them.

But if this practice has been long in vogue the wonder is that it has not been disclosed before. Insurance folk of all kinds are credited with at least an ordinary degree of sophistication and shrewdness, and on general principles they would not be expected to allow themselves thus to be swindled. So perhaps the tale is not true, after all. To hope so is possible, though not easy.

Publicity Makes for Safety. In the news that there have been cases of bubonic plague in Paris for some time past there is full explanation, of course, to be found for the campaign against rats about which more or less amusing reports have been coming from that city ever since early in the year. Evidently the rat hunting was not at all humorous, because of the ordinary inconveniences and losses which those animals cause everywhere. It was a serious effort to destroy the carriers of a dread disease. As such it is to be commended, but very far from being commendable are the Parisian sanitarians and health authorities who have concealed the presence of the plague. That is the old and very bad method of dealing with infectious maladies. It is still followed in only too many parts of the world—one of New York's northern suburbs has just done it with respect to smallpox—but more wisdom was expected in the city that claims to be the centre of wisdom and light. Presumably the fault lies with the "business interests." They are always afraid of driving away customers by telling the truth.

The Czechoslovak Societies.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read in the newspapers a report of a speech made by Dr. Thomas R. Killilea, Municipal Civil Service Commissioner, before the Allied Patriotic Societies League, in which he made very grave and very unjust charges of Bolshevism and sedition against the members of two societies commonly known as Red Turners and Blue Turners.

Both societies are composed of members of Czechoslovak origin, and have been in existence for over thirty years. Most of the members reside in my district, and I had their co-operation in Liberty bond drives, Red Cross membership campaigns and other patriotic activities. There is nothing red about the members of the so-called Red Turners, who received that nickname some thirty years ago, and there is no question as to their loyalty to our institutions. I am willing to vouch for their splendid Americanism, without reservation.

The order with which they are affiliated is known in Czechoslovakia as the Sokols; their main purpose is to promote gymnastic activities. Most of the members of the Czechoslovak legions who fought Bolsheviki in Siberia were members of the order of Sokols. Hundreds of the members of the local Sokols, both Red and Blue, served with distinction and valor in the United States Army during the late war, several as commissioned officers.

Dr. Killilea made a very serious mistake; he owes it to the loyal citizens thus attacked by him, and he owes it to himself to make a thorough investigation of the sources of his accusation. He will probably find out that his information was received from sources actuated by malice. When he convinces himself, he ought to publicly apologize for his unjustified attack on a body of decent, loyal American citizens.

Nothing Done About It.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

During the next ten years the boozers, bandits, morons, speed maniacs and half-grown girls who drive a majority of the autos will kill enough men, women and children to make a city the size of Albany. There will be a few miles of editorials wasting valuable wood pulp. Countless words will heat the air. But nobody does anything. Everybody seems to have forgotten that pedestrians were made before tin Lizzies, and that they have a right to be on earth. Such a simple remedy would be a law confiscating the cars of the assassins and sending them to the penitentiary for life.

An Art Jury for Ellis Island.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The question of over-immigration is raised. Having failed with a financial test and also with the medical and educational tests, how about trying a physical test? Why not bar entrance to our country to those who cannot pass a jury of painters and sculptors? EDWARD SIMMONS.

Selecting Judges.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Efforts should be made to enlist public-spirited organizations to impress upon the coming Legislature the importance of correcting the present system of selecting our Judges. The best results are obtained by their appointment, and the people are entitled to those benefits.

SHOP EARLY, PLEASE!

It was the Eve of Mary—night
Of Nights, when we repeat
To happy little children dear
The Christ Child story sweet—
When a weary shopgirl stumbled home
On aching, swollen feet.

All day and far into the night,
With scarce a moment's rest,
She'd hurried at the beck and call
Of shoppers' last behests—
Till "Merry Christmas!" only seemed Fate's annual bleak jest!

'Twas "Tie up this!" and "Where's my change?"
While frantic people fought
Each other at the counters for
Some bargain madly sought—
Those tardy purchases which long
Ago should have been bought!

My moral's very obvious
In busy days like these;
Let those who still have gifts to buy
Their earliest moment seize—
The Golden Rule at Christmas time
Is this: "Shop early, please!"

First Night's Sale From Several Collections Yields $1,850.

At the sale of etchings, engravings, drawings, &c., from the collections of N. B. Curtis, Sidney Hall, S. Davis and others at the Walpole Galleries last evening, an etching by Hedley Fitton, "The Two Mills," went to Kennedy & Co. for $105; an engraving by Albrecht Dürer, "The Carrying Off of Amymone," went to Max Williams for $90; S. Arlent Edwards's "Lady Sheffield," after Gainsborough, was purchased by Williams for $85; Knoedler paid $65 for Edwards's "Bosom Friends," after Sir Joshua Reynolds, and $32.50 for "La Toilette," a signed etching by W. Lee Hankey, contemporary painter-etcher. "The Prayer Maiden," by the same artist, went to Schwartz for $45.

Felix Isham was a buyer, paying $30 for Felix Buhot's "La Place Breda," and $32.50 for the same French etcher's "Les Grandes Chaumieres," both with Buhot's red stamp.

Returns for the sale, which will be concluded tonight, when a collection of pictures of Napoleon and events connected with his life, will be sold, were $1,850.

300,000 CHILDREN UNTAUGHT

Claxton Reports a Deficit of 80,000 School Teachers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Between 300,000 and 400,000 children were deprived of schooling last year as a direct result of the shortage of teachers, according to estimates made by P. P. Claxton, Federal Commissioner of Education, in his annual report made public tonight. No relief for the situation is seen by the Commissioner, who added that while from 110,000 to possibly 150,000 new teachers would be needed during the coming year, "we shall have at the outside 30,000 prepared teachers to fill vacancies, or a deficit of at least 80,000."

Of even greater moment than the actual shortage, the report said, was the increase in "sub-standard" instructors. More than half the 350,000 teachers of the nation, it added, are not prepared according to any reasonable standard for the work of teaching. The reasonable standard of preparation is placed at a high school education plus two years of professional training.

HOUSE PASSES TWO BILLS.

One for Medals for Seamen the Other for Marks on Merchandise.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The first legislative action of the House at this session was taken today with the passage of a bill authorizing the President to issue medals of merit for distinguished service performed during the World War by officers and men of the United States Merchant Marine. The vote was 315 to 17.

The House passed as its second piece of legislation a bill by Representative Haugen of Iowa, Chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, designed principally to prevent deception of the public in the purchase of manufactured articles wrapped or boxed so as to make them appear of greater size or quantity than the contents are by actual weight or volume. The bill, as passed, would require that the quantity or the contents be plainly marked on the outside of the package in terms of weight, measure or numerical count.

WARSHIPS REACH I-CHANG.

Americans There Now Safe Under Protection of British Guns.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The State Department was informed today by telegram from Peking under date of Dec. 5 that the United States Patrol Commander on the Yangtse reports that during the recent mutiny of Chinese at I-chang foreigners were not molested nor were oil installations interfered with.

It appears that the mutiny of the soldiers and the looting of towns is spreading through that district, in the course of which Chinese shops of foreign companies have been raided. The soldiers at I-chang, however, were quieted after the municipal authorities promised $100,000 pay.

Because of low water conditions American gunboats were unable to reach I-chang, but the American Patrol Commander has been assured by the British Patrol Commander that Americans there will be fully protected by British gunboats now at that point.

BULGARIA CLOSES LEGATION.

Minister Here Will Be Released to Cut Down Expenses.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Stephan Panaretoff, the Bulgarian Minister, has received instructions from his Government to turn ove rthe legation here to Dr. P. Lessinoff, First Secretary. A cable message ascribing budgetary reasons for the discontinuance of the legation and prospective appointment of a diplomatic agent.

Mr. Panaretoff has not planned his future work, but will leave soon for Boston, and probably spend the Winter there. He was Bulgaria's first Minister to the United States, having been appointed in 1914. During the war he was credited with having influenced this Government not to declare war against Bulgaria.

SAYS JAPAN CAN'T COMPETE.

Unable to Build Great Fleet, According to Admiral Kato.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Vice Admiral Baron Sadakicki Kato, Chief of the Japanese Naval Board of Education, interviewed by the correspondent of The London Times in Tokio, said Japan was unable, because of financial and technical reasons, to equal the naval achievements of the leading maritime powers.

Baron Kato declared Japan could not build more than the eight capital ships authorized by the last regular Diet, but it was intended that these should equal, vessel for vessel, those of other Powers, ad hence the construction of the largest types. The Baron said he hoped armaments everywhere would be reduced, in which case Japan's naval strtngth would be correspondingly changed.

ALFONSO TO VISIT CUBA.

King's Trip to Central and South America Planned for Summer.

MADRID, Dec. 8.—King Alfonso will make his projected visit to South and Central America either in the late Spring or early Summer of next year, if present intentions are not affected by new circumstances.

Argentina, it is said, will probably be selected as the central point of the voyage, but Cuba and possibly some port of the Central American republics will be included in the itinerary, according to persons closely attached to the King.

It is reported that Spain intends to purchase a new Embassy building in Buenos Aires, and, if possible, the King will inaugurate it during his visit.

The Queen will probably remain in Spain as a sort of regent during her husband's absence. The object of the King's visit is not merely of political import, but is also commercially and financially interesting.

No Wife-Desertion Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted today to recommend rejection of the proposed treaty between the United States and Canada to make wife and child desertion an extraditable offense. The treaty was negotiated three years ago.

FAR-OFF LANDS GIVE TO HONOR ROOSEVELT

Chile, China and Even the Leper Island of Molokai Contribute to Memorial Fund.

SITE NOW TO BE CHOSEN

Committee Meets in Washington Tomorrow to Discuss Location and Examine Designs Submitted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Former Senator Elihu Root, Chairman of the committee of the Roosevelt Memorial Association having charge of the erection of a monument in Washington in memory of Theodore Roosevelt, will be in Washington Friday with members of his committee to inspect sites and discuss plans.

The other members of the committee who will assemble here include James R. Garfield, James P. Goodrich, George Harvey, Hiram W. Johnson, Frank B. Kellogg, Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, Raymond Robins, Julius Rosenwald, Major Gen. Leonard Wood and Luke E. Wright.

William Boyce Thompson of New York, President of the association, with Hermann Hagedorn, its Secretary, and Charles Moore, Chairman of the National Fine Arts Commission, today made a preliminary survey of possible sites under the direction of Mr. Moore, whose commission is actively co-operating with the work of the association. Colonel Thompson said tonight that while it would be impossible to decide upon a site until the design had been determined, the possibilities of location would influence those in charge of the selection of a design. With the local possibilities and several designs before them the committee will on Friday discuss the plans for the memorial fully.

"The purpose of this association," said Colonel Thompson, "is to erect a monumental memorial in Washington to rank with the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial. In addition a Roosevelt memorial park will be established at Oyster Bay. For this work nearly $2,000,000 has already been subscribed by the American people.

"While the response to the appeal of the association was notable and stirring, there was in it really no cause for astonishment. Roosevelt had been deeply loved by his fellow Americans, and had never been followed more devotedly than during the last years of his life. It was to be expected that those who had thus loved him would be eager to do him honor.

"What was not to be expected was that Panama and Hawaii and the Philippines would stand in the forefront with Missouri and Ohio and New Jersey; that the leper island of Molokai would ask to be allowed to contribute, that Alaska would go over the top, and even Chile and China and the Virgin Islands send each their sheaf of contributions.

"The observance of 'Roosevelt Week' from Oct. 20 to 27 met with an overwhelming response. No one in the association will ever know exactly how many meetings were held in honor of Colonel Roosevelt during the week. In this work the schools of the country were especially responsive, as might have been expected. The life and character of Roosevelt, possibly more than any other, have appealed to the imagination of youth."

OPPOSE WAR LEATHER SALE.

Merchants Fear Department's Surplus Will Flood Market.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Dec. 8.—Protests against a War Department contract with a private corporation, which it is contended would demoralize the harness and leather business generally, have been filed in Washington by Cincinnati and Springfield (Ohio) manufacturers and the National Tanners' Council.

The contract in question is for the sale of surplus harness and leather goods left over from the war period. It is the contention that 2,000,000 sets of harness, 2,800,000 halters and 945,000 saddles were sold to the War Department for the equipment of only 381,000 horses used in the war. The bulk of this property, it is claimed, remains in the possession of the War Department unused and unsalable. Its value is estimated at from $25,000,000 to $100,000,000.

A contract has been made by the War Department with the United Harness Company of West Virginia to sell at minimum prices the material in the hands of the department. The cancellation of the contract is urged by the protesting manufacturers.

BANKS TO AID CATTLEMEN.

Say They Have Confidence in Southwestern Livestock Industry.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 8.—Bankers have confidence in the live-stock industry of the Southwest and will carry stock cattle loans at reasonable rates under an agreement reached at a conference between local bankers and Governor J. Z. Miller Jr. and Chairman A. E. Ramsay of the Tenth Federal Reserve Bank, it was announced today. It is not the intention of bankers to force liquidation of stock cattle, and further loans will be granted in exceptional instances.

Other conditions are satisfactory, the bankers decided. The conferences regarded the cattle situation as improving and pointed as evidence to the recent action of Eastern banks which heretofore have not dealt in cattle paper in subscribing to a fund of $22,000,000 to be lent to help the industry through the existing crisis.

DENVER CALLS DR. GATES.

New York Minister Wanted by Congregation of St. John's Cathedral.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 8.—The Rev. Dr. Milo H. Gates, vicar of the Chapel of the Intercession, Trinity Parish, New York City, has been called to St. John's Cathedral to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dean H. Martyn Hart last March. Dr. Gates will preach in St. John's Cathedral next Sunday morning. Accompanied by Mrs. Gates and her sister, Miss Garit, he will arrive in Denver Thursday.

Numerous social events have been planned to welcome Dr. Gates to his new charge.

Petroleum Signs in Chile.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—It is reported from Tacna, Chile, that surface manifestations of petroleum have been discovered near Tarata, in the mountains on the headwaters of the River Sama, at an altitude of 9,000 feet. The advices state that even a small development would be of local importance, owing to the scarcity of fuel. The Tacna-Arica Railway is paying high prices for Australian coal.

Miss Eleanor E. Dolgoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Dolgoff of this city and Bridgeport, Conn., was married last evening at the Hotel St. Regis to Henry S. Gerstle of this city, the Rev. Dr. George Kohut officiating.

The bride, whose father gave her in marriage, wore a white satin gown, embroidered in pearls and a veil of old rose point lace, which has been in the family for a generation. Mrs. M. Spiegel was the matron of honor and Miss Hilda Rubenstein the maid of honor. Arthur Lindau acted as best man, and the ushers were Stanley Jacobs, Robert Moers, Irwin Strauss and Dr. C. H. Rosenbluth. The ceremony was followed by a reception and dinner to about a hundred guests.

Schwartz-Sadowsky.

The wedding of Miss Betty H. Sadowsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Sadowsky of this city and Irvington-on-Hudson and Harry H. Schwartz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Schwartz of this city and Ardsley-on-Hudson took place last evening in the Crystal Room of the Ritz-Carlton. The Rev. Dr. M. M. Kaplan, Professor of the Theological Seminary, performed the ceremony. A reception attended by about four hundred guests, followed in the ballroom of the hotel.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Carl R. Sadowsky as matron of honor and Miss S. Gilman as maid of honor. Miss Edith Phillips, Mrs. Jack P. Sadowsky and young Miss Eleanor Landau, who acted as flower girl, were the other bridal attendants.

Mr. Schwartz is a graduate of Columbia University and is a member of the National Republican Club. He is an officer of the corporation of Schwartz & Jaffe, Inc. His bride attended Smith College and for some time has been active in social service work.

IVY TROUTMAN MARRIED.

Actress Wed to Waldo Peirce, American Artist, in Paris.

The marriage has been announced of Miss Ivy Troutman, the actress, and Waldo Peirce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mellen Chamberlain Peirce of Bangor, Me., which took place last week in Paris.

The bride's first professional appearance was at Wallack's in "The Last Appeal," in April, 1902. She later acted with E. H. Sothern, Miss Amelia Bingham, William H. Crane, John Mason and Mme. Simone. She was in the original cast of "Baby Mine." During the war she served in France with the Y. W. C. A.

Mr. Peirce is a graduate of Harvard University, and during the war served overseas in the Ambulance Corps. He is now an artist in Paris, and his first wife, the former Miss Dorothy Rice of this city, is also well known as a painter. She obtained a divorce from him in Bangor on April 27, 1918, when he was painting battle scenes on the western front for the French Government, from whom he received the Croix de Guerre.

ENGAGEMENTS.

Miss Susie Lovejoy to Wed George de Lancey Harris.

Thomas E. Lovejoy has announced the engagement of his daughter, Miss Susie Lovejoy, to George de Lancey Harris, son of D. P. Harris of this city. Miss Lovejoy graduated from the Gardner School of New York. Her father is President of the Manhattan Life Insurance Company. Mr. Harris was a member of the class of '18 at Harvard, and served two years with the American Ambulance Service in France.

Elbert-Maitland.

Mme. Benrimo of 1 East Fifty-sixth Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Goldthwaite Dorr of Forest Hills, L. I., announce the engagement of their sister, Miss Grace Elbert, to the Rev. Peregrine Neave Maitland, youngest son of the late Rev. Wittaker Maitland of Loughton Hall, Essex, England. The wedding will take place in the Spring at Brickclamps, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Digby Maitland at Loughton, England. On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Digby Maitland entertained at their home, 829 Park Avenue, for Miss Elbert.

YALE WELCOMES WAR BRIDE.

Capt. Ray Harrison and Wife Driven From Station on a Caisson.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 8.—Yale today welcomed the first war bride to come to the university for her honeymoon. Captain Ray Harrison of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, and his wife, who was Miss Elizabeth Love of Washington, D. C., returning from their wedding trip, were met at the railroad station by the officers of the training corps, who were on horseback, and in army fashion were driven from the station on a caisson drawn by six horses, escorted by a three-inch artillery piece, drawn by six horses.

The horses' harnesses were trimmed with red and white, with similar ribbons braided into their tails. The bridal party held a reception at the residence of Major Hoyle, commandant of the Yale Training Corps.

Mrs. Robt. Olyphant Gives Reception

Mrs. Robert Olyphant of 7 West Fifty-fifth Street gave a reception, with dancing, yesterday afternoon at the Colony Club for Mrs. Robert M. Olyphant and Mrs. Donald Olyphant, daughters-in-law of Mr. Olyphant, their husbands being children by his first wife. Mrs. Donald Olyphant was Miss Anne Marie de Courjemont, her marriage taking place last March. Mrs. Olyphant was assisted in receiving by Mrs. W. W. Rockhill, widow of the late Ambassador to China, Mrs. Prentice Strong, and the Misses Adelaide Landon, Kathryn Montgomery and Geraldine McAlpin.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Meredith were hosts last evening of the most brilliant ball of the season. They entertained at Rauscher's, with the Cabinet and representatives of all nations maintaining diplomatic relations with the United States, as their guests.

It was primarily a ball for the younger portion of society in compliment to the young daughter of the hosts, Mrs. Frederick O. Bohen, who with her husband and Miss Colby, daughter of the Secretary of State, assisted in receiving.

CARUSO HURT BY FALL IN OPERA 'PAGLIACCI'

Slips on Steps and Wrenches His Side as Act Ends—Resumes Role After Slight Delay.

Enrico Caruso, singing his classic rôle in "I Pagliacci" to a great audience at the Metropolitan last night, met with what for some time was feared to be a serious mishap. As he finished the aria, "Ridi, Pagliaccio," and ran up the steps of the mimic theatre on the stage, just as the first act ended, the tenor slipped heavily, wrenching the muscles of his right side. The excited house, its roars of applause dying to a murmur of alarm, saw at once that something was wrong. Dr. Sarlabous, when summoned to Caruso's dressing room, found him in acute pain and ordered him to lie down.

During a twenty-five-minute intermission, the theatre crowd waited eagerly, while Mr. Gatti-Casazza sent W. J. Guard before the footlights to explain that Mr. Caruso, though still suffering, would be able to continue, and that the performance would go on "without unreasonable delay." There was a renewed ovation when the tenor reappeared for the second act.

The "Prologue" was sung last evening by De Luca, in place of Danise, previously announced, while Destinn was the heroine and Moranzoni conducted. Following "Pagliacci," the new ballet, "Il Carillon Magico," was repeated, the dancers again including Galli, Bonfiglio, the Misses Roggie, Rudolph and Glover, under Papi's direction.

Oratorio Society's Spring Festival.

The Oratorio Society of New York, through the generosity of President Charles M. Schwab, is to give a second Spring festival of music at the close of the present season. An entire week of concerts, from next March 28 to April 2, will be held in the Manhattan Opera House, instead of the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, the scene of the festival last Spring. Mr. Schwab's aid has made possible the sacrifice of the armory's greater seating capacity, which, it is believed, will be more than compensated by more favorable acoustic and artistic conditions at the Manhattan. Conductor Walter Damrosch is now preparing programs calling for 1,500 singers and instrumental musicians.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Sam H. Harris will present "The Champion," with Grant Mitchell in the leading role, at the Longacre on Jan. 3. The play is a comedy by Thomas Louden and A. E. Thomas, and has been playing out of town for several months.

"Blue Eyes," a musical comedy, by Leon Gordon and Leroy Clemens, with music by I. Kornblum and lyrics by Z. Meyer, will be produced in Atlantic City by Lew Fields and Morris Rose on Dec. 27. The cast will include Dorothy Mackaye, Ray Raymond, Olin Howland and Donald MacDonald.

"The Passing Show of 1920" will open our of town during the week of Dec. 20, and come to the Winter Garden the following week.

Extra matinees of "The Prince and the Pauper" will be given at the Booth Theatre on Thursday and Friday, Dec. 30 and 31.

There will be a private performance of the Ziegfeld Midnight Frolic early tomorrow evening on the New Amsterdam Roof. The performance has been arranged by the George Batten Company.

Peng Chun Chang, the Chinese dramatist, will lecture on Sunday, Dec. 19, at the Garrick Theatre, at 3:30 P. M., on "The Drama in China," under the auspices of the New York Drama League.

MUSIC NOTES.

The Chicago Orchestra, founded by Theodore Thomas, is to introduce itself to New York in a concert on Jan. 25 at Carnegie Hall, conducted by Mr. Thomas's successor, Frederick Stock.

Hugo Riesenfeld will be host to fifty boys from the Broome Street Public School, Probationary Department, in charge of Rosemary Dolan, this afternoon at the Rialto Theatre.

Italy Honors Miss Crawford.

The Italian Red Cross has awarded Miss Rebekah Crawford of 43 West Ninety-third Street a gold medal, also a medal of merit and diploma on parchment, for her services to Italian wounded. Miss Crawford raised sufficient funds, about $5,000, to purchase American artificial limbs for eighty-four Italian veterans of the great war.

CAPT. MILES O'REILLY DIES.

Police Veteran Who Once Tried to Clean Up the Tenderloin.

Police Captain Miles O'Reilly, retired, died yesterday at his home, 775 Quincy Street, Brooklyn. Captain O'Reilly was born in Ireland in 1842. He came to this country early in life and when the Civil War came he enlisted and served throughout the struggle. After the war he was employed on a railroad for a time.

His career in the Police Department began in 1874 and his first assignment was to the Flushing Avenue, Brooklyn, station where he remained until his promotion to a sergeantcy in 1883. Two years later he became a Lieutenant and in 1895 he was made a Captain.

He was appointed an Inspector by the then Commissioner, Theodore Bingham, on April 4, 1908, and in January of the following year he was transferred from the Third District to become Borough Inspector in Brooklyn. In April, 1910, he was relieved of his Inspectorship and as Captain sent to command a precinct. This change, it was said, was made at his own request. He remained in command of the Prospect Park station until his retirement in 1913.

As an Inspector of the Third District Captain O'Reilly devoted his time to cleaning up the Tenderloin, but he soon discovered that his efforts were being hampered by certain members of the department who had misled him by reports as to their activities. When he asked for his transfer he told General Bingham that his energy had been undermined by the obstacles placed in his way.

Funeral services will be held in the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel, Putnam Avenue, Brooklyn, on Saturday morning. Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery.

FRANK HODSON DEAD.

Guide and Philosopher of American Embassy in London for 35 Years.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Frank Hodson, for the last thirty-five years guide, philosopher and friend of newcomers at the American Embassy and many American visitors to London, died early this morning in St. George's Hospital after a month's illness. Entering the service of the embassy as a messenger boy, he remained there all his life and assumed the position of general authority on all small things of London.

Did a member of the staff want to know the best stores to go to he asked Hodson. Did he want hotel accommodation in the height of the season he sent out Hodson. Was he interested in the latest Bond Street fashion he consulted Hodson. His knowledge of London was extensive and peculiar and it was always at the service of embassy officials and their friends.

Mrs. Agnes Bailey Ormsbee.

Mrs. Agnes Bailey Ormsbee, active in church and women's club work in Brooklyn and the wife of Hamilton Ormsbee, an editorial writer on The Brooklyn Eagle since 1895, died suddenly yesterday from a heart attack at her home, 182 Congress Street, Brooklyn. Mrs. Ormsbee had been a resident of Brooklyn for more than thirty years and in her early years had written for magazines. She was the author of "The House Comfortable," which was a textbook with Chautauqua circles. Mrs. Ormsbee was a former President of the Cambridge Club of Women, for ten years Regent of the Long Island Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, President of the Brooklyn Colony of New England Women, a former Vice President of the State Federation of Women's Clubs and a member of the Brooklyn Women's Club.

The Rev. Charles Severin Everson.

The Rev. Charles Severin Everson, Pastor Emeritus of the Norwegian Evangelical Lutheran Church of Our Saviour, 632 Henry Street, Brooklyn, of which he had been pastor from 1876 to 1918 and known as the oldest pastor in service of the Norwegian churches in the East, died on Tuesday at his residence, adjoining the church. He was 73 years old. Mr. Everson was born in Norway and came to this country in 1849, settling in the West. He attended Luther College in Iowa and the Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, Mo., and his first call as pastor was to the Danish-Norwegian Lutheran Congregation of Our Saviour at Perth Amboy, N. J.

HOPPE MAKES CLEAN SWEEP IN TOURNEY

WINS EACH MATCH EASILY

Makes Average of 40 in Afternoon and 50 at Night—His 239 Is Best Run of Series.

FINAL STANDING IN 18.2 BILLIARD TOURNAMENT.

	Won.	Lost.	H.A.	H.R.	P.C.
W. Hoppe	4	0	50	239	1000
J. Schaefer	1	3	22 4-18	172	.250
W. Cochran	1	3	16 8-22	92	.250

RESULT OF MATCHES:

Cochran, 400; Schaefer, 338.
Hoppe, 400; Cochran, 370.
Schaefer, 400; Cochran, 207.
Hoppe, 400; Schaefer, 176.
Hoppe, 400; Schaefer, 54.
Hoppe, 400; Cochran, 144.

By defeating Jake Schaefer and Welker Cochran in the last games of the annual national championship 18.2 balkline billiard tournament at the Hotel Astor yesterday afternoon and last night Willie Hoppe retained the title he has held for fifteen years. He defeated Schaefer in the afternoon match by a score of 400 to 54 and won from Cochran in the evening match, 400 to 144. In the night game Hoppe made the best average recorded during the tournament when he completed his game in eight innings for an even mark of 50. In the afternoon the champion made the highest runs recorded in the final round of the event when he hung up a cluster of 239 and averaged 40. Schaefer's average was 6 and his best run was 23, while Cochran's average was 20 4-7 and his highest run was 55.

Hoppe went through the tournament against the two strongest American contenders for his title without the loss of a single game. He played each of his rivals twice, winning all four of the matches. Cochran and Schaefer each won one and lost three matches. In the two games that they played against each other they split even, Cochran winning one and Schaefer one. There will be no play-off of the tie for second place. Cochran and Schaefer decided to pool their prizes and divide them equally.

Besides retaining his title and winning the diamond-studded gold medal, emblematic of the national championship, Willie Hoppe carried off the first cash prize of $2,500 as well. The prize for second place was $1,500 and the prize for third was $1,000. Thus Cochran and Schaefer will divide $2,500, each getting $1,250 each.

The games yesterday were productive of the best billiards seen in the tournament. This can be directly attributed to the fact that the atmospheric conditions in the grand ballroom were greatly improved. Little draft was felt and the warm air made the sensitive ivory balls very responsive to cue treatment. Delicate draws and half follows and reverse English shots were made with greater ease and far more precision than in any of the four games played previously.

Makes Run of 239.

Because of this Hoppe was seen at his best much of the time during both his games. He started strongly in the afternoon and maintained a fairly consistent pace throughout the remainder of the day and evening. It was in the fifth inning of his game against Schaefer in the afternoon that he made the high run of the finals, a cluster of 239. In the evening, while he failed to duplicate any such performance as that, he played better all round billiards and turned in the high average of the tourney, an even 50.

In spite of the improved conditions, however, the balls cracked for the third time. Just as Hoppe ran out the game last night it was noticed that small cracks were beginning to make their appearance in the balls. They were attributed to a very slight change in temperature toward the end of the game.

The gallery which witnessed the final game last night was the largest that was present at any of the games. Nearly a capacity crowd was present. All of the vantage points were occupied early and when Hoppe and Cochran stepped to the table at 8:30 o'clock the only vacant seats were at the sides of the room and high up in the temporary bleachers just in front of the balcony boxes. A delegation of Rotary Club members, headed by President Ray Knoeppel, was present.

Immediately after the game one of the first men to congratulate Willie Hoppe on his victory was Edouard Horemans, the Belgian, who has come to this country in quest of a match with Hoppe for the world's championship at 18.1 and 18.2 balkline. Horemans was one of the most interested of the spectators at all of the matches. He was a close student of every move made.

Hoppe Wins the Bank.

Hoppe won the bank and elected to play with the white ball. He lost no time getting down to real serious work and he ran 88 before missing an extremely difficult one-cushion shot, with the first object ball nestling in a corner and the second some twenty inches out from the rail.

It did not take Willie long to gather the balls at the start of the run. In three shots he had the ivories bunched in the upper left-hand corner. They lined up on his sixteenth shot, but a perfectly executed massé pulled the champion out of his difficulty. He made his first drive for position on his seventeenth shot. It was an around-the-table drive, and when the object ball finally rolled into a corner and snuggled beside the other the big gallery broke into applause. It was an attempted bank massé. The balls were well separated when he started work. But, as in his first inning, he collected them without delay. It was a pretty run in which just enough open-table playing was mixed with line nursing to make it extremely interesting. His sixty-eighth shot was the most flashy stroke of the lot. It was a long spread draw. For the remainder of the run he was absolute master of the situation.

Cochran's second effort was a little more encouraging. It found the challenger playing with little more ease and confidence than he had previously shown. He made a run of 16, and excellent demonstration of judgment in applying the proper speed to the ball. The balls got away from him on the twenty-eighth shot and Willie was compelled to play a three-cushion shot to get them together. So accurate was his position play that he did not make his second massé until the fifty-second shot. He had them under perfect control until the eighty-sixth shot, when they spread and he was confronted with a one-cushion. He made it and then followed a long draw for position, but Hoppe overplayed it a bit and the balls were scattered, necessitating a one-cushion shot that he missed.

Cochran's turn at the table was very brief. He made six and missed. He had not succeeded in getting the balls together before he fell down on a one-cushion shot.

In Hoppe's second inning he ran 105, finally missing when the balls froze, and he finally missed when the balls lined up and he was compelled to try a massé.

Hoppe Gets Busy Again.

Hoppe continued his sensational playing in the third. Ninety-four points were added to his total. The count was made principally on line nursing at the foot of the table. He made several force massés during the session, but, for the most part, it was a case of playing along the line, shooting one of the object balls to the short rail and bringing it back. On his ninety-fourth shot he had to play a particularly hard double across the table shot. He counted, and it left him a natural three-cushion shot. Although it was easier by one-half than the shot he had just made, he missed when his cue ball rolled around the second object ball in the corner.

Cochran's third inning netted him 32 buttons, made chiefly by ball to ball billiards up and down the table. Had he exercised a little more care there is not the slightest doubt that he would have fared much better. The balls got away just as it seemed as if he would succeed in gathering them in the corner for some close work. The position of the balls called for a one-cushion shot. It was a comparatively simple one, but Cochran grew careless and shot too quickly. He missed by a hair and left the balls in good position for Hoppe to work on them. But the champion, after scoring the first point, "blew" the second.

In the fifth round Cochran did the best playing he displayed during the evening. He made his high run of 55. It was a combination of all-around playing. There was some line nursing, there were drives, and there was open-table work. It was quite an interesting stretch of scoring and, again, it was a one-cushion shot that interrupted the run.

In the sixth inning Hoppe made one of the prettiest shots of the game. The inning was productive of 66 points. On the twenty-second shot the balls lined up on the lower rail. It required a powerful force massé to make the point, but Hoppe was equal to the occasion. It was a real exhibition shot and caused the big gallery to break out into prolonged applause. On the forty-eighth shot the balls were frozen and Hoppe elected to play a left-handed bank shot rather than have them spotted. He counted. He subsequently missed after making his sixty-sixth point when he failed to apply enough power to a half follow.

The score:

Hoppe—88, 105, 94, 1, 15, 66, 9, 22. Total, 400; average, 50; high run, 105.
Cochran—6, 16, 32, 17, 55, 11, 7. Total, 144; average, 20 4-7; high run, 55.

Hoppe Makes Huge Cluster.

The afternoon game between Willie Hoppe and Jake Schaefer produced the best billiards that had been seen up to that time. While it was decidedly one-sided, Schaefer being outclassed throughout, Hoppe's fine work more than made up for the lop-sided score of 400 to 54. Hoppe's average of 40 was the best that has been recorded during the tournament and his high run of 239 was the biggest cluster made in the final round. The record high run for championship tournament play is 308, held by Hoppe. Ora Morningstar made a run of 277 in the preliminary round of the tournament at San Francisco, but in none of the previous games in the championship round has any of the players been able to get going at a speed that approached that which the champion showed in putting together the run. The game was also the fastest that had been played, only an hour and thirty-five minutes being consumed.

By winning Hoppe removed the last possible chance there had been for him to lose the title he has held for fifteen years. It was the game that clinched the championship for him.

Hoppe's run of 239 was made in the fifth inning. There had been nothing during the earlier innings to indicate that Hoppe was on the verge of breaking out into any such billiard rash. It looked very much as if another game devoid of the sensational features which usually accompany Hoppe's championship efforts was about to be perpetrated. It was impossible for the spectators to tell whether the balls were behaving any better than they had been previously or whether the atmospheric conditions were still militating against the best billiards being played.

When Hoppe stepped to the table for his fifth inning the balls were widely spread. Schaefer had failed to count in his fourth round and had left the balls scattered. Hoppe gathered them quickly. He had them together after his third shot and began scoring with great rapidity. He had the ivories in the open table, but worked them toward the lower rail, and after his ninth shot he had the balls inside the balkline at the lower end of the table. It was very close billiards that followed, and it was evident that the champion had at last succeeded in gaining his normal control of the balls. The champion's dead ball draw and his delicate half follows enabled him to register 39 points before the ivories spread. He gathered them quickly, however, and at 61 had them on the lower rail again. They did not again get away from him until he had made 175 points. It was during this part of the run that Hoppe played the prettiest billiards seen in the tournament up to that time.

The Champion at His Best.

The champion's stroke was so delicate that it was seldom that the balls rolled an inch after being hit. And not once in that long stretch did he have to drive either of the object balls the length of the table. It was excellent nursing, and when it was necessary to knock one of the balls to the side rail to get the balls out of balk, so accurate was Hoppe's judgment of speed that a derby hat could have been placed over the three balls at the finish of each shot. It was Hoppe at his best.

From 175 to 237 the champion kept the balls together, his position playing being so nearly perfect that it was seldom he was confronted by a difficult shot. The balls did not line up on him very often, with the result that he was not called upon to make very many massés. In fact, he made fewer massés during the run than had been made in any of the sizable clusters in the previous games.

After his 237 shot he lost control of the balls, compelling him to play a difficult two-cushion shot for his 238th point. Another difficult shot confronted him for what proved to be his last point. After he made 239 the balls lined up diagonally across the table. It was not a close line-up and there was no chance to make the point with a massé. A bank shot was out of the question because the balls were spread too far apart. The only alternative Hoppe had to make the point and get some semblance of position afterward was to play a three-cushion, driving the first object ball up and down the table and forcing his cue ball to take two cushions, cross the table and come back to the second object ball. He missed.

Schaefer Makes His Best Run.

In his part of the same inning Schaefer made his best run, a cluster of 23. As the son of the late "wizard" stepped to the table the score stood 258 to 20 against him, an extremely discouraging prospect, but the Californian went about his work just as if he was within easy striking distance of the champion. His stroke was working well and he soon had the balls in position for what promised to be a healthy run, but he lost control of them and was finished after making twenty-three buttons. It was the only approach to good billiards that Schaefer showed during the game. The rest of the time Hoppe not only left him extremely difficult shots but, when Schaefer did succeed in getting the balls together, he couldn't hold them for any protracted spells.

The champion finally finished the game with an uncompleted run of 72. This closing run was more liberally interspersed with open table playing than any of the others. It was good all around billiards. On the forty-eighth shot the balls spread and Willie was forced to play some very pretty open table shots. His jockeying for position was very pretty and it did not take him more than four or five strokes to get the ivories together again.

The score by innings:

Hoppe—7, 7, 2, 3, 239, 16, 32, 0, 2, 72. Total, 400. Average, 40. High run, 239.
Schaefer—14, 5, 1, 0, 23, 3, 4, 0, 4. Total, 54. Average, 6. High run, 23.

Hoppe's Great Cue Work Wins Praise From Horemans

Edouard Horemans, the Belgian billiard player, got his first glimpse of top-notch American players in action at the national championship tournament which closed at the Hotel Astor last night. He attended all six of the matches. When pressed for his impression of Willie Hoppe after the final match, Horemans said: "He is a wonderful player. He is exceptionally good at driving the balls. His judgment of speed is excellent and his nursing is wonderful." Asked if he still believed that he could defeat Hoppe, the Belgian smiled and said: "Yes, I think I can. I am very anxious to play him."

HOPPE VS. HOREMANS MATCH HANGS FIRE

Managers of Billiardists Unable to Agree on Details—Meet Again Today.

Representatives of Edouard Horemans, the Belgian billiard player, and Willie Hoppe, the world's champion, held another conference yesterday forenoon. For a time it seemed that definite arrangements for two matches would be consummated, one at 18.1 balkline and a second at 18.2, for the world's championship in these styles of play. At the last minute, however, further hitches developed, and it was decided to postpone any further effort at matchmaking until today. They are expected to meet some time this morning, and it is possible that something of a definite nature will be accomplished.

Negotiations yesterday had progressed to the stage of where possible sites for the matches were being discussed. The Seventy-first Regiment Armory has been prominently mentioned and the representatives of the players went so far as to visit the place on a tour of inspection for the purpose of deciding just how suitable the big drill hall would be for such matches. Tentative dates late in January and early in February were also discussed, but just as it seemed that everything was about to be settled the negotiations came a cropper.

When seen last night Shepbard G. Barclay, president of the Billiard Feature Service, which is handling Horemans's American tour, said that he entertained fond hopes that the matches would be clinched at today's meeting. "There are certain minor details upon which R. B. Benjamin and myself could not agree, but I think it will be possible for us to get together when we meet today to thrash the matter out."

Horemans had hoped to arrange exhibition matches with both Welker Cochran and Jake Schaeffer to be played within the next week, but negotiations for such events fell through. Both Cochran and Jake Schaefer to be played fers made them, claiming that it was too expensive for them to remain over in this city for the week or ten days that would be required. They made arrangements to leave this city to return to California this afternoon. Horemans, however, did close negotiations for a match with George Slosson to be played in Boston in the immediate future, and for a match against Joseph Mayer, former amateur champion, to be played in Philadelphia.

SLOANE AND CLEMENS LOSE.

Johann and Worcester Take Matches in 18.2 Title Tourney.

Two matches were played in the national championship Class C 18.2 balkline billiard tournament at the National Recreation Academy in Brooklyn last night. J. R. Johann defeated C. Sloane, 150 to 82, and C. Worcester won from J. H. Clemens by a score of 150 to 123. There was nothing that bordered on the sensational or unusual in either of the games, but the play was interesting.

The match between Worcester and Clemens was close throughout and it was any one's game right up to the final inning. Worcester made an average of 2 36-57 and Clemens 2 11-56. The winner's highest run was a cluster of 14 while the loser's best inning netted him 10. Johann outclassed Sloane, taking the lead at the start and holding his advantage to the end. Johann's average was 3 3-49 with a high run of 20, and Sloane's average was 1 34-48 with a high run of 10.

The tournament is being played in three sections. F. A. Unger is leading in Section A with two games won and none lost. C. J. Steinbugler and C. Lewis are tied for the lead in Section B with two games won and none lost. George Spear is at the top in Section C with a like number of games won and lost.

GARFUNKLE BEATS LETZTER.

Winning Cueist Is Tied With Opponent in 3-Cushion Tourney.

Sam Garfunkle defeated Mannie Letzter in the amateur handicap three-cushion billiard tournament at Joe Thum's Academy last night. The score was 35 to 28. As a result of the game Garfunkle and Letzter are now tied for the lead, each having won seven games and lost two. J. Cohen still has two games to play in the tournament. Should he win both of them there will be a three-handed tie for first place.

Garfunkle not only showed great knowledge of the angles, but his safety playing was one of the outstanding factors in his victory. Letzter played in streaks. Could he have been somewhat more steady in his work at the table he would have made a much better showing. The game consumed 105 innings. Letzter's high run was 4, and Garfunkle's 3. Garfunkle played 17 deliberate safeties and Letzter 20.

LAYTON GOES INTO LEAD.

Defeats Kleckhefer in Title Three-Cushion Tourney.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—John Layton of St. Louis went into first place in the final round by defeating Augie Kieckhefer of Chicago, former world's champion, 75 to 68, in 77 innings, giving him a record of two games won and none lost. Layton and Cannefax will meet tomorrow night, and if the St. Louis player wins he will be the national champion.

FOXHUNTERS' FOUR BEATEN.

Admirers of equine sports gathered in force last night at Durland's Academy to witness a variety of those features, including a music ride, steeplechase and, chief in interest, a polo match, which brought together the Riding Club's Rovers and the Durland Foxhunters. It was a clean, hard-fought game, and the visitors proved to be also the victors. The score was 11½ goals for the Rovers to 10 for the Foxhunters.

The Durland trio had to allow the Riding Club's team 4 goals on handicap, which proved to be just a little more than the home team could make up, for the Rovers played remarkably good indoor polo. During the two periods of ten minutes each, numerous difficult goals were scored by several of the players.

The Foxhunters started out with a rush and Sherman was first to score, but that was soon offset by Jones, who made two in rapid succession, while Kinney duplicated that performance. Then Sherman drove another goal on a back-hand stroke at a difficult angle. Dr. Blackwell and Grannis added the other two goals for the Rovers, and Nelson tallied one for the home team. The score was 8 to 5 in favor of the Rovers at the end of the first chukker.

The second period was hard ridden throughout, and the spectators were kept on edge most of the time. Grannis proved to be the star of the Rovers in this chukker, while the Foxhunters shared honors about evenly. Just before the period ended, Dr. Blackwell was penalized ½ goal. The final score was 11½ to 10.

The lineup and summary:

ROVERS (11½).		FOXHUNTERS (10).
Pos. Player.	Hcp.	Pos. Player.	Hcp.
1—W. S. Jones Jr.	2	1—G. C. Sherman	3
2—H. B. Blackwell	3	2—W. A. Kinney	7

ANGON SHOWS WAY IN HANDICAP DASH

Gentry's Colt Five Lengths Ahead in St. Bernard Feature at New Orleans.

Special to the New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 8.—Lloyd Gentry's three-year-old colt Angon, which came here with a reputation earned at Latonia and twice failed his backers, finally scored a victory at Jefferson Park this afternoon. He won the St. Bernard Handicap, a dash at five and a half furlongs, which was featured on the card, and won it so decisively that there was no question of his superiority over the field. He got home five lengths in front of S. A. Clopton's Bullet Proof, while Uncle's Lassie took third from St. Quentin, the only other one to accept the issue.

The small field was due largely to the fact that the track was still heavy, and this condition appeared to favor the winner. Angon had been defeated by Bullet Proof at their last meeting, but he ran a much improved race today and indicated that he has only now come into form again. He was given a good ride by Murray, who saved ground all the way, and when the test came Angon drew away very easily.

Both St. Quentin and Uncle's Lassie showed fine speed, and the former ran a much better race than on his last appearance. These two went to the front at the start and alternated in setting the pace. Turning into the stretch St. Quentin was leading, but Angon, which had hugged the rail all the way, moved up with a rush, and finding an opening slipped through and once in front was never threatened. Bullet Proof was slow to get started, but showed plenty of speed once Coltiletti got him in motion. The Clopton racer rushed up to the field and was in a good contending position at the head of the stretch, but the effort seemed to tell on him, for he weakened in the final furlong when Coltiletti tried to catch the winner. Angon drew away so readily that Bullet Proof could not even threaten him, and he was doing his best to take second from Uncle's Lassie.

Only Two Favorites Win.

The favorites were hit rather hard during the course of the day, as only two of them were listed among the winners. The real long shot of the day turned up in the fourth race, a test at a mile and a sixteenth, when Tugs got his head in front at the finish, to win at 25 to 1, while H. C. Basch, which was an even money choice at post time, had to be content with third place, Sasin finishing just back of the winner.

H. C. Basch was well up with the pace for half a mile and then was permitted to drop back until he was in fifth position. Meantime Tugs and Sasin went into commanding positions and were left to fight it out in the stretch run. Tugs held on gamely after getting the lead, but was weakening at the finish and Sasin was wearing him down. The two were nodding only inches apart as they rushed toward the finish. The favorite closed with plenty of speed and was but half a length back of the winner. Cockroach, which set the early pace, quit badly and was last at the finish line.

The aged Back Bay was again in good form and accounted for a six-furlong sprint in the third event, this being his second victory here. He took the measure of Opportunity by a length, with Pullux getting third honors. Back Bay appeared to be much the best under the conditions, and following the early pace closely, moved into the lead at the half-mile pole and held his field safe to the end. Opportunity made a good effort, but was not good enough for the winner.

The opening dash for maiden juveniles went to Montillo, which won by only a neck from Secretary but was much better than the closeness of the finish indicated. He took command at the head of the stretch and, though put to a drive, held Secretary off all the way to the end. Mabel Josephine was third, three lengths further back, having got up in the last stride to get the position.

The summary:

FIRST RACE—Three-year-olds; maidens; claiming; purse $700; six furlongs. Montillo, 110 pounds (Wright), 9 to 2, 8 to 5, 4 to 5, first; Secretary, 112 (Rodriguez), 3 to 1, 6 to 5, 3 to 5, second; Mabel Josephine, 107 (Heinisch), 6 to 1, 2 to 1, even, third. Time—1:19 2-5. Perkins, 110 (Collins), 4 to 1, 8 to 5, 7 to 10, third. Time—1:44 3-5. Poultney, Ben Hampson, Searchlight III. and Spartan Boy also ran.

Weather cloudy; track heavy.

SANFORD BUYS ARCHAIC.

Runner-up to Spion Kop in Derby Will Be Brought to U. S.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—At the horse sale at Newmarket today the chestnut colt Archaio, which finished second to Spion Kop in the English Derby run at Epsom Downs last June, was purchased by John Sanford of Amsterdam, N. Y. Mr. Sanford paid 15,500 guineas for the horse, which will be taken to the United States.

Archaio is by Polymelus—Keystone II., and ran in the colors of Lord Derby.

Crow to Lead Penn M. C. Team.

CHESTER, Pa., Dec. 8.—William J. Crow Jr., son of State Senator Crow, was today elected Captain of the Pennsylvania Military College 1921 football squad. Crow is at present at his home in Uniontown, convalescing from injuries sustained in the game with Delaware on Thanksgiving Day.

To See if Betting System Conforms to Louisiana Law

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 8.—Whether the betting at Jefferson Park is being conducted in accordance with the Locke law will be definitely determined soon, according to an announcement made by Conrad A. Buchler, who will assume office as District Attorney of Jefferson Parish Friday. Buchler declared that he would begin an investigation of the betting system as soon as he took office. It is felt here that the future of racing at Jefferson Park depends on the outcome of the investigation. The Jefferson Park management declares that the system of betting complies with the law.

LONG SHOTS HAVE INNING AT HAVANA

Waterford's Victory at 15 to 1 Biggest Upset of Program at Cuban Track.

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 8.—The races at Oriental Park to-day were again run over a heavy track, the downpour last night making the footing sticky. The fields remained intact and there was only one scratch during the afternoon, Beaucaire declining the issue in the second race.

There were several surprises during the day, long shots having their first real inning. The victory of Waterford in the third race, when he galloped off with the heat at 15 to 1, was the biggest upset. He was practically neglected in the betting, only a few taking a chance on him. In the mutuel betting he paid the big price of $37.10 for a $2 ticket. There was very little difference in the two forms of wagering in the straight, but in the place price in the mutuel Waterford paid $16.40, against 3 to 1 in the books.

Waterford was a trifle slow at the beginning, but at the middle of the turn he rushed into the lead, and, increasing his advantage to the finish, won in a romp by two lengths. Pie was a head in front of Senator James.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—Purse $700; two-year-olds; five furlongs. Two Eyes, 109 pounds (Eames), 5 to 1, 2 to 1 and even, won; Draftsman, 109 (Crump), 2 to 1, 4 to 5 and 2 to 5, second; Bertha Minnix, 102 (McLaughlin), 4 to 1, 8 to 5 and 4 to 5, third. O'NEILL TO COACH COLUMBIA AGAIN

Advocates Stronger Football Schedule for Early Games Next Season.

Frank J. (Buck) O'Neill will again be at the helm of Columbia football next year, according to an official announcement yesterday by Robert W. Watt, Graduate Manager of Athletics. It was revealed that the former Syracuse gridiron coach signed a two-year contract when he was engaged last January to coach the Blue and White eleven, and the contract, of course, has another year to run.

Although there was no announcement concerning the makeup of the remainder of the coaching staff, it is considered likely that there will be changes in the list of men who assist O'Neill with the coaching. Dissatisfaction with the showing of the freshman team this Fall has led to the belief that the yearlings will have a new coach next Fall in place of Carl Merner, whose contract will expire in June. There is also a belief on the Morningside campus that the varsity coaching staff will undergo some revision and perhaps enlargement, so that a bigger corps of coaches will work with the first team on South Field.

O'Neill has already begun to lay his plans for the 1921 season. It is his desire to strengthen the schedule for next Fall, and in line with this the athletic management has begun negotiations for another big game in the middle of October. O'Neill is said to be desirous of giving the Columbia varsity a taste of strong competition early in the season, instead of postponing his hard tests until the tail end of the year. In some quarters at Columbia it is believed that the fact that Columbia was not extended in beating its early season opponents was partly responsible for the slackening up in the team's play against Swarthmore, Cornell and Penn. Either Centre College or the Army will be the mid-October attraction at the Polo Grounds, the game to be sandwiched in between more or less easy games with two of Columbia's New England's rivals.

In line with his policy of last year O'Neill will probably hold Spring practice next March on South Field. Last Spring the coach inaugurated his career at Columbia by getting the punters out for workouts three times a week. The same sort of drills will likely be ordered next Spring, and the remainder of the squad may be included in the call, in order that the ends and backs may begin elementary practice with the forward pass.

O'Neill has had little to say about his first year at Columbia. It is known that he considers the past season the most difficult he has encountered in many years, because of lack of first-class material with which to mold an eleven capable of meeting Cornell and Penn. The opinion among students and graduates is that distinct progress was made in the first year and that the building of a varsity eleven will require several years of hard work. Columbia's good showing against the smaller teams that formerly gave the Blue and White plenty of trouble has aroused much optimism as far as next year is concerned.

TRINITY DROPS WESLEYAN.

Permanently Severs Athletic Relations as Result of Football Game.

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 8.—Trinity College broke off athletic relations with Wesleyan University today. The action was taken by the undergraduate body of Trinity at a meeting this afternoon. The students voted for a permanent severance of relations between the two old Connecticut rivals. The undergraduate sessions followed a joint meeting here last night of the Senate of Trinity and Wesleyan, when a suggestion was made for a break in relations for two years, after efforts to adjust the differences between the two colleges had failed. At last night's session the Wesleyan Senate disavowed published statements derogatory to Trinity.

Football relations between Wesleyan and Trinity were resumed this year for the first time since 1915, when a break of relations occurred as a result of Trinity's eligibility rules and the playing of George Brickley, a professional, on the Trinity eleven. The present suspension of relations grew out of disagreements between the two colleges following the football game at Middletown, Oct. 9, which Wesleyan won, 20 to 0.

HARVARD INVITES GEORGIA.

Crimson Asks Southern University to Play in Stadium on Oct. 15.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 8.—The Harvard football management today wired a tentative invitation to the University of Georgia to play in the Stadium Oct. 15. This was the date offered to Colgate, but the latter has only Oct. 29 open on its schedule. It seems that if Centre accepts the 29th there will be no opportunity for a meeting with Colgate next Fall, but if the Danville eleven prefers Oct. 22, the tentative date with Penn. State will not go through, as the Bezdek team has a game for Oct. 15 and Harvard does not care to play such a strong opponent on Oct. 29, the week before the Princeton contest. In that case, Colgate can be accommodated.

The management has made overtures to Norwich, Middleboro and New Hampshire State to consider the proposition of being one of the two teams to play in the double header Sept. 24. Boston University has already been secured for one of the Harvard opponents that day. With two teams playing, Coach Fisher will have an opportunity to try out his whole squad.

The election of a captain has been postponed until Dec. 17, as Coach Fisher is unable to be present on Friday when the team photograph is taken.

STEIN ELECTED CAPTAIN.

All-Around Star to Lead W. and J. Eleven Next Season.

Special to the New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 8.—Russell F. Stein of Niles, Ohio, for three years tackle and regarded as one of the best men at the position in the country, was tonight elected captain of the Washington and Jefferson football team for 1921. The election was the result of an almost overwhelming vote, which was later made unanimous.

Stein's only opponent for the place was Harold A. Erickson, halfback of Maynard, Minn. It was generally accepted prior to the balloting that Stein's election was a foregone conclusion. Although Erickson had many friends who were anxious to see him elevated to the captaincy, the Minnesota speed boy, however, has two more years of college football, while Stein will conclude his gridiron career next fall, being a member of the class of 1922.

NEW ELI FOOTBALL COMMITTEE NAMED

Stoddard Heads List of Yale Gridiron Stars to Advise on Coaching System.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 8.—Captain Mack Aldrich of the Yale eleven announced tonight the appointment of the graduate football committee for next season. The committee will include Major Louis E. Stoddard of New Haven and New York, Chairman; Foster Rockwell, Portland, Ore.; Ted Lilley, Waterbury, Conn.; Ray Paige, Cincinnati, and Clarence Alcott, New York, all of whom were today endorsed by the Athletic Board of Control.

Major Stoddard and Rockwell are former Blue quarterbacks, Lilley was a tackle, Paige played guard and Alcott played end. They are all recent graduates, Major Stoddard, who is of the class of '99, being the dean of the quintet.

Stoddard played on the American polo team which opposed England in the last international tournament, and has been a member of Yale's rowing and football graduate committees for a decade. Rockwell was head coach of Morse's 1906 eleven. All five men were active in the Yale coaching campaign last Fall and are close friends of Head Coach Tad Jones. Their appointment means, in all probability, that Jones will return next year, if he can be secured.

Major Stoddard tonight authorized the denial of a yarn that the committee would immediately start an overhauling of Yale athletics. He said that it intends to produce the best system of football coaching above ground, but has nothing revolutionary in view.

Grimm and Van Divelve	1,232	1

The limit in capacity at Madison Square Garden was reached last night when the half-way point in the six-day bike grind was passed. A half hour before the night sprints got under way at 9:30 o'clock the doors of the arena were barred and padlocked. The interior of the Garden at that time presented a scene usually associated with the closing night of the race. Every seat in the place was occupied and the infield was crowded with a wildly excited mob, which had hardly enough room wherein to draw a comfortable breath.

Firemen detailed to work during race week ordered the doors closed about 9 o'clock. At that time the place was packed to suffocation, and there was no apparent let-up in the steady stream of enthusiasts pouring into the arena. Hundreds of prospective spectators, some of them holding tickets, were denied admission. It was estimated that close to 14,000 enthusiasts, attracted by the spectacular riding of the earlier part of the race, turned out for the third night's resumption of the mad whirl of wheels.

Fast Pace Is Set.

The night's spurts for points were productive of more than the average amount of sensational riding. The riders, cagy and wary of each other, to judge by their suspicious side glances rearward and to each side, discarded the custom of riding at a snail's pace between the sprints, and rode consistently while the sprints lasted. The jammed house was treated to a spectacular "jam" sandwiched in between sprints which for a time had the crowd in a state bordering on hysteria. Gaetano Belloni went away at a furious clip along about 10 o'clock after the fourth sprint, and he tore around the saucer for more than half a mile, opening up a gap of a quarter of a lap before being relieved by his partner, Francesco Verri. The latter, however, could not sustain the mad clip and was overtaken by the speedy little Brocco after slightly more than a mile had been covered.

The night sprints resulted as follows:

First Sprint—Coburn, Persyn, Vanlerberghe, Belloni, Lawrence and Egg.

Third Sprint—Coburn, Persyn, Vanlerberghe, Egg, Thomas and Miquel.

Sixth Sprint—Coburn, Vanhevel, Debaets, Leene, Vannek and Egg.

Tenth Sprint—Coburn, Vanhevel, Persyn, Verri, Egg and Thomas.

Because of the fact that their teams are in front of the remainder of the field in actual miles and laps covered, the combinations of Maurice Brocco and Willie Coburn, Julius Vanhevel and Henri Vanlerberghe, and Cesar Debaets and Alois Persyn automatically secure the three leading positions in each sprint for points. Brocco and Coburn are a lap ahead of the other two combinations, which, in turn, are a lap ahead of the main part of the field. Brocco and Coburn, therefore, get first place in every point spurt.

The other two teams are placed second and third, according to their respective positions at the end of each sprint. In the summary of each sprint, therefore, with the exception of the first, seventh and ninth tests, the actual winner is the rider who is placed third in the official order of finish. Coburn actually led home the field in the first sprint and Persyn won both the seventh and ninth of the series.

The aggregate point scores of the teams following the night sprints follows: Brocco and Coburn (two laps ahead of the main body of riders) 337, Debaets and Persyn (one lap in front) 207; Vanhevel and Vandenburgh (one lap in front) 201, McNamara and Egg 170, Bedell and Thomas 108, Piani and Leene 98, Miquel and Vannek 67, Taylor and Smith 43, Verrir and Beloni 38, Byron and Staehle and Spears and Lawrence 10.

Egg and Bedell in Spill.

The most serious spill of the race occurred during the afternoon session, which was marked by several spectacular though short-lived bursts for laps, in addition to the customary sprints for points. The riders most affected by the tumbles were Menus Bedell and Oscar Egg. Fortunately neither rider was incapacitated. Both resumed the grind after short rest periods.

Bedell went down in a spill early in the afternoon. Shortly after 1 o'clock Egg started a spirited jam and for five laps led the trailing pack at a terrific pace. On making a turn from Dead Man's Curve Bedell collided with Leene and both fell heavily to the flat of the track. Vanheye and Miquel were following a short distance back, and did not have time enough to swerve their bikes out of the tangled mass.

The result was that the five cyclists lay in a crumpled pack as track attendants worked to free them. Bedell was extricated, and it was found he was more seriously hurt than any of the others. The Long Island veteran sustained a painfully wrenched back which required treatment and applications through the remainder of the day.

Egg took a tumble following the finish of the fifth sprint in the matinée session and was off the track for fifteen minutes. The Swiss star was severely shaken up and sustained bruises about the legs and arms which were more painful than serious. After receiving medical attention Egg returned to the track. No other riders were embroiled in this spill.

The "regulars" at the race are awaiting almost breathlessly the expected recovery by Egg and Reggie McNamara and Bob Spears and Percy Lawrence, two combinations which were generously conceded winning laurels as the race started. These two pairs, like the majority of the riders, are two laps back of the leading Brocco-Coburn combination, but, notwithstanding, the crowd still has faith in the ability of the riders to provide some sensational riding as the other cyclists tire from the early pace. McNamara, not up to his best early in the grind, reported this afternoon that he had attained a state of physical and riding perfection which bodes ill for the other riders during the remainder of the race. Spears and Lawrence, too, are reported in excellent shape despite the hard going and are prepared to make their bid for first honors.

Yale and Army Will Renew Gridiron Rivalry Next Fall

Yale and West Point, which have not met on the gridiron since 1912, have been scheduled for a game on the Army's gridiron Oct. 22, 1921, Military Academy athletic officials announced last night. In their last meeting Yale defeated the Cadets 6 to 0.

The Army's game with Notre Dame will be played Nov. 5.

FOREIGN AMATEURS COMING FOR BOUTS

I. S. C. Arranges Tournament for Boxers of United States, France and England.

The International Sporting Club will inaugurate its indoor season of boxing with a series of international bouts in which service and police and fire department representatives of America, France and England will compete. This was announced yesterday upon receipt of advices from Matchmaker Tex O'Rourke in England, that plans for the foreigner's participation in the tournament had been virtually completed. The matches are scheduled for next month. The exact date and place for the bouts has not been decided on. In view of the fact that the I. S. C. permanent headquarters are not yet available, it is probable the bouts will be held at the Lexington Avenue Theatre. It is understood the I. S. C. officials have been negotiating for a lease on this building until the organization's clubhouse, now in course of construction, is completed.

Announcement of the virtual completion of arrangements for bouts in which army, navy, police and fire department boxers of England and France will engage Uncle Sam's fighters, discloses the first step towards a realization of a plan conceived many months ago by William A. Gavin, I. S. C. Managing Director. The work of actually arranging the bouts was delayed because of the amateur question involved. It was necessary to secure the co-operation of the governing amateur sports bodies in the respective countries, the Amateur Athletic Union here, and the Amateur Athletic Federations of England and France. The bouts will be held under the auspices and with the sanction of the controlling amateur sports bodies here and abroad.

The official sanction of the A. A. U. was reflected in the following cablegram forwarded yesterday by Secretary Frederick W. Rubien, to the Continental governing amateur bodies:

"A. A. U., governing amateur boxing in United States, sanctions boxing planned by International Sporting Club of New York. Send immediately amateur credentials of your army, navy, police and firemen. Contests to be under International Boxing Federation Rules and A. A. U. supervision."

This message was dispatched because of the expected early sailing of the invading boxers for this country. It is expected the boxers will arrive here in time to permit of at least two weeks preparation previous to the actual ring battles.

Government officials here and abroad are deeply interested in the forthcoming bouts. Secretary Josephus Daniels and Secretary Newton D. Baker, of the Navy and Army, respectively, and Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, challenged the heads of the corresponding government departments in France and England, when the proposition was first submitted to them. The defi was accepted abroad and subsequently considerable correspondence was exchanged between the officials of the three countries before it was decided to send Matchmaker O'Rourke abroad to complete arrangements. Cabled advices from the I. S. C. matchmaker indicate that the final details have been completed. O'Rourke is scheduled to leave England today, and on the trip over will be accompanied by French and British boxers.

The classes in which the bouts will be conducted are middleweight and heavyweight divisions. All bouts will be under the regulations of the International Boxing Federation and will have the sanction of the A. A. U., which controls amateur boxing here.

The Amateur Athletic Union is to select the Yankee boxers. It is probable an elimination series will be conducted.

HARVARD APPROVES THREE SCHEDULES

Baseball, Tennis and Wrestling Contests Passed On by the Athletic Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 8.—At today's meeting of the Harvard Athletic Committee the schedules of the varsity baseball, tennis and wrestling teams were approved. The baseball card will consist of twenty-six games in all if the series with Yale and Princeton are extended to three contests, as will be the case if the teams are tied. Two games less than the number last Spring are scheduled, chiefly because only four contests will be played during the Spring recess trip this season, whereas six were undertaken last season.

There are no contests scheduled with West Point, Annapolis, Virginia, Maine, Vermont and Bowdoin, and only one game with Pennsylvania. However, several dates are open and one or two of the New England nines may be taken on. The new opponents are Georgia Tech, University of Georgia and Oglethorpe University, which will be met during the stay of the Crimson at Atlanta from April 18 to 21. The squad will use the Georgia Tech field for practice. Colby and Bates are also new to the schedule and the University of Philippines has been assigned May 25 in case a trip this way is decided on.

Harvard again has agreed to play at Medford on Tufts' class day, which falls on June 18. No announcement was made where the extra game with Princeton and Yale would be played in case of a tie. One of the series will undoubtedly be decided in Boston, with the other in New York.

Jack Slattery, who coached the team last season, will undoubtedly be re-engaged. The Athletic Committee has delegated the duty of signing Slattery to Fred W. Moore, graduate manager.

Mr. Moore and Dean Le Baron R. Briggs, Chairman of the committee, were designated to decide if it were advisable to send the track team South during the Spring recess. If they report favorably Captain O'Connell's squad will meet Virginia at Charlottesville on April 20, and the Navy at Annapolis three days later. The team is making the journey for the purpose of conditioning and will train at Annapolis.

In the case of the tennis team a limited appropriation was made, and if the team makes the scheduled trip South it may have to curtail some of the subsequent matches. A squash racquets schedule for Teams A and B was also approved. The question of the proposed Eastern intercollegiate tennis tournament was left for future consideration.

Captain Lewis B. McCagg has picked his graduate rowing committee, and it was approved, as follows: Francis L. Higginson, Robert F. Herrick, Edward C. Storrow, Louis Saltonstall, Henry B. Cabot and Wendell Davis, who captained last year's crew.

VARSITY BASEBALL.

April 9, Bates; 13, open; 18 to 21, at Atlanta, meeting Georgia Tech, University of Georgia and Oglethorpe University; 23, Columbia at New York; 27, Colby; 30, Cornell.

May 4, New Hampshire State; May 7, Dartmouth; 11, Holy Cross; 18, Amherst; 21, Princeton at Princeton; 25, University of Philippines (in case of trip); 28, Princeton; 30, Brown at Providence.

June 1, Williams; 4, Pennsylvania; 8, Princeton (in case of tie), undecided; 11, Holy Cross at Worcester; 15, Fordham; 18, Tufts at Medford; 21, Yale at New Haven; 22, Yale at Cambridge; 25, Yale.

VARSITY TENNIS.

April 16, Agawam Hunt Club at Providence; 18, Richmond Country Club at Richmond, Va.; 19, Norfolk Country Club at Norfolk, Va.; 20, Navy at Annapolis; 21, Chevy Chase Country Club at Chevy Chase, Md.; 22, Baltimore Country Club at Baltimore, Md.; 23, Philadelphia Cricket Club at Philadelphia; 29, Williams; 30, Dartmouth.

May 6, Brown; 7, Springfield College Y. M. C. A.; 11, Providence Tennis Club; 18, Longwood Cricket Club at Brookline; 21, Princeton; 25, Tufts; 28, Yale at New Haven.

VARSITY WRESTLING.

Jan. 22, Springfield College Y. M. C. A.; 24, Brown; 26, Princeton.

Feb. 5, M. I. T. at Technology, Cambridge; 11, Yale at New Haven.

Weinert Scores Speedy Victory.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 8.—Charlie Weinert of this city knocked out Sergeant Ray Smith of Camden tonight in the first round of a scheduled twelve-round match. Weinert scored his victory in 1 minute and 35 seconds. The men are heavyweights.

Georgia Tech vs. Penn State At Polo Grounds Next Season

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 8.—The Georgia Tech football team expects to meet Penn State in New York City on Oct. 29, it was learned tonight, when the tentative schedule was made public. Other games include West Virginia, at Morgantown, W. Va., on Oct. 15, and Notre Dame, here, on Oct. 22. Yale will be unable to give Tech a place on her 1921 football schedule, the athletic authorities of the Georgia school were informed today by Dr. W. T. Bull, a member of the committee arranging the Yale schedule.

WEST POINT FIVE BEATS DICKINSON

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 8.—The Army had but little trouble beating Dickinson College at basketball today, as is shown by the final score of 38 for West Point to 8 for Dickinson.

The visitors registered only two field goals, both coming in the second half. Dabezies starred by excellent floor work and accurate shooting. Ten field goals were credited to the Army's fast right forward before the coaches took him out.

The line-up:

ARMY (38).		DICKINSON (8).
Debezies	R. F.	Irwin
Forbes	L. F.	Bailey
Storck	C.	Kreps
Kessler	R. G.	Smith
Pfeiffer	L. G.	Kennedy

Goals from field—Debezies (10), Storck, Kessler (2), Pfeiffer (3), Johnson (2), Bailey (2). Goals from foul—Kessler (2), Kennedy (3), Bailey. Assists—Debezies, Forkes (3), Storck, Pfeiffer (2), Kessler.

Substitutions—Army: Smythe for Debezies, Johnson for Forbes, Bonnett for Johnson, Whitson for Bonnett. Dickinson: Goodill for Bailey, Carter for Kennedy.

PEDDIE FIVE WINS EASILY.

Special to The New York Times.

HIGHTSTOWN, N. J., Dec. 8.—Peddie defeated the Fordham freshmen basketball team here this afternoon by the score of 52 to 20. The home team led throughout the game, the Maroon players being unable to pierce the strong defense shown by Coach Plant's charges. At the end of the first half Peddie was in front by the score of 24 to 7. In the second half the offensive play of the Fordham team improved considerably, but the Gold and Blue was still able to maintain a wide superiority. The features of the contest were the strong passing game and the team defense of the Peddie players.

PEDDIE (52).		FORDHAM (20).
Claves	L. F.	Manning
Norris	R. F.	Gallipoli
Throop	C.	Noble
Marshall	L. G.	MacMahon
Scott	R. G.	Hanigan

Substitutions—Peddie: Stifler for Cleaves, Cleaves for Norris, McLinet for Scott, Neighbor for Throop, Throop for Marshall. Time—20-minute halves. Referee—Mr. Mellick, Trenton.

SPEAKER PROPOSES GAMES WITH GIANTS

McGraw's Men Likely to Meet World's Champions at Dallas on March 19 and 20.

Joseph D. O'Brien, Secretary of the New York National League Baseball Club, received yesterday a telegram from Tris Speaker, manager of the world's champion Indians, suggesting two games between the teams during the Spring training season. Speaker mentioned Dallas, Texas, as the place that would suit him, and Saturday and Sunday, March 19 and 20, as his pet dates. O'Brien replied to the effect that he had no doubt the games could be arranged upon the arrival of Manager McGraw, who is expected to return here today to attend the baseball meetings soon to begin here.

Speaker's message, aside from putting a pair of interesting pre-season contests on the tapis, indicates pretty clearly that for the first time in years the Indians are to fit themselves for the pennant tussle in the Lone Star State. New Orleans has been the Spring pasture of the Cleveland athletes so long that they are practically considered as citizens there, but Dunn and Speaker have evidently felt the contagion of the Western emigration of baseball players, which will make them as thick as cotton blossoms in Texas in the coming Springtime. Dallas has been as willin' as Barkis for some time, and her coy wooing will evidently make her the hostess of the world's champions.

For some time past signs have pointed to the selection of Shreveport, La., as the training camp of the Yankees in 1921 and yesterday the decision was made by officials of the New York club. Scout Bob Connery, who has been looking over Louisiana cities, was notified by telegraph to make all the arrangements with the owners of the Shreveport Texas League Club for the use of grounds by the Yanks. The park will be at the disposal of the Huggins troupe from March 1 to April 2, and it is possible that Huggins will send some of the veterans South a few days before the other players are expected to report.

Connery has not completed arrangements for the training grounds of the Brooklyn club. He is now in New Orleans getting a line on the situation there.

MOTORBOATS ARRIVING.

Exhibits for National Show Being Set Up in Grand Central Palace.

Motorboats to be exhibited at the Grand Central Palace National Motorboat Show, which opens tomorrow night, began arriving yesterday, and are rapidly being set up in their allotted spaces. It is expected that all of the heavy exhibits will be in place by tonight.

Among the boats which are already on the ground is the 40-foot cruising model from the Burger Boat Company, Manitowoc, Wis. Other craft which have been set up are the Fay and Bowen boats, from Geneva, N. Y., and the Elco exhibits, from Bayonne, N. J. The 35-foot speed launch from the Greenport Basin and Construction Company, Greenport, L. I., is likewise here.

The safe and prompt arrival of these weighty exhibits confirms the committee in its belief that an early season show would remove the hazard of craft being stalled on the way and so lost to the exposition.

Many meetings of motor boat devotees are scheduled for next week in connection with the show, the most important, perhaps, being that of the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers. The Engineers Club will entertain this organization at luncheon on Thursday. The show will continue until Dec. 18.

FARMERS ACCEPT MILK POOLING PLAN

Two Thousand at Utica Agree to Proposal as Stockholders in Dairymen's League.

CRISIS NEAR, SAYS SPEAKER

Battle Between Producers and Middlemen Predicted—League Gains Heavily in Members.

UTICA, N. Y., Dec. 8—Two thousand farmers put the stamp of approval on the milk pooling plan of the Dairymen's League Co-operative Association at a meeting of stockholders of the Dairymen's League, Inc., in this city today. Twenty-four Directors were elected and they will be formally endorsed at the annual meeting to be held next week in Jersey City.

That the dairymen were facing a critical period was asserted by J. D. Miller of Susquehanna, Pa., a Vice President of the league, who said that a battle between producers and middlemen was imminent and would be as serious a contest as that between capital and labor.

Among the resolutions adopted was one urging a protective tariff on dairy and other agricultural products from foreign countries. A law to license oleomargarine sellers similar to that in Pennsylvania was urged.

Daylight saving was opposed and a resolution was adopted urging its repeal in New York State. Congress will be asked not to adopt any daylight saving measures.

R. D. Cooper of Little Falls, President, stated in his annual report that membership in the league had increased in a year from 79,224 farmers, owning 846,650 cows to 89,496 members, owning 949,651 cows.

Secretary Manning said that if all the people of the United States would consume two tablespoonfuls more of milk each day, they would consume all the milk manufactured into the surplus condensed milk, which manufacturers say they cannot export. It was this surplus, Mr. Manning said, that had resulted in a depreciation of the price of all milk. Mr. Manning said that up to Tuesday night 26,833 members of the league out of 89,496 had forwarded their contracts to the New York office.

Bruce Kilpatrick, Treasurer, reported a deficit of $11,697.96. His figures showed income for the year of $396,811.70 and expenditures of $408,509.66. The outstanding accounts are enough to wipe out the deficit. Assets of the league were given as $162,756.81.

SUBWAY TRAIN SUICIDE.

Soldier Jumps in Path of Express Train—Four Other Suicides.

Michael Shoeman of 1,038 Freeman Street, still wearing the uniform in which he had seen eighteen months' army service in France, jumped in front of a northbound Seventh Avenue express train at Times Square yesterday and was killed. On Tuesday Shoeman, who was arrested recently at Fort Slocum on a warrant charging desertion, told Judge Gibbs in the Bronx County Court that his nineteen years of married life had been marred by continual nagging by his wife, Mrs. Mae Shoeman. He had lived with her and their three children, David, 17; Leonard, 15, and Selma, 13, until six weeks ago. Judge Dike paroled him until Friday, when he was to have appeared in court again. Shoeman recently had conducted an insurance office at 1,270 Broadway.

Clementine Lessner, 52 years old, jumped from the window of her home on the fourth floor at 201 West 120th Street early yesterday and was found dead in the court below. The police said they learned from a relative that she had been in ill health and had tried unsuccessfully last Sunday to jump from the window.

Eugene Shirnacker, 34, of 8 East 108th Street hung himself to a gas fixture in his home. He was cut down, dead, by a policeman. Neighbors said he had been despondent and in ill health. He was married.

Mrs. Fannie Goldberg, 70, was found dead in bed with a gas tube in her mouth. L. Gerber, a son-in-law, discovered the body when he returned from work.

The body of a man who committed suicide Tuesday night in a studio at 6 East Fourteenth Street was identified yesterday by Horace G. McDonnell of 235 West Eleventh Street as that of his brother, Charles McDonnell, 30 years old, a writer, who came here six months ago from 105 Close Street, Montreal.

Montefiore Home to Show Work.

An exhibition of handcrafts from the occupation department of Montefiore Home and Hospital will be held at the Community Studios, 126 East Fifty-ninth Street, from Dec. 8 to Dec. 15, inclusive. The "work cure," which gained in vogue during the war and now is much in use in civil hospitals, has resulted at Montefiore in the production of toys, baskets, lamp shades, jewelry and metalwork, which will be shown.

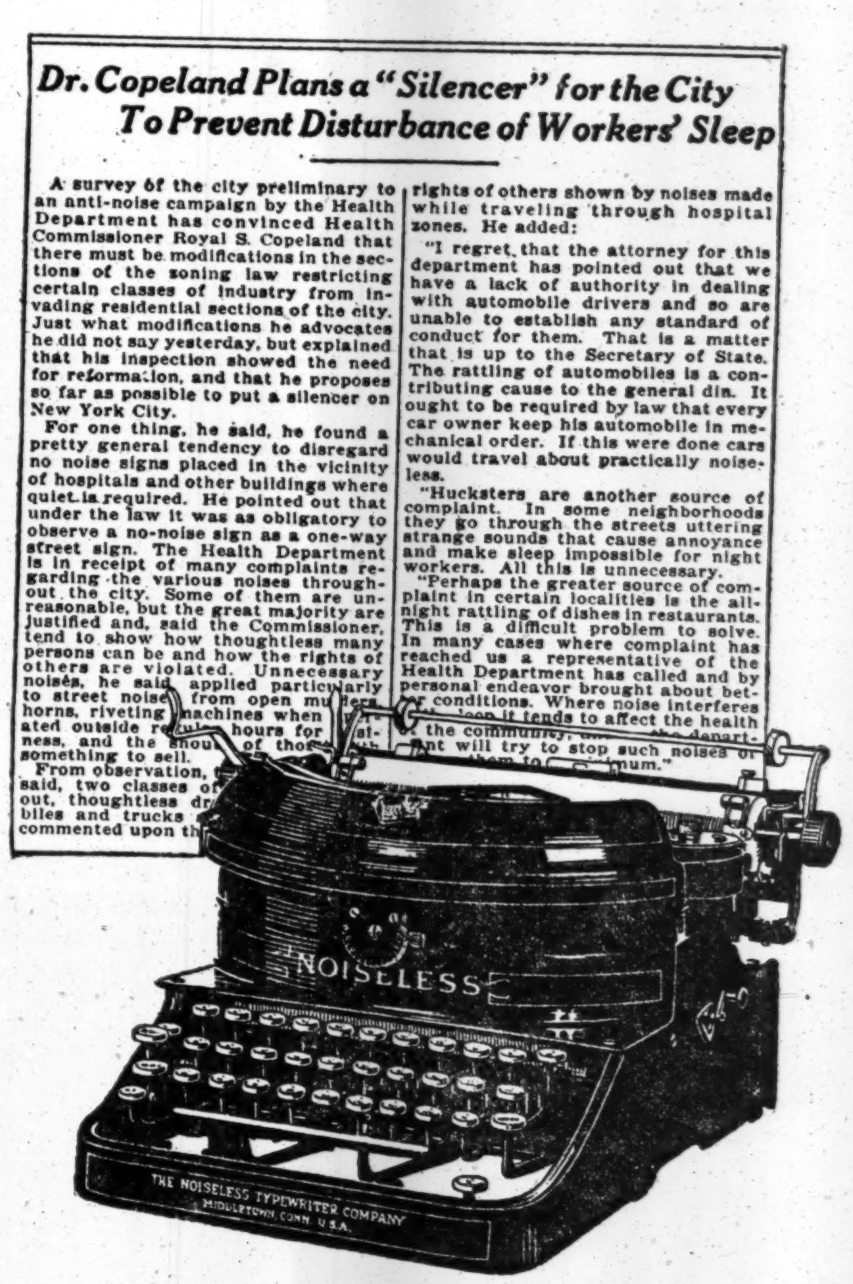
News item from The New York Times—



Dr. Copeland Plans a "Silencer" for the City To Prevent Disturbance of Workers' Sleep

A survey of the city preliminary to an anti-noise campaign by the Health Department has convinced Health Commissioner Royal S. Copeland that there must be modifications in the sections of the zoning law restricting certain classes of industry from invading residential sections of the city. Just what modifications he advocates he did not say yesterday, but explained that his inspection showed the need for reformation, and that he proposes so far as possible to put a silencer on New York City.

For one thing, he said, he found a pretty general tendency to disregard no noise signs placed in the vicinity of hospitals and other buildings where quiet is required. He pointed out that under the law it was as obligatory to observe a no-noise sign as a one-way street sign. The Health Department is in receipt of many complaints regarding the various noises throughout the city. Some of them are unreasonable, but the great majority are justified and, said the Commissioner, tend to show how thoughtless many persons can be and how the rights of others are violated. Unnecessary noises, he said, applied particularly to street noise from open mu horns, riveting machines when ated outside re hours for ness, and the shou of tho something to sell.

From observation, said, two classes of out, thoughtless dr biles and trucks commented upon th rights of others shown by noises made while traveling through hospital zones. He added:

"I regret that the attorney for this department has pointed out that we have a lack of authority in dealing with automobile drivers and so are unable to establish any standard of conduct for them. That is a matter that is up to the Secretary of State. The rattling of automobiles is a contributing cause to the general din. It ought to be required by law that every car owner keep his automobile in mechanical order. If this were done cars would travel about practically noiseless.

"Hucksters are another source of complaint. In some neighborhoods they go through the streets uttering strange sounds that cause annoyance and make sleep impossible for night workers. All this is unnecessary.

"Perhaps the greater source of complaint in certain localities is the all-night rattling of dishes in restaurants. This is a difficult problem to solve. In many cases where complaint has reached us a representative of the Health Department has called and by personal endeavor brought about better conditions. Where noise interferes leep it tends to affect the health the community, the department will try to stop such noises or them to nimum."

GREEK KING, ASKED, REFUSES TO QUIT

Spokesman for Constantine Says He Will Not Retire in Favor of Son.

CABINET STILL MARKS TIME

Plans for Return of Ex-King This Week Apparently Given Up —British Pressure Stronger.

CONSTANTINE IS CONFIDENT

His Abdication Would Probably Cause a Revolution in Greece, Prof. Streit Declares.

PARIS, Dec. 8.—The Greek Government has addressed a note to former King Constantine asking that he abdicate immediately in favor of the Crown Prince, says a dispatch from Athens today.

Says Constantine Won't Retire.

LUCERNE, Dec. 8 (Associated Press). —Ex-King Constantine will not relinquish his claim to the Greek throne in favor of his son George, it was declared today by Professor Georgios Streit, close adviser of Constantine here.

"The Greek people want Constantine so badly that his abdication probably would cause a revolution in Greece," Professor Streit added. "Prince George at present is in Bucharest with his fiancée and will not sail from Constanza, but will join Constantine en route and enter Athens with his father, either meeting the party at Brindisi or being transferred aboard Constantine's ship on the high seas. Constantine's party will board the transatlantic liner Patris at Brindisi, probably Saturday."

Constantine Informed of Plebiscite.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LUCERNE, Dec. 8.—Tino has received his first direct news from Athens in a telegram from Premier Rhallis. This message commends to him the result of the plebiscite as "proof of the attachment of the Greek people to the person of your Majesty, to whom all look as the emblem of national unity." Whether or not he is yet formally and officially "his Majesty" no one here knows, but at any rate Constantine's anger at the continued use of the familiar Tino against which he protested to me in an interview yesterday is getting fiercer. A member of his entourage this morning handed me a copy of a recent London Daily Chronicle headed, "Tino's return certain." "Tino" was underlined in blue pencil. Opposite in the margin was an obviously ferocious note of exclamation.

Meantime the exiles are busy finishing their packing. All the new wooden cases are now adorned with a painted crown, in addition to the inscription "Luggage of His Majesty, King of the Hellenes."

Return Put Off, Cabinet Waits.

ATHENS, Dec. 8 (Associated Press).—The plans to have former King Constantine return to Greece this week appeared today to have been abandoned. The decision of the Government apparently was to continue its "wait and see" policy, with the tendency to leave the decision as to Constantine's return to the throne with the former King himself.

The financial pressure of the British upon the Government, which has been exerted against the plan to restore Constantine, appears to have become stronger.

Former Premier Gounaris, leader in the movement which led to the downfall of Venizelos, has appealed to Venizelist army officers to keep their posts.

Notification regarding the result of the plebiscite held in Greece last Sunday was to be sent to former King Constantine at Lucerne, Switzerland, today, according to a statement by Minister of War Gounaris.

"Yes, he will come," he declared when asked if Constantine would return to Greece.

Premier Rhallis, however, declined to make a definite statement, saying: "We will wait until the King hears the result of the plebiscite."

It is understood Constantine will be informed of the count of the vote taken on Sunday, and that decision relative to his return will be left to him.

When the Earl of Granville, the British Minister here, visited Premier Rhallis early this week to hand him the latest British communication, the latter smiled and exclaimed:

"What, you have come with a new note? I have not answered the other two yet."

The Cabinet is spending much time in conferences, at which are discussed the financial situation and the possibilities opened up by the return of Constantine.

BRINDISI, Italy, Dec. 7.—Several members of the Greek Chamber of Deputies, politicians and other prominent persons have arrived here from Greece to join Constantine on his return to Athens. They say Constantine's entry will be the most triumphant since the days of ancient Greece.

GLOOM IN POLITICAL CIRCLES.

Departure of Ministers Would Follow Constantine's Recall.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, Dec. 6.—Complete plebiscite results are not yet ascertainable, but the returns overwhelmingly favor the King. According to Government statistics, compared with the recent Parliamentary election, there is an enormous increase in the number of voters. This is very marked in Athens, Piraeus, Thebes and Saloniki. The last official figures give the increase as 17,000, while Athens, Piraeus and Thebes combined registered an increase of 23,000 voters.

The Government explanation of this electoral phenomenon is that the Venizelists, disregarding orders of their chief, sank party politics in favor of national unity and voted for Constantine. The Venizelists are very angry at this. They affirm Socialists and themselves abstained absolutely and assert the official figures of the plebiscite were obtained by polling the cemeteries. The truth probably lies somewhere between the two versions. It is worthy of note that in Smyrna City, 1,100 officers and soldiers out of 12,000 are said to have voted for Constantine.

Despite the plebiscite victory, political circles take a gloomy view of the future. It is realized the time is drawing near when the Entente will call the tune and Greece will have to dance accordingly.

The Embros blames the Government for holding the plebiscite in defiance of the Entente, and says the Government is courting disaster politically. It shares the prevailing press pessimism and contends that while the Greek people have a right to chose their King it is doubtful if they are acting patriotically in flying in the face of the Entente. The Patris, a Venizelist journal, warns the Greeks they will soon realize the plebiscite vote was prejudicial to national integrity.

The earliest result of the return of Constantine will probably be the departure of the present Entente Ministers. It is considered impossible for them to remain accredited to a monarch whom their respective Governments officially describe as unfriendly and disloyal.

Flag on Tail of Toy Dog Brings Fine to Japanese

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—The display for sale of a toy dog with a miniature American flag attached to its tail brought S. Ishikawa into the Municipal Court today. Mrs. Ralph Kirtland, President of the Women's Civic League of Malden, and a member of the Daughters of the Revolution, complained that it was shown at Ishikawa's novelty shop in the Back Bay.

The merchant admitted the fact, said the toy was one of a lot imported several years ago from Japan, and pleaded that there was no intention to show disrespect for the Stars and Stripes. He was fined $10, with an admonition to take from his stock any other offending articles.

WILL SHOW KING'S HOSTILITY.

Allies Have Documents Revealing Attitude of Constantine and Sophie.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—A statement issued through a semi-official source says the Greek Government is expected to reply to the allied note with a statement intended to justify Constantine's policy during the war, in which event the British Government is likely to answer with documentary evidence of the ex-King and ex-Queen Sophie's hostility to the Allies, especially as expressed in their messages to the ex-Kaiser.

The Allies are said to have proof that on one occasion Constantine was personally instrumental in laying a trap whereby 200 British and French sailors lost their lives, and it was on this occasion that the ex-Queen telegraphed to her brother describing the affair as a "great victory" over four great powers.

A month later another telegram from Sophie to the ex-Kaiser contained the sentence: "We shall continue to use our influence in Germany's interest and against our enemies."

One telegram from the ex-King and the ex-Queen to the ex-Kaiser read: "We follow with admiration your great successes by land and sea. May God quickly grant you glorious victory over all our infamous enemies."

MONTE CARLOS FOR GREECE.

Constantine Will Seek Revenue From Gambling, French Paper Says.

Copyright, 1920, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, Dec. 8.—Greece will become a centre of pleasure and a gamblers' mecca once Constantine is restored to the throne, according to today's issue of Petit Bleu.

"Constantine has realized that his return to power would alienate the Entente's credit and support and therefore contemplates a business program," the paper says.

"Greece enjoys a delicious blue sky, an exquisite warm climate, with sunshine and flowers, wherein life is agreeable. Constantine intends to capitalize Greece's advantages. He already has concluded agreements with a group of powerful casino operators.

"Greece is situated where tourists gather to blow in their money. The plan is to establish casinos and up-to-date hotels in the Greek isthmus, and chiefly at Corfu."

WOMEN TAKE OVER ALL TOWN OFFICES

YONCALLA, Ore., Dec. 8.—Matriarchal government was in effect in Yoncalla today, the women who were recently elected to all municipal offices, including that of Mayor, having taken their places last night, when the men incumbents resigned in a body at the Council meeting.

The women announced, through the new Mayor, that they would start a clean-up of the town and make extensive municipal improvements.

The resignations of the men from the city offices, it was announced at last night's Council meeting, were merely to give the city officials-elect opportunity to begin the work of civic betterment at once. In farewell speeches the resigning male officers asserted they bore nothing but the best of feelings toward the new women officers, declaring that they would receive full support in their plans for municipal improvement.

The appointment of the women to the Council was made by Mayor Jesse R. Lasswell, husband of one of the new Councilwomen, after the Councilmen had resigned.

BRITISH NAVY PROGRAM.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The general view of the Cabinet regarding new naval construction will be announced in the Commons tomorrow by the Chancellor of the Exchequer. This statement was made in the Commons today by Sir James Craig, Financial Secretary to the Admiralty, in answer to a series of questions. Sir C. Kinlock Cook first raised the point by referring to the extensive program of the United States and Japan and the fact that no capital ships were being laid down by the British Government.

LONDON, Dec. 8 (Associated Press). —It was announced in the House of Commons today that the supplementary estimates for the navy will be over £6,000,000 and for the air force nearly £2,000,000.

SOCIALISTS TO SEE RUSSIA.

Party Will Send Commission in March to Stay Three Months.

The National Executive Committee of the Socialist Party completed arrangements yesterday to send a commission to Soviet Russia and appointed Mrs. Victor L. Berger, wife of the editor of the Milwaukee Leader, as an additional member of the commission. It is planned to have the commission leave the United States in March and to have labor unions elect delegates to accompany the Socialists. The commission will be in Russia three months.

Japan Recognizes Obregon.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 7.—Japan has recognized the new Mexican Government, according to a dispatch received from Leopoldo Blazquez, Mexican Minister in Tokio, and made public tonight by the Foreign Office. The Foreign Office also announced officially that Brazil had recognized the Government.

FIUME RECOGNITION DELAYS SETTLEMENT

Italy Unable to Grant d'Annunzio's Demand Without Understanding With Allies.

ROME, Dec. 8.—The Caviglia-d'Annunzio controversy over the application of the Treaty of Rapallo, which at one moment threatened to burst into flames, seems to be well on the way to amicable solution. In fact, it can almost be said it is virtually solved, because the last difficulty arises from the absence of the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Count Sforza.

The points in question are three. The one relating to the territories occupied can already be considered settled with the withdrawal of d'Annunzio's legionaries from groups of houses on the boundary line. There remains the occupation of the Islands of Arbe and Veglia, about which the Italian Government complains, but, on the other hand, the poet-soldier complains about the recognition of the Italian regency of the Quarnero.

"No definite accord can be reached," declared the representative of Fiume, "unless the first step is taken to recognize the Italian regency of the Quarnero."

The treaty of Rapallo does not explicitly recognize it, but acknowledges "the full independence of the State of Fiume." Recognition of the regency is of an international importance and cannot be granted by Italy without previous accord with the allied powers. Difficulties would arise not only for the regency but also for Italy if after Italian recognition there did not immediately follow that of the Allies.

The question had already been raised before Count Sforza's departure for London. It is therefore certain he has discussed it with Lloyd George and Leygues. This part of the controversy will be definitely settled upon Sforza's return. It seems that d'Annunzio has accepted and will withdraw his troops from Arbe and Veglia after recognition of the regency.

Crews Bind Their Officers.

MILAN, Dec. 8.—Still more complications have arisen in the eternal question of Fiume. The crews of the Italian destroyer Bronzetti and the ocean-going torpedo boat No. 68, which formed a part of the blockading squadron in the upper Adriatic, suddenly seized, bound and gagged their officers while at mess yesterday, then headed the vessels under full steam into Fiume harbor. They were enthusiastically greeted by d'Annunzio, who in a fiery harangue denounced Admiral Millo as a traitor who, along with General Caviglia, must be eternall yboycotted for the shameful violation of the thrice-repeated solemn oath of allegiance.

These warships have been formally added to the Quarnero regency fleet. Most of the superior officers, having declined to make common cause with d'Annunzio, were thereafter released and allowed to depart singly from Fiumian territory.

TRIESTE, Dec. 8.—Replying to a letter from Cardinal Gasparri, the Papal Secretary of State, counseling peace and moderation, the Mayor of Fiume says that the city is loyal to Italy and desires to rejoin that country.

People of Fiume Want Settlement.

ROME, Dec. 8.—Members of the Chamber of Deputies who have returned from Fiume have reported to Premier Giolitti the impressions they received from their visit there, insisting upon the necessity of a quick settlement of the problem in order to avoid unforeseen incidents like that of the destroyer and the submarine chaser, which have gone over to d'Annunzio, threatening to complicate matters.

Meanwhile the Government has received reports from Fiume to the effect that Socialist, Catholic and Democratic parties do not recognize the legality of the regency instituted by d'Annunzio, claiming that the people must be left free to choose their own form of government. The reports add that a large majority of the population of Fiume is ready to accept the Treaty of Rapallo, only wishing to settle the question of the Port of Baros, which they think cannot be separated from the remainder of the Port of Fiume.

The people of Fiume also are anxious to emerge from the abnormal situation, which for fifteen months has cut the city off from commercial activities.

The gravest difficulty seems to be that the Italian Government does not wish to recognize the Regency without positive guarantees that before long the population of Fiume will be allowed freely to express its self-determination. Premier Giolitti is anxious to take such action that once the Regency is recognized d'Annunzio shall not consider it as a perpetuation of his military rule.

ITALIAN LOAN TO SLAVS?

Secret Understandings Said to Have Been Made at Rapallo.

ROME, Dec. 7.—Italy and Jugoslavia reached a secret understanding at Rapallo, where the treaty settling the Adriatic problem was negotiated, by which the former would lend 1,500,000,000 lire to the latter through an Italian bank, according to the Giornale d'Italian

It is asserted also that a secret understanding contains the basis for an Italo-Jugoslav defensive military alliance. It would, therefore, appear that Italy has become part of the "Little Entente," made up of Jugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania, but without appearing officially as a member.

MAY LIFT RUBLE EMBARGO.

Washington Expected to Remove Alleged Obstacle to Russian Trade.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Acting Secretary of State Davis, Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board and Treasury Department officials, in a series of conferences, which began today, are considering the advisability of abolishing the embargo upon dollar-ruble exchange. Some American interests have complained that the embargo operates to prevent American trade with Russia.

The outlook today was that the embargo would be lifted and transactions in rubles authorized, although officials incline to the view that the embargo does not really interfere with trade. One of them remarked that "nobody is fool enough to buy Bolshevist rubles."

$500,000 Drive for Mt. St. Mary's.

Plans for raising $500,000 for Mount St. Mary's College, known as "the mother of bishops," were announced last night at a dinner at the Hotel Pennsylvania. The money is needed for the present needs of the more than a century old institution. New York is to raise $125,000 of the sum. William D. Guthrie presided and Bishop J. Collins of Jamaica, British West Indies, Mgr. Bernard J. Bradley, Mgr. John J. Tierney, Morgan J. O'Brien and Cletus Keating spoke.

Insane French Airman Hunts Victims; Tries to Kill Woman and Three Men

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 8.—At Arles, near Marseilles, yesterday, an airman for whom the only excuse is that he had suddenly gone mad, hunted three men and a woman for over an hour in the fashion of a hawk hunting a rabbit.

Two shepherds, a priest and a woman were standing together talking on a road when they saw an airplane flying toward them. Suddenly it swooped down and barely in time they threw themselves flat to escape the whirling propeller and heavy under-carriage. At tremendous speed the plane swooped over their prostrate bodies, missing them by a few feet. Then it soared away.

Trembling and very angry the four rose to their feet and decided to go at once and lodge a complaint with the police. At the worst they thought the airman had been guilty of great folly. In a few minutes, however, they heard the whirr of an engine behind them and looking round again saw the airplane flying straight in their direction. They could not believe that a deliberate attempt would be made upon their lives, but as he neared them the airman once more threw his plane into a deep descent, and once more they had to throw themselves down to escape being decapitated.

Aghast, they heard him pass over, then they scattered to try and find shelter in the bare fields, for some of them had seen the face of the man in the machine who was roaring with laughter, and they knew they had to deal with a maniac. In a few seconds back he came, circling over them again, and dropping down like a hawk on its quarry.

By now the terror-stricken shepherds and woman could only crawl from one place to another seeking some safer corner in which to hide. The priest, however, was enraged and tried to run down the long road to the village to get whatever help could be obtained and hoping to find some one with a gun who could frighten off the terrible hunter.

Again and again as he ran the madman swooped down on him and drove him to throw himself on his face in the road. Only to chase the others did he give up the pursuit, sweeping down sixteen times in all, till his victims were utterly terrorized. There was not a tree or a hedge on the fields to give shelter, and they were at the end of their strength before the madman wearied of his strange game and flew away.

Who he was has not yet been definitely established, as several pupils from a flying school near by were at the time in the air, but the military and civil authorities have started a rigid investigation with the intention of bringing a charge of attempted murder against the culprit.

HOPES TO ORGANIZE GERMANS ABROAD

Hamburg Conference Plans a "World League" to Serve Fatherland's Interests.

HAS A FRANK POLITICAL AIM

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—At the Hamburg congress of Germans living or having formerly lived in foreign countries Heinrich Siemer, editor of the Export Herald, proposed forming a world league of Germans, comprising all German individuals, societies, corporations and institutions in all foreign countries, this league to serve German interests in political, economic and scientific directions. For political work only such Germans are to be eligible as have never renounced or lost their German citizenship. For these members the league must secure active and passive election rights in Germany, and German diplomats and other representatives in foreign countries must be charged with taking special care of their interests.

The league, it is pointed out, cannot serve any political interest where Germans who have adopted a foreign nationality or lost their German citizenship are concerned. The latter, however, might be of great service in furnishing economic and cultural information in the countries where they are living and have acquired special knowledge. This material should be collected in Berlin and might become extremely useful for the improvement and growth of German industry and commerce. It is believed that such a league would be specially adapted to advise the German Foreign Office concerning the appointments of the German diplomatic and consular services, as well as to render great service in acquainting Germans at home with the cultural achievements of other countries, and vice versa.

It is recommended that in German societies and institutions other agencies should immediately be formed, whose sole task will be to keep in the closest contact with individual Germans or similar German institutions in foreign countries.

It was at first proposed to form the league immediately, but the congress in Hamburg desires to discuss the proposition more thoroughly.

Senator Carl Wilhelm Petersen, chairman of the Democratic Party and a member of the Reichstag for Hamburg, told THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent that it was not intended to solicit members in America, as that might be a cause of conflict with the United States, but that the league would welcome any relations with German-Americans except political.

WOMEN CANDIDATES LOST.

Their Sex Voted for Men and Liberal Laws in Massachusetts.

Special to the New York Times.

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—Women picked no plums in the annual elections in twenty-one Massachusetts cities held yesterday, returns today showed. Aside from winning places on school committees in a few cities every woman candidate for office was defeated. And this despite the fact that in practically every city women voted in almost equal numbers with the men.

The accepted verdict is that the women of the Bay State are not yet anxious to run the show but are content to let the men hold the important offices for the time being. Some of the women who were thought likely to win went down in a perfect avalanche of opposition, as in Springfield, where Miss Emma V. Healey, candidate for Alderman, was overwhelmed.

Though women cast 60 per cent. of the vote at Cambridge, Miss Mary Wyeth Willard, candidate for Assessor against John C. Haverty, was defeated by more than 5,000 votes. In Waltham, where women cast 65 per cent. of the total, two of the sex won places on the school board, but no others were successful

The fact that eighteen of the cities voted in favor of boxing and Sunday sports seems to indicate that women generally favor liberal laws.

While license was generally rejected, fourteen of the twenty-1one cities voted in favor of the 2.75 per cent. beer proposition.

ADMITS DEFEAT AT JUTLAND.

Vossische Zeitung Holds That It Is Not a Reproach.

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—The first confession that the German fleet did not win the Battle of Jutland is made this morning by the Vossische Zeitung.

Admiral von Scheer's secret report to the Kaiser has been published in most of the papers here, but few venture on any comment. The Vossische Zeitung, however, is quite frank about the matter.

"What was the result?" it asks. "The German fleet was put out of condition to fight for ten weeks at least. Certainly the British losses were greater, but a little blood letting is nothing to a giant, though fatal to a weaker adversary. The German fleet fought out the fight honorably against superior forces. That it did not achieve victory is not a reproach which should be leveled against it any more than that the unfortunate result of the whole war should be regarded as a fault of the German people."

CAMBRIDGE BARS WOMEN STUDENTS

Last of English Universities to Exclude Them Confirms Decision in Plebiscite.

WARM CONTROVERSY RAGES

Male Opponents Say That Women Should Have a University of Their Own.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Cambridge University, last of the great English institutions to maintain a policy of barring women students, by 904 votes to 712 in a plebiscite today rejected a proposal to admit women on equal terms with men.

Oxford granted this privilege to women students last Summer. The controversy, which has raged furiously in academic circles all Fall, involves more than the grant to women of the right to write certain initials after their names. The anomaly is admitted by all. Girton and Newnham women attend the same lectures, observe the same courses and sit for the same examinations as men, and occasionally prove, in the hardest tests, that they can beat the best champions the most famous colleges can pit against them, but it is argued that, as the successes of the women are recorded in the published honors lists, the injustice is more apparent than real.

The true point at issue is, Should women be admitted to a share in the university management and a voice in deciding its studies? Those who favor the change ask why not, and deride the idea that women need any different type of education to men. Has any one ever heard of feminist mathematics? they ask. They deny indignantly that women would ever be parties to a relaxation of the present standards.

The conservatives retort that women's needs are different to men's and that this will be increasingly obvious as university education for women becomes more general and women come up who desire not only the stiff honors courses which all Girton and Newnham students now must take but the broader and less advanced education that leads to an ordinary degree.

The proposal that Cambridge would welcome and assist in the formation of a distinctively women's university, with Girton and Newnham as a nucleus and associated with Cambridge, such as Radcliffe is with Harvard, has been set forth by Sir Geoffrey Butler, Fellow of Corpus Christi, in an interview.

"We should like to see women with a greater university of their own," he said. "In America women are proud to have their own universities and would hate to have men hanging around. They think it most unprogressive to form a little part of Harvard, for instance, instead of founding their own traditions. Some of the most enthusiastic of the younger Cambridge men would like to have women here in their own university, working for its degrees, but sharing with us in some of the treasures of the univerity, such as the library, and working for a time, at any rate, in our laboratories until their own were fully established.

"If Cambridge women are to lead education in England they can do it much more successfully in a university of their own than by joining ours."

Pessimists reply that such arguments are too late. They should have been made forty years ago, before women were even first admitted to lectures, and they draw pictures of all the best girl students turning their backs on Cambridge and flocking to the more liberal Oxford.

A peculiarity of the election is that it was decided more by the votes of the graduates who have long left the university rather than by the actual teaching staff, which is pretty evenly divided. Undergraduate opinion, as shown by the debate at the Union and by straw vote in the colleges, is strongly against women entering the university.

DAUGHTER WILLED AS WIFE.

Stepfather Marries Her in Five Days After First Wife's Death.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Dec. 8.—One of the most remarkable bequests on record is that by which Annamae Merritt, the daughter of Mrs. Robert C. Hayes, was given by Mrs. Hayes on her deathbed to the dying woman's husband on condition that the marriage ceremony should be performed within five days after Mrs. Hayes's death.

Annamae Merritt, who is now the new Mrs. Hayes, is a slip of a girl 20 years of age. Three years ago she married a man named Moore, who saw war service. Two years ago a son was born to the Moores, but their married life proved unhappy and a divorce followed, the wife resuming her maiden name.

After the divorce the young woman and her child lived with her mother and stepfather. Mrs. Hayes was taken ill with an incurable disease, and her chief concern during her last hours was lest her daughter and grandson suffer. When she realized that she could not recover, she told her husband:

"Robert, I want you to promise to marry Annamae within five days after the funeral."

He promised. The funeral of Mrs. Hayes was held Wednesday, and on Monday Annamae and Robert were married. Hayes is 35 years old.

JAPANESE NOT ILL-TREATED.

Visitors in Tokio Assert That They Do Not Suffer Here.

TOKIO, Dec. 8 (Associated Press).—A party of 170 Japanese who recently arrived here from the United States today denied newspaper reports that they had left America because of ill-treatment and anti-Japanese feeling there.

A representative member of the party declared that the Japanese never suffered because of race prejudice and were always fairly treated. The party, he said, had made money during the war and thus could afford to make a trip to the motherland.

SEE NO RELIEF YET FOR ELLIS ISLAND

Officials Say They Cannot Handle More Than 2,000 Immigrants a Day.

STAFF NOW 50 MEN SHORT

Steamship Companies Believe Congestion Could Be Lessened by More Efficient Methods.

Under the congested conditions at Ellis Island incoming aliens are detained from one to four days on the steamships at the piers or anchored in the harbor, and their relatives waiting in this city are unable to get near them. In many cases the families of persons who have been ordered deported have not been able to see them before they were returned to the ship and sailed from New York.

Immigration officials said yesterday there was no remedy in sight at present. They could handle only 2,000 immigrants a day on the island, and if 5,000 arrived in twenty-four hours 3,000 must stay on board ship until there was room for them to be inspected at the Immigration Bureau. The staff was fifty men short and no more money could be obtained from Washington to hire more help. Many of the old experienced inspectors had left the Government service, it was said, and good men could not be hired to fill their places because the pay was too small.

In certain cases, officials said, steerage passengers had been examined on board the ships or at the piers, in order to let the liners discharge their cargoes and get away. This was stopped by the Public Health Service because it was claimed there was great danger of immigrants landing with germs in their systems and spreading typhus and bubonic plague, and it was impossible to examine immigrants properly at the pier or in their cabins.

As to time that might be saved by inspecting the additions to the crews of the big liners each voyage in New York, instead of making from 800 to 1,100 officers and men show their cards with photos and thumb-marks, it was pointed out that the law was passed on May 5, 1917, and could be changed only by Congress.

Delays on Ellis Island are caused chiefly by the number of women and children who arrive from Europe without tickets or money to pay fares to their final destination. Women also come with their children to join their husbands. They have their railroad tickets and envelopes with names and addresses to which they are bound, but with no proof to show they are not liable to become public charges. These people have to be detained until assurance can be obtained that they will be properly cared for.

Examination of immigrants now takes twice as long as it did before the war, officials state, because of the greater number of questions to be asked and the literacy test.

The steamship companies, including the American lines, believe some of the delay could be eliminated if there was a little more efficiency on the part of the staff. They claim that after the Health Officer's staff at Quarantine has spent hours inspecting the steerage passengers it looks like wasted effort when the Ellis Island medical staff assert that these people must be examined again at the island and that it would be impossible to inspect them at the pier.

Commissioner Wallis left last night for Washington with Captain A. B. Fry, U. S. N., supervising architect of all public plants in the New York district, to appear today before the Appropriations Committees of Congress and discuss the cost of construction of proposed new buildings on Ellis Island, estimated at about $5,000,000, which, added to the present buildings, would provide an adequate $12,000,000 plant for handling immigrants.

BEATS BANDITS IN RACE AND PISTOL BATTLE

Chicago Business Man Saves His Life and $10,000 Fund by Quick Action.

Special to the New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Owen H. Yarnell, Chicago manager for the Elgin Motor Car Company, vanquished four bandits and wounded one in a sixty-mile-an-hour revolver battle early this morning, in which he saved $10,000. In a last-ditch stand not far from his home at 2,842 West Marquette Road, Yarnell hid himself in a patch of weeds, with his disabled car as a barricade, and beat off the four highwaymen.

Yarnell's fight with the robbers was the most spectacular incident in Chicago's recent criminal history. Yarnell had started from his downtown office with $10,000. At Seeley Avenue and Marquette Road a black automobile pulled up beside him and four men, each holding a revelver, ordered Yarnell to stop. Yarnell was two miles from home. His car, he thought, ought to beat the bandits' machine over the straightaway course. Ten thousand dollars was worth the risk, anyhow.

So he "stepped on her tail." His car jumped away from the bandits and was off up the boulevard in a cloud of dust, the speedometer registering better than sixty miles an hour.

As Yarnell sped away the robbers opened fire and raced their own machine. Bullets whistled past Yarnell's ears.

Half a mile beyond Seeley Avenue a lucky shot pierced the gasoline tank of Yarnell's car and the engine began to gasp. He sighted a vacant lot, spun the steering wheel around and crashed across the curbing into a patch of weeds. Then he turned off the lights in his car, picked up the money and dropped into the weeds.

The robbers halted their car on the pavement and rushed Yarnell. But they were at a disadvantage. Yarnell could see them; they could only guess where he was. One of the bandits fell. Yarnell fired again. The three other bandits hesitated, then turned, picked up their wounded companion and fled.

ROB 2 AUTOS, FIRE AT THIRD.

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Dec. 8.—Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Arnold of 819 West Sixth Street, Plainfield, while returning home by auto from Morristown early today, were held up on the Springfield road, near the Baltusrol Golf Club, by three masked highwaymen and at the point of revolvers were ordered to get out of the machine. The doctor was relieved of $27, all the money he had with him.

In the meantime they noticed two other autoists on the opposite side of the road, who, they learned, had given up nearly $200. They were Postmaster Robert L. De Camp and A. D. Tuttle, both of Westfield The latter offered to turn over his commutation ticket, but this was refused.

While the party was being detained Cormick Coyle and Edward Moraller came along in an auto on their way to Plainfield. By means of the headlights on their car they saw the other machines and people in the road and sensed a holdup. Just as one of the highwaymen approached Coyle gave his car plenty of gas and escaped, though bullets flew thick about them.

After getting all the money possible the highwaymen disappearad in the machine and the victims returned home. The police believe the robbers are members of a gang which has been terrorizing Northern New Jersey recently.

Orders Women Witnesses To Take Off Hats on Stand

Woman witnesses in the Bronx Supreme Court were ordered yesterday by Justice John Tierney to remove their hats on taking the witness stand. The Justice, who seemed to be annoyed by his inability to see the faces of the witnesses because of their hats, issued the following statement regarding his order:

"I have no objection to women wearing hats in the courtroom, but if a man has to remove his headgear when taking the witness stand there is no reason why a woman should not do the same thing."

'BAYONET TRENCH' HEROES GLORIFIED

HOPE IN US NERVED POILUS

Held Out and Endured Till Word Came From Across Atlantic, French President Says.

VERDUN, France, Dec. 8.—Dedicatory ceremonies of the simplest character were held here today at the monument erected to preserve the famous "Trench of the Bayonets." This monument, which is over a trench in which was entombed a battalion of French soldiers during the great struggle here in 1916, was made possible by a gift of 500,000 francs by George F. Rand of Buffalo, N. Y., who was killed in an airplane accident in England last December, his son assuming the obligation.

President Millerand, surrounded by Marshals Foch and Joffre, Minister of Pensions Magniot and other members of the Cabinet, took part in the exercises. Hugh C. Wallace, American Ambassador to France, standing uncovered upon the steps of the long, massive concrete structure, made the presentation address. He was followed by President Millerand.

The Rand family was represented by Mr. and Mrs. James Rand, the former a brother of the donor of the monument; George Rand Jr. and his sisters, the Misses Evelyn and Gretchen Rand, all of Buffalo, N. Y.; Frederick A. Jackson of Paris, an intimate friend of Mr. Rand, and Mrs. and Miss Wattles of Buffalo.

Ambassador Wallace was accompanied to this city by Colonel T. Bentley Mott, Military Attaché; Colonel R. John West, R. Henry Norweb, Second Secretary at the American Embassy, and many members of the embassy staff.

President Millerand, in a simple address, told the story of "The Trench of the Bayonets." He emphasized the fact that the French poilu "made it possible to hold out and to endure to the hour when the word that will stand as the final verdict in history was heard from across the Atlantic."

"America entered at this stage," M. Millerand said, "and it was here in the region of Verdun that her armies appeared, bringing with them the promise of a near triumph."

President Millerand rendered homage to America's volunteers and her ambulances, and recited the accomplishments of the American Army. "Pershing, like Lafayette, fought for the triumph of liberty under our united banners," he added, "America was victorious in the twentieth as in the eighteenth century."

M. Millerand concluded:

"Standing before the grave of French soldiers buried alive under arms in the sublime sacrifice, before the monument erected over this tomb by the piety of their American brothers in arms, let us call to mind the sacred oath of the men of Lafayette's and Washington's day. The alliance of France and the United States will never fail the cause of liberty and civilization."

Later President Millerand and Ambassador Wallace placed wreaths on the graves of the seven unidentified French soldiers whose bodies were exhumed from various sectors and brought to Verdun. Originally there were eight of these unknown soldier dead, but one of the bodies was chosen to rest beneath the Arc de Triomphe in Paris.

OPPOSE ACTION ON KAISERIN

German Socialists Fight Proposal to Express Sympathy in Case She Dies.

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—The Reichstag Board of Governors, in executive session, today began discussion of the advisability of passing a resolution of sympathy in the event of the death of former Empress Augusta Victoria. Quick opposition was encountered from the Socialist factions, on the ground that such a resolution would be a monarchistic demonstration and would, as a matter of course, necessitate a Republican counter-demonstration. The proponents of the resolution argued that it would merely be a matter of common humanity and devoid of any political significance. At the conclusion of the session decision still was pending, with the line of division sharply drawn.

The Socialist organs generally are avoiding use of the word "Kaiserin," and flatly reject the proposed resolution.

DOORN, Holland, Dec. 8.—The danger of the death of the former German Empress is considered temporarily averted, according to information given out at Doorn house today.

WHITE MOTOR NOTE ISSUE.

$10,000,000 in Ten-Year Notes May Be Offered—Salaries Cut.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8.—Directors of the White Motor Company at a special meeting in New York this week discussed plans for the issuing of $10,000,000 ten-year 8 per cent. notes, according to a report current in the financial district yesterday.

Stockholders some months ago ratified a proposal to increase authorized capital from $25,000,000 to $35,000,000, and it is understood the notes are to be convertible into stock at par, which is $50. Stockholders would have the first opportunity to subscribe to the notes, while the balance would be offered publicly.

The company's stock broke today to 33, a new low record.

PARIS, Dec. 8.—Georges Leygues, the Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs, this afternoon received United States Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois for a half-hour's conference.

DENY LOCKING OUT CLOTHING WORKERS

Manufacturers Say the Report That Doors Were Closed on 16,000 Is Untrue.

FIND NO WORK FOR THEM

Firms Declare Spring Lines Are Ready, but They Are Without Orders.

CONTRADICTED BY LEADERS

Men Not Called From Shops as Charged, Affirm Chiefs— Will Start Picketing.

A statement by Sidney Hillman, General President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America that 16,000 workers had been locked out by 6 manufacturers when they appeared for work yesterday morning was denied by William Bandler, President of the Cothing Manufacturers' Association of New York, who declared that the workers had been called out by the union. It was estimated last night that there were between 55,000 and 65,000 workers idle.

Mr. Hillman's list of firms which "locked out" their workers and the number forced to idleness in each instance is as follows:

Firm and Address.	No. Persons.
J. Friedman Company, 708 Broadway.	3,000
Big Six Rosenthal, 55 Fifth Avenue..	5,000
Schwartz & Jaffee, 568 Broadway.....	5,000
Bashwitz Brothers, 41 East 11th St..	2,000
Hayes & Levy, 100 Fifth Avenue......	500
Berger, Raphael & Weil, 41 E. 11th St.	800
Total............................	16,300

Appended to the list was a brief statement declaring that "the union now recognizes that war has been declared by the manufacturers, and will proceed to establish pickets at these shops and any others where the lockout is put into force."

When this statement was shown to Mr. Bandler, he said:

"It is absolutely untrue that there has been a lockout in this market. The fact is that the manufacturers have no orders. Their Spring lines are ready, but they do not know what they will cost. At 10 o'clock Tuesday morning the union called its men away from one factory and would not permit them to finish some Winter work that had already been sold and belonged to the buyer, not to the manufacturer.

"We have no thought of locking out the workers. In one instance, in the case of a man who has two factories, one here and another in a nearby city, the union refused to let him farm out the work to the out-of-town factory because of the situation there. There have not been 16,000 employes at work in the clothing industry here in weeks and weeks, and the situation does not affect 65,000 workers. Hillman never claimed a membership greater than 55,000 in all of his conferences with the manufacturers. This is a case where right must prevail. The public wants clothing at a right price and we are going to see that it gets it, and I defy the union to prove that it has a case."

Commenting last night upon the list of clothing manufacturers given out earlier in the day, Mr. Hillman said that Berger, Raphael & Weil told their workers that a non-union shop would be opened in Binghamton. The cutters then at work here inferred that the work they were engaged upon would be finished by non-union men, and quit. He declared that Friedman & Co. had discharged their cutters and had asked the tailors to finish the work then on hand. The tailors, he said, were told that they would not be permitted to start any of the new work then in the factory, and so they quit.

DID NOT THREATEN "WAR."

Sidney Hillman Said Labor Favored Industrial Order.

Sidney Hillman was incorrectly quoted in yesterday's TIMES as having said before the Church League for Industrial Democracy at the Church of the Ascension that if a clothing strike should take place "the Department of War will probably try to intervene; but I warn them that should any drastic action be taken by the so-termed lawmakers, industrial war of the fiercest kind will follow."

A transcript of the stenographic notes of Mr. Hillman's speech, which the union leader made public yesterday, showed that what he said was:

"Labor is being charged with the intention of revolution. It is labor that stood for order in industry and stands for it and is ready to fight for it. I am bringing this to you simply to illustrate what in my judgment the whole struggle is about. In this city, within the next few days, a struggle involving 65,000 clothing workers, and perhaps going further, taking 150,000 needle trades workers (in the City of Boston involving a few thousand) will begin. Perhaps tomorrow morning what we call our State Department will resign and the Department of War—industrial war—will take its place. It is important to know what are the issues that the fight is about, and I want to say to you that there is only one issue. The issue is for introduction of government in industry."

BOSTON WORKERS PREPARE.

Clothing Leaders Accuse Manufacturers of Trying to Kill Union.

Special to the New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 8.—Boston clothing workers are preparing to take up the fight with the manufacturers here. There are several thousand workers in this city, nearly all strongly unionized.

Antonio Ramuglis, Chairman of the Educational Branch of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers here, said today that the employers were driving the workers to "I. W. W. principles." "We haven't forgotten how to fight, and we can lay aside our books and take up the gun if necessary," he declared.

At a special meeting this morning the eight local clothing unions drafted a reply to charges of the local manufacturers' assertion that the workers had broken their agreements and that some of the union agents were "unfair, unscrupulous and untrustworthy."

The unions accuse the manufacturers of abrogating its agreements and says their alleged action is "in open defiance of the public interest of the orderly working of the clothing industry in Boston."

"If there were any grievances on your part you should have called a conference on or before Aug. 20, 1920, to consider them. This you did not do. We were justified, therefore, in believing that the agreement continued in force. Your sudden abrogation has every confidence of taking a favorable opportunity to break down the union and the carefully developed methods of maintaining industrial peace, and of desiring, when it may benefit you, to revert to a condition of industrial warfare."

A mass meeting will be called, it is announced, to acquaint the workers of the latest developments in the controversy. A strike can be called only after a vote has been taken.

MUSIC

By Richard Aldrich

The Detroit Orchestra.

The varied activities of the Society of the Friends of Music have reached as far as Detroit, and summoned thence the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, with its conductor, Ossip Gabrilowitsch, to a concert in Carnegie Hall last evening. Though this was an addition to an already superfluously large number of orchestral concerts provided in New York, the hall was filled with an audience keenly interested in the performance, that found occasion for much enthusiasm.

The program comprised nothing that was new, even unfamiliar, to most music lovers, unless the concerto for piano in D minor by Mozart, in which Mr. Gabrilowitsch played the solo part, was unfamiliar. It comprised, besides this, the overture to Weber's "Oberon," Brahms's First Symphony and Strauss's tone poem, "Don Juan."

The orchestra is an excellent body of musicians, though its tone can hardly be said to be, on the whole, of the finest quality. The strings have a full body, but the tone is somewhat cold and lacking in transparency, and the brass choir tends toward roughness. The first players of the wood winds did some excellent work.

But the engrossing feature of the orchestra's playing was the evidence of the training given it by Mr. Gabrilowitsch and the general precision of its ensemble, the spirit and elasticity, the rhythmical quality, the intelligence and musicianship of his readings.

There was no new disclosure of beauty or significance in either the "Oberon" overture or Brahms's symphony; but both were played with freshness and vitality. In the first movement of the symphony there was, perhaps, something too much of the modifications of tempo that are already composed and entered in the score. In the last Mr. Gabrilowitsch put an emphasis perhaps unusual upon some of the dynamic effects. But Mr. Gabrilowitsch on the whole has the precious gift of a real discrimination in dynamics. He knows that there is something—a good deal—between pianissimo and fortissimo, which sometimes seems in danger of being forgotten; and he makes valuable use of it. There was a full appreciation of the profoundly poetic and romantic spirit of the work, and an intelligence and right feeling in the control of the various choirs of the orchestra to show forth the deep and glowing beauty of Brahms's orchestration, which seemed more than ever the fitting and inevitable embodiment of the musical thought.

Mr. Gabrilowitsch's playing of Mozart's concerto was of exquisite clarity, delicate warmth and intensity of expression; a true interpretation of Mozart's spirit. And the truth of it was emphasized by the beautiful accompaniment given by the orchestra under the direction of Victor Kolar, well remembered as an orchestral player and composer formerly of New York. The accompaniment and the solo had clearly been fitted to each other by a process of adjustment none too common.

George Fergusson's Recital.

George Fergusson, an American baritone, (though Scotch by birth,) for some years resident in Berlin, appeared in a recital yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall. It was announced as his first appearance since his return from Europe; he was interned in Germany during the war. Mr. Fergusson's program contained a group of old French and Italian airs, a group of modern French songs, a group of Russian songs sung in Russian—Mr. Fergusson's command of Russian being one of the results of his internment—and a group in English by English and American composers.

Mr. Fergusson's voice is evidently not what it may have been once in richness and beauty of quality. Nor is his command of vocal technique such as always to give the best results. One of its results is sometimes throatiness of quality and sometimes hardness of tone; nor does he evince an equal facility in coping with all the vowel sounds.

Nevertheless, much of what Mr. Fergusson did in his recital was of absorbing interest, through his power of interpretation. He seeks incessantly intensity and truth of expression, significance of characterization. He thereby ranges through a wide gamut of emotion. There is the dramatist's touch in much that he does, there is facial expression and the subtle suggestion of a movement of the clasped hands, even of the fingers.

It may be said that he was not at his best in the old songs, especially in those that need sustained and equable tone. But his dramatic expressiveness and artistic phrasing gave its value to the poignant monologue from Monteverde's "Orfeo," a powerful and haunting example of "nuove musiche" of the Florentine reformers of the first years of the seventeenth century. Although frequently lacking in purely musical beauty his singing of the French songs gave pleasure. He had to repeat "La Colibri" by Chausson, and after the group added a charming folk song.

Mr. Fergusson did nothing better than the group of Russian songs, in which he showed sympathy and understanding. Most charming in its exposition of the plangent sentiment was his singing of Tschaikosky's "No Words, My Beloved!" There was a savage power in his presentation of Gretchaninoff's "My Native Land." Four songs by Moussirgsky received very characteristic interpretations, especially the "Serenade" and the "Hopak" (better known than the rest), full of dramatic vividness. There was a large audience to hear Mr. Fergusson that showed high appreciation.

Madge Kennedy, the beguiling young farceuse, who vanished into the movies some three years ago, leaving behind her nothing but deep regrets and a scattering of unsatisfactory imitations, reappeared on Broadway last evening in the leading rôle or rôles of an intricate and implausible melodrama called "Cornered." For many months there had been a persistent but delusive rumor that for her return to the stage she was only waiting for a good play.

The piece she has chosen, or perhaps merely fallen back upon, is one of those trick plays like "One" and "Smilin' Through," wherein the actress is required to embody two rôles, differing chiefly in raiment, and must needs spend a large part of the performance sprinting to and fro behind the backdrop and breathlessly shifting her costumes. Aside from the genuine and hearty welcome which greeted Miss Kennedy's first appearance last evening, there was quite a lot of applause seemingly intended as an appreciation of the speed with which she could change her clothes.

The twin sisters of "Cornered" are Margaret and Mary Waring, the one brought up to flounder in the lap of luxury, the other lost at sea in her mother's arms. How this less fortunate of the babies were picked up by a tramp steamer, taken to Hongkong and brought up pure as the driven snow among thieves and pickpockets—that all belongs in what the manuals of playwriting call the antecedent action. How Fate, with considerable assistance from Dodson Mitchell, brings the two sisters face to face under the Waring roof, when the unconscious Mary is trying to burgle the mansion of her more fortunate sister; how her gift for mind-reading, which is thrown in for good measure among her other accomplishments, extricates her from the ensuing predicaments; and how one of those amulet devices, without which no baby in a play should ever consent to be lost, at last establishes her identity, all that belongs in an outline of "Cornered."

It is enough of an outline to suggest that it is one of those natural born movie scenarios which have been filled out with neat and speakable words to make a play. As a theatrical venture, it belongs in much the same category with "The Blue Flame," which served last Spring to bring another favorite of the movies back to the stage, although it should hastily be added that "Cornered" is measurably superior to "The Blue Flame" on nearly every count.

Although the program gives all the credit for having written "Cornered" to the actor, Dodson Mitchell, a fairly lively rumor would have you know that the actress, Zelda Sears, had a good deal to do with the rewriting of it. After seeing the first performance one would also hazard the guess that Miss Sears had at least a finger in the direction of the rehearsals, for a strange and baffling intonation which Miss Kennedy has picked up somewhere and a method of underscoring a line here and a line there are curiously reminiscent of the tricks and manners of Miss Sears when some one has bidden her go forth upon the stage and rescue an expiring comedy scene.

Something of the fascination which was in Madge Kennedy's best work before her exit three years ago seems to be missing from the playing she does in this picture-puzzle melodrama at the Astor. She is, as ever, a vision to behold, and there is a delightful delicacy in all her ways, but back in the antebellum theatre we all used to go around saying that Barrie and Clare Kummer, collaborating on a comedy, would be none too good for Madge Kennedy. It would take more faith to say it now, yet it is probably just as true. It is a little hard to tell when she is expending her talents on one of those melodramas in which the probabilities are so severely strained that all you can think of to say about it is: "Well, isn't it a small world, after all?"

TODAY

By William Fox

DANIEL FROHMAN, ONE OF THE FOREMOST PRODUCERS AND STUDENTS OF THE AMERICAN STAGE, WAS LEAVING THE LYRIC THEATRE LAST NIGHT AFTER THE PRESENTATION OF "OVER THE HILL." I ASKED HIM HOW HE LIKED THE PICTURE.

"IT IS A LIFETIME'S EXPERIENCE IN THE THEATRE," HE ANSWERED, AND THIS REMARK COMING FROM SO HIGH AN AUTHORITY, MY PRIDE KNEW NO BOUNDS.

YESTERDAY I PROMISED TO TELL YOU WHAT THE SAILOR, OLE LARSON, SAID ABOUT "OVER THE HILL." I CANNOT REPEAT HIS EXACT EXPRESSION; IT WAS SAILORESQUE AND TO THE POINT, BUT IN SUBSTANCE HE SAID:

"I AIN'T NO PERSON TO GO RAVIN' ABOUT A MOVING PICTURE, BUT I TELLS YOU THAT THERE'S MANY'S THE MAN SAILIN' THE BRINY WHO'D BE BETTER MEN AND BETTER SAILORS IF THEY SAW THIS PICTURE, AND THAT GOES FOR THE PEOPLE ON DRY LAND, TOO. I AIN'T BEEN TO SEE MY MOTHER FOR NINE YEARS BECAUSE I ALWAYS SHIPPED ON BOATS GOIN' THE OTHER WAY, BUT I'M SAYING NOW THAT THE NEXT SHIP THAT CARRIES MY HULK 'LL HAVE TO HAVE CLEARIN' PAPERS FOR NORWAY, FOR I'M GOIN' BACK AND TELL HER I LOVES HER MORE'N ANYTHING ELSE AND I'M GOING TO TAKE BACK TEN YEARS' SAVIN'S TO GET HER A HOME, THAT'S WHAT I AM GOING TO DO."

THERE WERE A FEW CHOICE BILLINGSGATE EXPRESSIONS INTERSPERSED WITH THE ABOVE VEHEMENT EXPRESSIONS, BUT THERE WAS A GLITTER IN THE MAN'S EYES THAT STAMPED HIM AS SINCERE.

TRULY "OVER THE HILL" IS PLEASANT ENTERTAINMENT WHEN GREAT MINDS AND DWARFED INTELLIGENCES CONCUR THAT IT STRIKES A RESPONSIVE CHORD IN EVERY HUMAN EMOTION.

I AM MORE GRATIFIED THAN EVER THAT I AM ITS PRODUCER.

URGES WORLD UNION ON COMMUNICATIONS

International Conference Suggests Regulations for Cables, Land Lines and Wireless.

WANTS NEW WAR CODE ALSO

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The International Communications Conference, which has been meeting in Washington for some weeks, has reached no decision relative to the disposition to be made of the seized German cables, but has drafted a proposed international convention and set of regulations for the control of all forms of international communication, whether by cable, radio or visual signaling. These and other recommendations of the conference, which was held preliminary to a world congress on communication to be held later, are to be submitted to the latter gathering when it meets.

The conference has agreed to recommend the establishment of a Universal Electrical Communications Union for international reciprocal exchange of telegraphic and telephonic communications by land line, cable, radio and all other electrical devices, as well as by other forms of signaling, and also to encourage the extension and improvement of such means of communication.

The conference has also agreed to recommend the creation of an Electrical Communications Council, to meet frequently, with general advisory and consultative powers. Its particular function would be to encourage improvement of facilities and exchange of traffic. The United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan would be represented on this proposed council, with four other members to be selected by the other powers.

One of the most important recommendations to be made to the forthcoming world congress is a proposal for an international agreement by which the powers would in the future grant no exclusive cable landing or radio rights which serve to check the development of communication facilities, exceptions being made in cases where there is insufficient traffic to justify duplication of facilities.

It will further recommend that the powers consider the desirability of formulating an international code determining the status of submarine cables in wartime, to be prepared either at a special conference at The Hague or at a special conference in connection with the forthcoming world congress.

Proposals looking to the improvement of communications between the principal allied and associated Governments have been considered by the conference through a special committee, which adopted a number of resolutions to serve as a basis for "continued efforts to improve communications," particular reference also being made to the desirability of more cables between North America and the Orient, Australasia and Italy. Where cables are landed at isolated islands for relay purposes the desirability of providing radio stations at those points has been recognized by the conference. The fullest co-ordination between land lines, submarine cables and radio is also recognized, and there was a general agreement that it is desirable that Government high-power stations, not ordinarily handling general traffic, should transmit Government and press messages.

The progressive abolition of "urgent" telegrams, save in exceptional cases, by means of adequate facilities for dispatch of all traffic is likewise recommended. The conference in its agreements and rules places special emphasis on the need for lower rates for press messages.

A formal statement relative to these and other decisions by the communications conference was issued tonight through the Department of State, giving an outline of the work, in which representatives of the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan have participated.

The statement says that "in nearly all the world except the United States, and to some extent in Canada, telegraph systems are governmentally owned and operated, and in many countries radio communication is a government monopoly; consequently, with a view to facilitating communications throughout the world special attention has been given to the establishment of satisfactory working relations between private enterprises and government administrations," which leads to the proposal for a communications union and council.

PLEDGE REFORM AT BEDFORD

Institution Managers Declare Inmates Must Have Fair Treatment.

The passing of the old régime at the New York State Reformatory for Women at Bedford, N. Y., and the beginning of a new policy of kindness and fair dealing with tht inmates was heralded at a meeting of the Board of Managers held yesterday afternoon in the assembly hall of the Metropolitan Building, Twenty-third Street and Madison Avenue. It was promised that there would be no more stringing up of women, no more turning the hose on them or chaining them to bedposts, and that the doors of Bedford hereafter would be opened to those who sought to know the truth of conditions there.

"Bedford has been through deep waters, but we have sent forth our dove and she has returned to us with an olive leaf in her month at last," said Mrs. Anna Hedges Talbot, Superintendent of the reformatory. "Yes, we did have a riot there last July, and we all have opinions as to the causes. My own is that it was the upset caused by the investigation, a very necessary and wholesome stirring of the kettle."

Mrs. Talbot said affairs at Bedford had been misrepresented. The morale was excellent and the general tone of the reformatory good, she added.

The Civil Service.

City.

Applications for prison keeper, with knowledge of skilled trades, will be received until 4 P. M. on Dec. 16. Candidates must be at least 21 years of age. The subjects and weights of the examination will be: Physical, 2; mental, 5; experience, 2; citizenship, 1. A qualifying physical test will be given. Candidates should have a common school education and one year's experience as a foreman, journeyman or instructor in certain skilled trades. The entrance salary is $1,537 a year. There are a number of vacancies in the Correction Department.

United States.

The commission announces an examination for negative cutter, male, age 20 to 65, in the Geological Survey, Washington, D. C., at $4.25 per diem when actually employed. Appointees may be allowed the increase granted by Congress of $20 a month. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on physical ability, 40; training and experience, 60. Applicants must show that they have had at least three years' experience as negative cutters in photolithographic shops. It is desirable the applicants should have had experience in map work. In view of the retirement act, at the request of an appointing officer certification will not be made of eligibles who have reached their fiftieth birthday. Classified employes who have reached the retirement age and have served fifteen years are entitled to retirement with annuity.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS IN SESSION AT GENEVA.

There is a large etching in this week's MID-WEEK PICTORIAL showing the League of Nations in session at Geneva. There are 79 etchings in the issue—world news—including a superb double page picture, ready for a frame, of the Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers. On news stands, 10c.—Advt.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The southeastern disturbance moved northeastward with increasing intensity, and it was central near Cape Hatteras Wednesday night. It was attended by rains within the last twenty-four hours in the Southeastern States and by gales along the Virginia and North Carolina Coasts. Another disturbance of wide extent covered the western half of the country, except California, and it was attended by rain in the Pacific States from Central California northward and by snow in the northern plateau region. The temperature was lower Wednesday in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States, and there was little change in other regions.

The outlook is for generally fair weather in the States east of the Mississippi River Thursday and Friday, except that rain or snow is probable in Michigan, and the weather will be unsettled Thursday along the Southern New England and Middle Atlantic Coasts. There will be little change in temperature Thursday, but the weather will become somewhat warmer Friday over nearly all sections east of the Mississippi River.

FORECAST FOR TODAY AND FRIDAY.

Northern New England—Fair Thursday and probably Friday; not much change in temperature.

Southern New England—Cloudy Thursday; probably rain or snow on southeast coast. Friday fair; not much change in temperature.

Western New York—Fair Thursday and Friday.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

3 A. M.	35	37	4 P. M.	38	43
6 A. M.	32	38	6 P. M.	35	41
9 A. M.	30	41	9 P. M.	36	40
12 M.	34	43	11 P. M.	34	41

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 34; for the corresponding date last year it was 41; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 36.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 29; at 8 P. M. it was 36. Maximum temperature, 40 degrees at 3:35 P. M.; minimum, 29 degrees at 8 A. M. Humidity, 57 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 64 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.28 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.30 inches.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Yesterday's markets again gave evidence of the uncertainty and conflicting judgment which exists regarding different aspects of the situation. While foreign exchange showed considerably increased steadiness, silver bullion declined still further. The cotton market held barely steady, and wheat fell 5 cents per bushel, though recovering nearly all that loss before the closing. On the Stock Exchange prices moved with great irregularity all day, again with distinct weakness in the industrial shares. Net declines of 1 to 3 points in that part of the market were fairly numerous and the greater part of the active list ended lower than on Tuesday; but on the other hand the railway shares held pretty uniformly firm and closed in a number of instances at a net recovery.

All of this movement was accompanied by the now familiar talk of further business distress, and the approval of a plan to defer dividends by the executive committee of one industrial company—the United States Food Products, which had been paying 8 per cent. annually until the trade reaction came—gave a natural emphasis to such discussion. In the money market there was no change; the 7 per cent. call money rate was maintained with the same uniformity as was the 10 per cent. rate at the height of the general credit stringency. The Treasury's announcement of a $500,000,000 new issue of six-months and one-year certificates at 5¾ and 6 per cent. was not unexpected by the banking community, who knew that fully $1,000,000,000 of older issues were due to mature in the next five weeks. The general public, however, had probably expected that the income tax payments would be more of an offset to these maturities than they actually will be, and in any case, the shifting of balances incident to the new offering will emphasize somewhat the money tension of the general December settlements.

Foreign exchange moved irregularly yesterday, but with a tendency to slow recovery, especially in rates on the Scandinavian markets. Silver bullion, however, continued its downward course, reaching a new low price for the year to date both at London and at New York. In view of the sterling market's decline and of the recent tendency of our own foreign trade to increase exports and reduce imports, yesterday's statement of England's total foreign trade for November is of special interest. Export of British products increased substantially; it was £7,000,000 greater than in October and £32,000,000 greater than in November, 1919, and it has never been exceeded in value except for last July. These larger exports were accompanied by the smallest imports of the year to date; with the result that the surplus of imported merchandise over exports, including imported goods re-exported, was last month only £11,790,000. Except for the £8,042,000 of last July, this is much the smallest "import excess" since the war began. In November of 1913, before the war, the import surplus was £15,711,000, or larger than last month's. Changed prices of commodities affect this comparison, but even so, the fact remains that the actual cash balance of trade against England is below the monthly pre-war figure.

Until November the country's monthly iron output did not really decrease at all; for although there was a considerable reduction in April as compared with the three preceding months, that was wholly explainable by the railway embargo. Since April there had been steady increase in production and the output of October was not far below the highest monthly figure, even of wartime. This fact had puzzled many people who were accustomed to look to iron production as a "barometer of trade conditions." Yesterday's statement of last month's production, however, shows that from the 3,292,597 tons of October, production fell in November to 2,934,908, which, except for last April, is the smallest since the steel strike.

Bradstreet's average of commodity prices on Dec. 1 shows the exceptionally large decline of 13 per cent. during November and of 34% per cent. from the high point of the year. There is possibly no parallel in our history for so great a shrinkage in the general average within periods so restricted; at any rate, it cannot be matched in any corresponding periods after 1907 or 1893 or 1873. Prices on no other foreign market have shown declines anywhere approaching ours, unless the 23¾ per cent. decline in Japan in the three months after March should be so considered. The decline in England from the highest was 21 per cent. The Bradstreet general average of Dec. 1 is lower than any reported since November, 1916, four months before the United States went to war. Measured by these computations, 60 per cent. of the extreme advance which occurred in average prices after Aug. 1, 1914, had been canceled at the beginning of this present month.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE MAKES SLIGHT GAIN

Rates on Europe Generally Higher, With Scandinavian Leading.

Exchange on practically all European markets except Madrid advanced yesterday. Most of the net gains were slight, but the improvement in Scandinavian rates was noteworthy, Denmark rising from 14.20 cents to 14.70 per krone, Norway from 14.15 to 14.60 and Sweden from 19.20 to 19.30. Argentine exchange lost the improvement of Tuesday.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Money's Firmness.

There was no easing of the call money rate yesterday, the quotation remaining at 7 per cent. throughout, and time money, while dull, was as scarce as usual. In sending out their quotations for time funds, as a matter of fact, most money brokers omitted the offering rates, giving only the bids. Bankers, as a rule, claim to see no immediate end to present conditions, and about the best most of them hope for is some slight relief after the 15th, when the Government will pay off $700,000,000 in certificates, against $500,000,000 in new ones to be issued. For a few days, the bankers say, there may be an abundance of funds, but at the present time they are not looking for any substantial relief until after Jan. 1.

⁂

Pan American Dividend.

When the Directors of the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Company failed to increase the quarterly disbursement on the stock at their meeting yesterday the announcement was a signal for selling of the A and B issues, which suffered a net loss of 3½ points each. Furthermore, selling pressure was exerted against the other Doheny issue, Mexican Petroleum, which lost some 6 points for the day. It is known that an increase in the Pan American dividend was under consideration recently and the failure to act in accord with the reports which have been circulating freely in Wall Street was doubtless a reflection of the untoward conditions which prevail generally. The offer to Mexican Petroleum stockholders of an exchange of their shares into Pan American B on a basis of two of the latter for one of the former will be renewed, the offer to remain open until about Feb. 1. Pan American already controls about 75 per cent. of the Mexican Petroleum stock. The Pan American dividend of $1.50 a share is payable Jan 10 to stock of record Dec. 18.

⁂

Auto Shares Heavy.

The automobile shares had a rather bad session yesterday, declines being general throughout the list. It had been realized for a long time that the peak of business for the auto companies had passed and that lean times were probably ahead for some of them. Consequently liquidation has been heavy for several months, and many of the issues are not far removed from their low point for the year. The break yesterday was largely the result of the unusual display in Pierce-Arrow preferred, which at one time was off more than 18 points from the previous closing. This led to weakness in other parts of the list, the bears offering stock freely. So far as Pierce-Arrow is concerned, the break seemed to be brought about as a result of a raid, which may bring an investigation from the New York Stock Exchange.

Ingot Production Declines.

According to figures compiled by the American Iron and Steel Institute steel ingot production during November amounted to 2,638,670 tons, a decline of 377,312 tons, as compared with October, or about 12½ per cent. This production represents the output of thirty companies producing slightly more than 85 per cent. of the total output of the country. For the eleven months of this year production has been 32,091,887 gross tons. No comparison is available with last year, since the institute failed to keep figures during the last three months of 1919 because of the disruption caused by the steel strike.

Tax Payments.

The resolution introduced by Senator Overman yesterday, providing for a postponement of the Dec. 15 tax installment, was in keeping with what the financial district had been expecting. It was generally understood that something of this sort would be done, but it seems quite certain that if the resolution is acted upon favorably it will cause no little embarrassment to the Secretary of the Treasury. It may even necessitate the issuance of another big block of Treasury certificates before the end of the year, but the Dec. 15 date is already filled up, with $700,000,000 maturing and only $500,000,000 new ones coming out. To add to the Secretary's troubles, he will have another $300,000,000 in certificates maturing on Jan. 3 and Jan. 15, so that if he is not to receive the expected tax payments on the due date it is quite possible that he will be compelled to issue a very large block of certificates either at the end of the year or as soon as the new year opens. What effect this will have on the general money market will be interesting to watch.

⁂

Danish Exchange.

Danish exchange was pronouncedly strong yesterday, moving up some 45 points on the day's business. In explanation, dealers said that there was a lively demand for Danish exchange with which to liquidate the big recent arrivals of butter and potatoes from that country. These arrivals, now that the British-Dutch produce combine is reported to have stopped buying, are said to be increasing rapidly and likely to increase still more in the near future.

⁂

British Liquidation.

The total amount of American securities mobilized by the British Dollar Securities Committee was $1,422,782,965, of which $877,871,324 was in stocks and $544,911,641 bonds, according to calculations made by the foreign information department of the Bankers Trust Company. This authority also estimates that of these mobilized securities approximately $1,000,000,000 worth has been sold in the American market. The figure of accumulated securities is the par value. With the additional purchases made early this year, and allowing for market depreciation, it is estimated that the amount thus far liquidated is about four-fifths of the total.

Another Unsettling Factor.

Still another factor for unsettling the railroad situation as regards earnings is shown in car loading figures for the four weeks wholly within the month of October. While there has been an increase over the normal volume of business in bulk products shipped, the shipment of miscellaneous and manufactured articles has fallen off. The particular significance contained in these figures is that the bulk products are shipped at comparatively low freight rates while miscellaneous and manufactured articles call for a much higher rate schedule. That this condition will be reflected in the earnings statements of the carriers is plain. What the itemized changes have been is shown in the figures for the four weeks as follows: There were 13,787 carloads less of grain and grain products, 29,405 less of live stock, 33,334 more of coal, 23,929 more of coke and 101,640 more of ore. In miscellaneous freight there were 208,048 fewer cars loaded during the period.

Traction Shares Decline.

Although a confident statement was issued officially for the Interborough Rapid Transit Company regarding the ability of the concern to meet its Jan. 1 interest date, Interborough Consolidated and Third Avenue shares sold off fractionally yesterday. That some holders of Interborough first and refunding 5 per cent. bonds became timid was evidenced by the sale of several blocks. The bonds lost 1¼ net points from the preceding closing, but recovered a part of the ground lost earlier in the day, when they sold as much as 3 full points below the preceding closing quotation. The uncertain quality of the official statement that "it is too early to make a definite statement but we are hopeful of passing through the crisis safely," was somewhat unsatisfactory from the average viewpoint.

In a period of deflation, such as we are now experiencing, commodity prices decline, resulting eventually in lower interest rates and higher prices for bonds.

We, therefore, recommend at this time the purchase of sound, long term bonds in order that prevailing high interest returns may be secured over a long period.

General Business Conditions

indicate a contraction in the demand for money. Capital, therefore, must eventually seek the investment market. Sound Bonds, today, at low levels are attractive purchases. We particularly recommend longer term issues yielding a liberal return over a period of years. This will permit you to secure a good yield on your investment and a substantial enhancement in your bonds when lower money rates obtain.

Low Prices for Bonds

Bond prices are low. No one disputes it. That they will eventually reach higher levels is also true. It may take longer for prices to approach normal than some authorities believe, but a good long term bond purchased now is the best kind of investment for the average individual.

FOOD PRODUCTS CO. TO DEFER DIVIDEND

Executive Committee Announces Decision to Conserve Concern's Cash Resources.

The Executive Committee of the United States Food Products Company, formerly Distillers Securities, it was announced yesterday, will recommend to the Board of Directors at the meeting on Dec. 16 that the quarterly dividend payment of $1.50 a share be deferred. It was reported that the company might in the near future do some financing, a hint of this being contained in the statement of the Executive Committee. One rumor was that the company would sell from $6,000,000 to $8,000,000 five-year notes.

The statement issued by the Executive Committee says:

"The audit of the books of the company and its subsidiaries has been brought down to Oct. 1 and shows that the net earnings for the first nine months of this year are $2,870,998. After making adequate provisions for shrinkage in the market value of the inventory, Federal and State taxes of all kinds and depreciation, the indications are that the net earnings of the company for the calendar year 1920 will approximate at least $3,000,000, or 10 per cent. on the outstanding capital stock of the company.

"Though the earnings of the company would justify the declaration of the usual dividend of 1½ per cent. for the three months ending Dec. 31, 1920, the Executive Committee believes, in view of existing unsettled conditions in this country, that it is to the best interest of the company and its stockholders that its cash resources should be conserved, and that therefore the payment of the 1½ per cent. quarterly dividend for the current quarter should be deferred, and it will be so recommended to the Board of Directors, which meets Dec. 16.

"During the last two years the company has gone into various food and feed manufacturing and business enterprises and has invested in ships, tank cars, office building, factories, real estate, plant and machinery, nearly $10,000,000. These new enterprises were deemed necessary on account of the Prohibition laws, but notwithstanding these laws the earnings of the company from the manufacture and distribution of alcohol for industrial and medicinal purposes have been, and it is believed will continue to be, very substantial.

"It is considered desirable at the opportune time to capitalize the large investments made in these new enterprises, and thus to liquidate the company's floating debt and restore to working capital the sums which were so invested, thereby leaving a substantial portion of the earnings available for dividends.

"The general outlook of the company's business under prevailing conditions is not bad, but on the contrary quite good."

The Fleischmann Company

8% Ten-Year Gold Notes

Dated December 1, 1920. Due December 1, 1930. Interest payable June 1 and December 1 in New York or Cincinnati. Redeemable on any interest date, at 105 and interest through December 1, 1921, and at a premium becoming ½% less each year thereafter until maturity. Coupon notes in denominations of $1,000 and $500 with privilege of registration as to principal. First National Bank of Cincinnati, Ohio, Trustee.

SINKING FUND: The Note Indenture will provide for the retirement of $200,000 face value of Notes on or before December 1 in each year, by purchase or / and by call—in the latter event at the then redemption price. This provision is designed to accomplish the retirement of 45% of the issue prior to maturity.

TAX PROVISIONS: The Company agrees to pay interest without deduction for any Federal Income Tax not in excess of 2% which it may lawfully pay at the source.

For further information in regard to this issue of Notes attention is called to a letter of Mr. Julius Fleischmann, President of the Company, copies of which will be furnished upon request, from which the following is summarized:

The Fleischmann Company and its predecessor copartnerships have been successfully engaged for over fifty years in the manufacture and distribution of compressed yeast for commercial purposes. The Company with its subsidiaries is in addition engaged in the manufacture and distribution of malt extract, and (as by products of yeast), of vinegar, industrial alcohol, denatured alcohol, and dried grains for cattle feeding purposes.

The sale and distribution of compressed yeast, the Company's principal product, is made to approximately 35,000 commercial bakeries and public institutions, and to approximately 175,000 grocers. The Company's distribution of compressed yeast is conducted through the medium of over nine hundred established agencies.

After giving effect to this financing, net assets of the Company and its subsidiaries (exclusive of any valuation for patents, trade-marks or good will, and after deducting all liabilities including these Notes) will amount to practically five times these $4,000,000 Notes; and current assets alone will amount to over 1.9 times the amount of all current liabilities and these Notes.

Net Profits for the last ten and one-half years averaged over $2,100,000 a year, or over 6½ times the annual interest charge on these $4,000,000 Notes and more than 4 times their annual interest and sinking fund combined.

These $4,000,000 Notes when issued will constitute the only funded debt of the Company and the Note Indenture will provide that so long as said Notes are outstanding neither the Company nor any of its subsidiaries shall mortgage its properties or create any additional funded or other debt maturing more than twelve months after date, (except in connection with purchase money mortgages). The Note Indenture will also provide that at all times net assets shall be maintained equal to not less than 250% of the amount of these Notes outstanding and current assets equal to not less than 125% of all liabilities including these Notes, all as defined in said Indenture.

Notes are offered for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us. It is anticipated that definitive Notes will be available for delivery on or about December 14, 1920.

We recommend these Notes for investment

To Those Who Believe in the Financial Future of

FRANCE AND ENGLAND

Under a new plan, you can obtain the unusual profits which should accrue through advances in Franc and Sterling exchange and yet avoid the remote possibility of weakness, uncertainty of return and slow marketability if Sterling or Franc securities are purchased, as well as the slowness of liquidation which results if drafts are purchased.

Our Plan Assures

1—Instant liquidation
2—Maximum security
3—Certainty of return
4—Full exchange profit

Your only apparent possibility of loss is a low price of exchange when you want to liquidate, or the remote chance of exchange never advancing again.

This plan is of great interest to the man who is buying Franc or Sterling Securities, to the man who wishes to speculate on exchange, to the business man who wishes to cover prospective purchases at a future date in France or England and yet may need his money here on any day, or to the man who expects to travel in Europe or educate his children there in the next few years.

We suggest that you call on us or that our representative call on you and discuss the matter in detail. If preferred, a statement of the plan will be mailed. The very small cost is met many times over by the advantages of our plan.

LATIN LOAN OUTLOOK IS LESS PROMISING

EVEN CUBAN DEAL HELD UP

Argentina Believed to Have Injured Itself Financially by Withdrawal From League.

The prospects for new South American financing, according to bankers who have been working on this situation, are less bright at the present time than they were a week or so ago. Even the much-discussed loan to Cuba is said to be less imminent than it appeared to be a short time ago and at the moment it seems likely that nothing will be done for some weeks. Albert Rathbone, recently an Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, who has been appointed financial adviser to the Cuban Government, will sail for the island the latter part of this week, and it was intimated yesterday that final consummation of any loan to that country might have to await Mr. Rathbone's return.

As for the South American countries which have been negotiating in this market, a majority opinion now is that little will be done until after the holidays. The proposed loan of $30,000,000 to the Brazilian State of Sao Paulo is said to be "deferred," and about the same remark is made when bankers are approached regarding the talked-of loans to Chile and Argentina.

In banking circles there is much interest as to whether or not the credit of Argentine will be affected one way or the other by that country's withdrawal from the League of Nations. Most discussions of this sort come back to the political affiliations of the individual bankers, with those who favored the League inclined to the belief that Argentina has hurt its credit by its actions at Geneva, while the opponents of the League take the reverse stand.

One banker said yesterday that he thought Argentina had injured its position in world markets, even in that of the United States, by its refusal to wait until all national suggestions for revision of the League constitution had been brought out. His idea was that Argentina could not afford to take a high-handed attitude. Some other bankers of equal prominence take sharp issue with this, holding that the action of the South American republic will have no bearing whatever on its credit standing.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 8.

There was no change in the rate for money on call on the Stock Exchange Wednesday. Ruling rate was 7 per cent., which has obtained for the better part of the last week. For time money, there was a slight alteration in the rates which have been quoted unchanged for the same period of time as call funds. For both grades of paper, all dates, 7½ per cent. was bid, in contrast with previous fixed period money ranging 7½@7¾ per cent. Business is very dull, however, and on this account but very nominal quotations rule for money on time. Commercial paper, choice names, discounts at 7¾ per cent., other names going at 8 per cent. Business in this department is also very quiet.

PREDICT RYAN AGREEMENT.

Reports current in the financial district yesterday had it that Allan A. Ryan and his attorneys were approaching a basis of settlement with the bankers handling Mr. Ryan's financial affairs. None of the bankers interested would comment on the stories, but the reports persisted and most people in the financial community expect that within a very few days there will be a definite agreement.

The rumor has been in circulation for some days that representatives of the bankers would shortly find admission to the Boards of Directors of some of Mr. Ryan's companies, but thus far none of the bankers have admitted they are seeking representation of this kind.

One banker said he and his associates still were endeavoring to be helpful in Mr. Ryan's affairs, and added that he anticipated no difficulties in solving the whole situation. But he declined emphatically to discuss the case and said there was nothing he could talk of for publication.

"The whole business is now a matter of banker and client," he said, "and under the circumstances I cannot discuss it."

Jersey City, the County Seat of Hudson County and the second largest City in the State, with a population of 297,864, is an important railroad, commercial and manufacturing centre situated directly opposite New York City. It is the terminus of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Erie Railroads, with numerous allied lines, and also some of the more important ocean-going trading steamship lines. The excellent transportation facilities of the city have made it one of the leading distributing points on the Atlantic Coast, and its proximity to New York tends to its substantial growth both as a commercial and residential community. Its net bonded debt is less than 5% of its assessed valuation.
We recommend these bonds for investment and consider them unusually attractive.

Canadian Fixed-Income Securities

We can offer Canadian Government, Municipal and Corporation Bonds, payable in American funds, that will give investors a fixed income for short or long terms of years.

Values of these securities will move up when interest rates move down, as they eventually will.

LARGE INCREASE IN BRITISH EXPORTS

IMPORTS SOMEWHAT LOWER

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Following are the Board of Trade figures for the month of November of Great Britain's foreign trade: Total imports, £144,260,000; exports of British products, £119,360,000; re-exports of foreign merchandise, £13,110,000; total exports, £132,470,000; excess of imports, £11,790,000.

Total exports increased	25,093,060
Imports increased	695,093
Excess of imports decreased	24,397,967

The total trade for the month of November, 1920, compares as follows with November, 1919, and November, 1918 (000 omitted):

	1920	1919	1918
Re-exports of foreign goods	13,110	20,266	2,917
Total exports	£132,470	£107,376	£46,135
Imports	144,260	143,564	116,770
Ex. of imports	£11,790	£36,188	£70,635

Compared with other months of the present year, the £119,360,000 exports of British products are larger than any except the £137,451,000 of July, which was in value the largest export trade in England's history. In 1913, the year before the war, the November exports were valued at £24,601,000. Like the July figure, the November total indicates that the rise in prices has not been the sole cause of the increase, but that the actual quantity of merchandise exported may have been larger than in November, 1913.

Re-exports increased	71,540,504
Total exports	£603,958,253
Imports increased	332,636,230
Excess of imports decreased	£270,422,023

	1920.	1919.	1918.
Nov.	£119,360,000	£87,110,007	£43,218,879
Oct.	112,295,000	79,980,892	42,820,724
Aug.	114,903,335	74,773,597	43,522,237

	1920.	1919.	1918.
Nov.	£11,790,000	£36,187,967	£70,634,051
Oct.	21,460,000	54,783,415	72,690,437
Aug.	24,982,896	58,661,737	64,435,569
July	8,041,968	75,092,955	63,472,53

In November of 1913, England's imports of £68,467,000 were offset by £44,756,000 British exports and £8,000,000 imported merchandise re-exported, leaving a surplus of imports of £15,711,000, or nearly £4,000,000 more than last month.

NOVEMBER PRICES DECLINE.

Computations of average prices of commodities in this market on Dec. 1 were given out today by Bradstreet's and by Dun's Review. The estimates differ in that the Dun's Review estimate is modified by allowing importance to the changes in price of different articles in proportion to their estimated per capita consumption. On this basis, the Dun average reckons a decline of 6.8 per cent. during November, and of 19.6 per cent. from the average of May 1, which was the highest of the year. Dun's Review reckons that it is necessary to go back to May 1, 1917, in order to find a lower basis than the average of the present month.

Bradstreet's index number of average commodity prices in this market on Dec. 1 shows a decrease of 13 per cent. during November, and of 34⅝ per cent. from the year's high level, reached on Feb. 1. The December average is the lowest reported by Bradstreet's since Nov. 1, 1916.

Dec. 1, 1920	$13.6263	Dec. 1, 1919	$20.1756
Nov. 1, 1920	15.6150	Dec. 1, 1918	19.0151
Oct. 1, 1920	16.9094	Dec. 1, 1917	17.5966
Sep. 1, 1920	17.9746	Dec. 1, 1916	13.6628
Aug. 1, 1920	18.8273	Dec. 1, 1915	10.6473
July 1, 1920	19.3528	Dec. 1, 1914	9.0354
June 1, 1920	19.8752	Dec. 1, 1913	9.2290
May 1, 1920	20.7341	Dec. 1, 1912	9.5462
Apr. 1, 1920	20.7124	Dec. 1, 1911	8.9824
Mar. 1, 1920	20.7950	Dec. 1, 1910	8.7844
Feb. 1, 1920	20.8690	Dec. 1, 1909	9.1262
Jan. 1, 1920	20.3638	Dec. 1, 1908	8.2133

The groups that make up the index number compare as follows with the preceding month and with the highest month of the year:

	Dec. 1, 1920.	Nov. 1, 1920.	Feb. 1, 1920.
Breadstuffs	$0.1620	$0.1890	$0.2257

Miscellaneous	.6030	.6447	1.2185

In commenting on the fact that the general level of wholesale price sis now below that which prevailed in the months immediately preceding our break with Germany, Bradstreet's adds that "although the Dec. 1 level is still 56 per cent. above the price level of Aug. 1, 1914, more than half (60 per cent., to be exact) of the six-year war and postwar advance has been cancelled."

COTTON GINNINGS LARGE.

Amount Prepared for Market Far Above Recent Years.

The Census Bureau's report of yesterday on the amount of cotton ginned in the United States shows that between Nov. 14 and Dec. 1 the ginnings were as follows:

	Bales.		Bales.
1920	1,224,145	1918	864,994
1919	1,240,048	1917	1,142,414

	1920.	1919.	1918.	1917.
Sep. 25	2,243	1,835	3,770	1,511

BEARS RAID STOCK; INQUIRY IS HINTED

TWO GOVERNORS NOTIFIED

Business Conduct Committee of Exchange Expected to Investigate Disruptive Operation.

A break in Pierce-Arrow preferred was one of the developments of yesterday's stock market, the shares at one time showing a loss of 18 points and closing the day with a net loss of 9½ points. The decline was held to have resulted from one of the most vicious bear raids attempted in a long time and there were hints that an investigation might be started by the Business Conduct Committee of the New York Stock Exchange. While the raid was in progress it was reported that the disruptive character of the operation was called to the attention of two Governors of the Exchange. It could not be learned whether any action had been started looking toward an investigation but one man said it seemed time to apply the rule regulating "conduct detrimental to the best interests of the Exchange."

Pierce-Arrow opened at 76. Shortly after noon, on offerings of 1,500 shares, the stock broke from 75½ to 65, declining from 70 to 65 on a turnover of only 200 shares. Trading in a like amount brought another decline from 65 to 59. From this level there was an ultimate rally to 68. The break led to reports that the company might pass the dividend on preferred stock.

Pierce-Arrow officials were amazed at the raid. They said the company was in an excellent position; that earnings would far more than cover the preferred dividend, and that there was six months business on the books. It had not suffered a falling off in business to the extent that other companies had.

The raid took place at a time when it was difficult to bring support for the shares since many of those interested were at lunch. It was said the stock was protected with some buying orders for possibly 200 shares, ordinarily sufficient to support a comparatively inactive preferred stock. This protection was quickly swept away in the wave of selling and the shares dropped precipitately. In the loan crowd after the close Pierce Arrow was at a premium of ⅛, and so far as could be learned no stock was loaned. If the short account is large it is believed there may be some difficulty in making delivery according to specifications today.

One report in the Street was to the effect that a weak account was being closed out but the majority were inclined to the belief that raiders were responsible for the break.

What a Big Denver Bank Thinks of Credit Insurance—

Manufacturers and wholesalers, here is a message you will likely want to cut out and save. It is a letter recently received from one of Denver's leading banks by the American Credit-Indemnity Co.:

"We are reminded by the prevailing conditions in the financial world of the importance and value of Credit Insurance. It is common knowledge that when prices of commodities are advancing and purchases are freely made, it does not require the greatest degree of skill and good judgment to profitably conduct mercantile business, but when values and prices are declining, as under present conditions, the highest measure of ability is required.

"It follows that unusual precautions must be exercised if losses due to poor credits and bad debts are to be prevented. It is in this connection that the value of Credit Insurance becomes at once apparent.

"Every conservative business house is bound to avail itself of every proper means to protect its financial standing and we are firmly convinced that the purchase of insurance upon open credit accounts will prove an important factor in the successful management of general business during the ensuing years. We have no hesitation, therefore, in recommending to our friends and patrons the wisdom, and expediency of purchasing a line of this kind of insurance."

Bankers in all cities endorse precautions that prevent, else pay, bad debt losses beyond the normal, which the American's "Unlimited-Interim-Payment" Policy does.

To Shareholders

AETNA EXPLOSIVES COMPANY:

The undersigned have in hand an agreement from the Hercules Powder Company to purchase, under certain conditions, 432,000 shares of the common capital stock of the Aetna Explosives Company, out of a total of 540,000 shares, provided the undersigned place themselves in a position to tender this quantity of stock within a specified time limit.

The price, provided no serious explosion occurs in the meantime and no undisclosed claim or liability appears, will be such that the shareholder will receive $10 per share in cash and $4 per share in Hercules Powder Company 7% preferred stock, of which price the $10 cash and $1.50 of Hercules preferred stock are payable upon consummation of the sale, and the remaining $2.50 of Hercules preferred stock will be held in escrow for a maximum period of one year pending the settlement of certain contingent liabilities, for which liabilities $1,000,000 of Government bonds and approximately $250,000 of other assets are set apart and must be exhausted before the escrow stock can be encroached.

The undersigned own and represent more than 200,000 shares out of the requisite 432,000, and there have already been deposited, in addition to this quantity, nearly 100,000 shares. In view of the hazards of the business and the limited time, it is desirable to have the requisite additional quantity of stock deposited without delay. THE TIME FIXED FOR RECEIVING DEPOSITS IS DECEMBER 20, 1920, BUT THE COMPLETION OF THE SALE CAN BE ACCELERATED IF THE REQUISITE NUMBER OF SHARES ARE IN HAND PRIOR TO THAT DATE.

We unhesitatingly advise and strongly recommend the acceptance of this offer, and urge all stockholders to forward their stock to the undersigned, for deposit, without delay.

Copy of agreement of deposit will be furnished upon request.

STEEL OUTPUT FALLS AS DEMAND WANES

ABSENCE OF NEW BUYING

Four Plate Mills Close Down—Pig Iron Output Drops 8,382 Tons a Day in November.

Further curtailment of operations is noted in the steel industry during the last week as a result of the falling off in demand. The Iron Age in its survey of conditions records that the reduction of prices to the Steel Corporation level has brought no new volume of buying and calls attention to the fact that during November forty-four furnaces went out of blast and eleven went in, making a net loss of thirty-three, or a total of sixty-seven since Oct. 1. It is asserted that more furnaces are to go out of blast soon. The sharp drop in operations is shown by the fact that estimated production on Dec. 1 was 89,240 tons a day, as compared with 98,080 tons a day on Nov. 1.

"Pig iron output in November was 2,934,908 tons, or 97,830 tons a day, as against 3,292,597 tons in October, or 106,212 tons a day.

"Production of pig iron is now at the rate of about 31,750,000 tons a year, or 80 per cent. of the high 1920 rate of March—less of a falling off than is indicated by the flatness of some steel works' order books.

"Several cases of the complete shutting down of steel works are known this week, showing that many consumers, with no work ahead, with one accord have shut off shipments of steel. Two Eastern plate mills are idle, as are two steel plants in Northern Ohio. Another at Cleveland is on the verge of closing down.

"In some products the Steel Corporation is making considerable inroads upon its unfilled orders. The Carnegie Steel Company has been operating at 90 per cent. of steel works and finishing capacity, and forty-six out of its fifty-nine blast furnaces are going.

"The unexpected appearance of a considerable tonnage of pig iron offered by a new Detroit furnace for sale at several dollars per ton lower than any of the recent low quotations along the lakes has caused a stir in a very dull market. It is reported that the Detroit company is willing to sell 10,000 tons as low as $30, furnace, for No. 2 foundry. Basic has developed greater weakness in Eastern Pennsylvania, where a sale of about 1,000 tons has been made to an Eastern plate maker at about $35, delivered, or fully $3 below recent quotations. In the Chicago district some furnaces are disposed to meet late prices on resale iron and the leading Northern merchant in that district has dropped its quotation on No. 2 foundry from $46, Chicago, to $38. The possibility of reducing excess profits taxes by selling pig iron at low prices has become a factor in the situation.

Scrap Prices Falling.

"Scrap prices are falling; in some grades the week's reductions have been $2 to $4 per ton.

"An ominous development is an expected total stoppage within two months of the Welsh tin plate trade. The market is crumbling, with $6.40 now done per base box for prompt shipment.

"At 452,000 tons, iron and steel exports in October were the largest for the year, save in July. But current export orders are less than one-fifth of the year's average, with exchange conditions growing worse rather than better."

	1920.	1919.	1918.
November....	2,934,908	2,392,350	3,354,074

New Business Light.

The Iron Trade Review says:

"Leveling off of iron and steel prices to the low plane of the last year has been further extended during the week. Scarcely an important product now remains at which various independent mills will not quote freely at the Steel Corporation schedule.

"Those lines to undergo the latest readjustment in this way are sheets and semi-finished material. Mill pipe stands out as practically the only finished product where a double price standard still prevails. In one or two cases some mills are reported to have quoted below the Steel Corporation basis. Some tonnage has been taken by independent producers at their lowered prices, but new business as a whole is conspicuously light.

"Specifications likewise have not been stimulated, although most steelmakers have made the recent reductions apply to unfilled orders previously booked. As a result, production continues to be contracted. More mills and furnaces are shutting down and the outlook is that the customary holiday cessation this year of many plants will be more extensive and prolonged than in several years.

"Wage costs are receiving increased attention. Reductions are appearing in foundries, machinery plants and other manufacturing branches collateral to iron and steel production. But mill and furnace labor so far has escaped. Adoption of the eight-hour shift in the plate and wire mills of one Mahoning Valley plant, and in the open hearth department of another, are signs of the trend toward labor readjustment. In the former case a two-shift daily schedule has been inaugurated."

WHEAT PIT HIT BY A HARDING SPEECH

Economic Conditions Also Helped to Bring About Further Drop in Chicago Prices.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Economic conditions more than offset the effect of large export sales in the wheat market, and, while prices had a range of 7 to 7½ cents, the finish was ¾ to 1 cent lower. The decline in Canadin exchnge, weakness in silver and in stocks, combined with the statement, by Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board, at Indianapolis late yesterday, that farmers had all the credit they should have, led to general selling and a sharp decline, after a minor upturn early. The report that a one hundred-million-dollar corporation was to be formed to finance foreign trade was ignored after the opening bulge, as the trade has had the prospectus of the plan for a number of days.

The buying to remove hedges against the export sales of 3,500,000 bushels, including 2,000,000 bushels Canadian to the British Commission, was mainly responsible for a rally from the low point. The best posted people claim that all of the Canadian shipped to United States ports, as well as that now afloat and the grain that will be shipped before the close of navigation, has been sold for export, and that there will be no accumulation for Winter storage.

Talk of embargo on imports under the anti-dumping clause of the tariff act is expected to result in Minneapolis mills buying heavily in Canada, as they need choice wheat to mix with the low grade domestic Springs. Out of twenty-four cars appealed from State inspection yesterday as grading No. 4 Northern there were twenty-one cars regraded by the Government as No. 3.

There is considerable talk tonight of heavy deliveries of Canadian wheat on December contracts, but were mills assured they would get Canadian they would probably be heavy buyers of the December. In some quarters it is believed that Canadian exchange will drop sharply after the close of navigation. The trade is decidedly mixed in its opinion as to the future course of the market, and is disposed to go slow in pressing the selling side on the breaks, due to the strong statistical position.

An estimate was put out today that the United States had only 87,000,000 bushels remaining for export to July 1 and for carryover into the new crop, compared with a normal 80,000,000 bushels carryover. Winter wheat acreage is estimated by P. S. Goodman at 37,612,000, or 1,158,000 less than last year, and compares with a five-year average of 42,260,000. Condition is 90.5, against 82.5 last year and a five-year average of 88.

In three days primary points have received 4,727,000 bushels of wheat, or 58,000 bushels more than a week ago and 1,549,000 in excess of last year. Shipments were 3,059,000 bushels, against 2,899,000 last week and 1,484,000 last year.

Arrivals of corn were 1,697,000 bushels, against 1,859,000 last week and 2,858,000 last year; shipments 886,000 bushels, against 1,077,000 last year.

WINTER WHEAT DOING WELL.

Condition Good Everywhere—Cotton Picking Progresses Slowly.

Under the influence of continued mild weather and ample soil moisture, Winter wheat has maintained its good to excellent condition in practically all sections of the country. It shows improvement in some districts as the result of the recent rainfall, particularly in parts of the Ohio Valley. Conditions were described as ideal for wheat in Kansas, where the crop is furnishing excellent pasturage in most localities.

The wet weather interfered with farm work in the northeastern portion of the cotton belt and picking made rather slow progress in that section. Some cotton remains unpicked in the lowlands of South Carolina. The week was favorable for picking in Tennessee and Arkansas, but little cotton was picked in the latter State. Killing frost in the lower valleys of Arizona stopped further development of cotton but picking progressed favorably.

COMMODITY PRICES

Fractional Price Changes Made in Rather Dull Market—Few Staples Show Gains.

There was a mixed trend to cash prices in the wholesale markets yesterday, the changes for the most part being fractional. Wheat declined 2⅛ cents, corn advanced ¾ of a cent, oats was up ½ of a cent per bushel, with flour up 25 cents per barrel.

In the groceries and dairies coffee receded ⅛ of a cent per pound, with sugar, butter and eggs unchanged.

No price changes were made in lard, beef or pork in the provisions.

In the metals iron, steel and lead were unchanged, but copper advanced ¼ of a cent per pound, likewise tin was up ¼ of a cent per pound.

INCREASING NET PROFITS
A Message to Business Men by Roger W Babson

What Makes Millionaires?

ROGER W. BABSON studied the hundred leaders of our commercial world and the businesses they built.

He found some very interesting facts on the effect of heredity, environment and training. But more important, he discovered a principle of doing business—the principle that has built every great business in America. It is simple, for it can be clearly stated in a single sentence. It is unusual, for it will practically double the net profits of any business large or small.

You will find the whole story—facts, figures and principle—in the new Babson booklet, Increasing Net Profits.

COTTON PRICES SAG IN SLUGGISH MARKET

There was a moderate amount of liquidation from the start of yesterday's cotton market and while offerings never were extremely heavy, nor put out in aggressive manner, the supply was heavy enough to account for some early declines of 15 to 25 points and thereafter proved sufficiently pressing to prevent any material rally. The range of the day was narrow, probably the narrowest seen in the past two or three weeks, and in all did not cover much more than 30 points. At one time the list was up 2 to 8 points and the extreme lows for the day were only 20 to 27 points, January going down the most. At the close prices were down 3 points for December and 15 to 21 for the others.

The Census Bureau's ginning report came out just before the opening and proved to be about as expected. The total amount ginned for the season was put at 10,144 921 bales, exclusive of linters, and compares with 8,844,369 bales ginned in the same period a year ago. This was perhaps somewhat larger than had been expected, but not very much larger. An interesting feature of the report was the fact that the ginnings for the period Nov. 14-Dec. 1 were only 1,224,145 bales, as against 1,240,048 in the same period of 1919. The falling off this year may mean that farmers are holding back now. There have been plenty of reports of this, but little actual evidence of it thus far.

Spot prices here were unchanged, but in the South several markets were down 25 points or so. Liverpool was down 16 points for spots and 11 to 13 points for futures at the close. The Manchester reports were poor, the least encouraging in several days.

Exports this week hardly will compare favorably with those of last week. To date, with two days remaining, the total has been 60,409 bales, which is far below last week's total of 282,930 bales.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.
Dec.	....	15.70	15.62	15.67	15.70
Jan.	15.80	15.95	15.66	15.72@15.75	15.93

Oct.	15.90	16.03	15.90	15.85@15.89	16.00

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 15.75c, unchanged; New Orleans, 15.25c, down .25; Savannah, 16.25c, down .25; Augusta, 15.38c, down .25; Memphis, 15.00c, unchanged; Houston, 15.00c, down .15; Little Rock, 15.50c, unchanged.

Yesterday's cotton statistics were:

	Yesterday.	Last Wk.	Last Yr.

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton was quiet at 10.76d for middling. Sales, 3,000 bales, of which American 2,000. Imports, 3,000 bales, of which American 1,000. Future opened easy 27 to 34 points down, and closed steady, 11 to 13 points down on the day. Prices: December, 11.06d; March, 11.20d; May, 11.23d; July 11.21d. Manchester: Yarns and cloths were weak.

CROPS REPAY RECLAMATION.

Value for Year 1919 More Than Sum Spent by the Government.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The value of crops grown on lands within Government reclamation projects for the single year 1919 was $25,000,000 greater than the total of $125,000,000 expended on all projects constructed up to the close of the last fiscal year, according to the annual report of the Reclamation Service, made public today. The value of crops produced on reclamation lands, the report said, was "just about twice as large" per acre as the average yield of unirrigated lands in the humid regions.

A total of 2,648,000 acres is now being irrigated by water from Government projects, the report showed, including 1,636,000 acres relying entirely upon such projects and 1,012,000 acres receiving a supplemental supply from private irrigation systems.

Stokes Opposes Immigration Bill.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 8.—E. C. Stokes, speaking as Chairman of the New Jersey Republican Committee, disapproved today of the Johnson bill to prohibit immigration for two years. He asserted it was not an intelligent or statesmanlike way to handle the situation. "This bill, as reported," he said, "would keep out Canadian, Irish, English, French, Swedes and Norwegians. It would prevent the necessary influx of labor for our farms, railways and great corporations."

To Name Referee in Bronx Gas Suit.

Justice Cohalan of the Supreme Court decided yesterday to appoint a referee to consider the rate to be charged for gas by the Bronx Gas and Electric Company. The referee is to be chosen by agreement between the company, the Public Service Commission, the District Attorney and the Attorney General. The company seeks to increase the rate from $1.50 to $1.75. The price fixed by the referee will be permitted by the courts.

PROPOSALS.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONERS, District of Columbia, December 3, 1920. Sealed proposals will be received at the Office of the Secretary of the Board of Commissioners, Room 509, District Building, until 2 o'clock P. M., December 17, 1920, for the construction of an eight-room Addition to the Takoma School No. 118, located at Piney Branch Road and Dahlia Street, Takoma Park, D. C. Blank forms of proposal, specifications, plans and all other necessary information may be obtained from the Chief Clerk, Engineer Department, Room 427, District Building, Washington, D. C. A deposit of five dollars will be required from bidders to insure the return of the plans and specifications. J. Thilman Hendrick, Charles W. Kutz, Mabel T. Boardman, Commissioners, D. C.

PROPOSALS FOR STEAM-HEATING SYSTEM. United States Engineer Office, Custom House, Norfolk, Va.—Sealed proposals will be received here until noon, Dec. 29, 1920, and then opened, for furnishing all material and labor for and installing a steam-heating system in office-storehouse building at Fort Story, Va. Further information on application.

FINANCIAL NOTICES.

THE PLATT IRON WORKS COMPANY.
To the Holders of First Mortgage Six Per Cent. Sinking Fund Twenty-Year Gold Bonds issued and outstanding under the Mortgage of The Platt Iron Works Company to Central Trust Company of New York as Trustee, dated August 1, 1912.

Notice is hereby given that The Platt Iron Works Company has called for redemption on February 1, 1921, all of the bonds issued and outstanding under the above mortgage at 105 per centum of the face amount of said bonds and accrued interest; that on said first day of February, 1921, there will become due and payable upon each of said bonds the principal thereof with five per cent. premium thereon, and that no further interest will accrue or be payable upon any of said bonds after said first day of February, 1921.

Holders of said bonds are hereby required to present the same for redemption on said first day of February, 1921, at the office of Central Union Trust Company of New York, No. 80 Broadway, N. Y. City. All bonds so presented must be in negotiable form accompanied by the coupon due August 1, 1921, and all subsequent coupons.

Holders of said bonds may obtain payment of the same at any time prior to said first day of February, 1921, at 105 per centum of the face amount thereof, together with the interest accrued thereon to the time of such payment, upon the presentation and surrender at said office of said Trust Company of the bonds held by them respectively in negotiable form accompanied by all unmatured coupons.

Dated, New York, December 2, 1920.

PROPOSALS.

NOTICE OF RECEPTION OF BIDS FOR receiving and disposing of garbage and dead animals in the City of Atlantic City, New Jersey. At a meeting of the City Commissioners, to be held on the 23d day of December, 1920, at 3 P. M., in the Commission Chambers, City Hall, Atlantic City, New Jersey, bids will be received and opened for the collection and disposal of garbage and dead animals in said City in accordance with the proposal, specifications and this advertisement, copies of which proposal and specifications may be had upon application at the Office of the Mayor of said City. Bidders are not restricted in the matter of disposition of the garbage after collection so that the garbage may be disposed of by incineration, utilization, by using the same as food for swine, as fertilizer or otherwise, provided the method meets the approval of the Board of Commissioners. Bidders may bid for the removal and disposition of said garbage and dead animals for a period of one, three or five years in one bid or they may bid separately for each or any of the periods designated. The bidder must accompany his bid with a complete plan, setting forth the manner of disposal and the facilities therefore. Bids must be in sealed envelopes accompanied by a certified check in the sum of Ten Thousand ($10,000.00) Dollars drawn to the order of the City of Atlantic City, said checks not to be enclosed in envelopes but attached to the outside thereof together with a written agreement duly executed by a Surety Company authorized to do business in the State of New Jersey, agreeing to act as Surety on the bonds required by the specifications. The checks of unsuccessful bidders will be returned upon the award of the contract to the successful bidder. Should the successful bidder refuse or neglect for a period of five days after the contract has been awarded to execute and deliver the same to the City together with the accompanying bonds required by the specifications, he shall be adjudged in default and the amount of the deposit shall be forfeited and retained by the City of Atlantic City as liquidated damages for such neglect or refusal, but should said successful bidder enter into said contract within the period aforesaid, said deposit check shall be immediately returned. Should the successful bidder refuse to enter into contract as above provided for a period of five days, the checks of the unsuccessful bidders will thereupon be returned. The City reserves the right to reject any and all bids without giving any reason therefore and reserves unto itself, the right to be the sole judge as to whether or not the proposed method of disposition of said garbage and dead animals is satisfactory. Bidders are cautioned to follow strictly the terms and conditions imposed by the proposals and specifications and will be held to strict conformity thereto, notwithstanding anything herein contained.
E. S. BADER, Mayor.

PROPOSALS FOR DREDGING AND wharf construction. United States Engineer Office, Norfolk, Va. Sealed proposals will be received here until 12 o'clock noon, Jan. 7, 1921, and then opened, for dredging in the Elizabeth River, at Norfolk, Va., and constructing a timber wharf partially surrounding the dredged area. Further information on application.

To Depositors under the Plan and Agreement, dated September 9, 1920, for Consolidation of GENERAL CHEMICAL COMPANY, THE SOLVAY PROCESS COMPANY, SEMET-SOLVAY COMPANY, THE BARRETT COMPANY, and NATIONAL ANILINE & CHEMICAL COMPANY, INC.

To Holders of the Stock of said Companies, including Voting Trust Certificates:

The undersigned Committee, acting under and pursuant to the Plan and Agreement, dated September 9, 1920, for the consolidation of the above mentioned Companies, having on December 2, 1920, declared said Plan operative, has duly determined as follows:

1. Final Termination of Period for Deposits. The period within which stockholders of the above mentioned Companies may become parties to the Plan and Agreement, by depositing their holdings as therein provided, will finally terminate at 3 P. M., on Wednesday, December 15, 1920.

Stockholders who desire to participate in the Plan, but have not yet deposited their holdings, should deposit their stock certificates (or voting trust certificates), in negotiable form, on or before Wednesday, December 15, 1920, with Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Depositary, at its office No. 140 Broadway, New York City, which will issue transferable Deposit Certificates therefor. After said date no further deposits will be received.

2. Distribution of New Stock. The New Preferred and Common Stock, including dividend adjustments in New Common Stock, will be distributed, as provided in the Plan, to holders of Deposit Certificates of record at the close of business on December 30, 1920, after which date no further transfers of Deposit Certificates will be made. The transfer books for transfers of Deposit Certificates will accordingly be permanently closed at 3 P. M. on December 30, 1920. Further notice will be given in due course as to when certificates for the New Stock will be ready for delivery.

3. Dividend Adjustments on Deposited Common Stocks. The adjustment of dividends, from July 1, 1920, on the Deposited Common Stocks of the respective Consolidating Companies, to the basis of $6 per share per annum on the New Common Stock to be exchanged therefor, as provided in the Plan, will be made in New Common Stock, at the valuation (for this purpose) of $55 per share, for the period from July 1, 1920, to and including December 31, 1920.

Per 100 Shares of Deposited Common Stock of	New Common Stock for Adjustment of Dividends	Total New Common Stock on Exchange Including Adjustments
General Chemical Co.	6.907 shares	266.863 shares
The Solvay Process Co.	6.332 shares	322.415 shares
Semet-Solvay Co.	7.225 shares	273.911 shares
The Barrett Co.	5.211 shares	34.037 shares
National Aniline & Chemical Co., Inc.	5.455 shares	105.455 shares

No adjustment of dividends on the Deposited Preferred Stocks will be required, since each of the three Consolidating Companies having preferred stock (viz., General Chemical Company, The Barrett Company, and National Aniline & Chemical Company, Inc.) will pay, in cash, on or about December 31, 1920, the dividends accrued on its preferred stock up to and including December 31, 1920, and dividends on the New Preferred Stock will begin to accrue from January 1, 1921.

CASSIDY LOSES STAY WITH DEATH NEAR

Pleas to Supreme Courts of United States and Bronx County Denied.

TO RENEW APPEAL TODAY

Attorneys Hope Alienists' Report That He Is a Moron May Balk Electric Chair.

No respite came yesterday for James P. Cassidy and his three confederates who are to die tonight in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison for the murder of Otto Fialo, ticket agent at the Intervale, Bronx, subway station. Justice Brandeis of the United States Supreme Court in Washington refused to add another to the long list of stays which have delayed the executions, according to a report which reached New York last night. It was said that James J. Barry, of Schenectady, one of Cassidy's lawyers, made the application to Justice Brandeis, but the ground of his refusal was not learned.

In the Bronx County Supreme Court Justice John M. Tierney denied an application for a new trial, saying in his opinion that no material new evidence had been discovered, that Cassidy's complicity in the crime was shown, and that any interference by the court would defeat the ends of justice.

Cassidy and the three men who are to die with him were deeply disappointed, the other three believing that any advantage gained by Cassidy would work at least for delay for them. The other three—Joseph Milano, Frank McLaughlin and Joseph Usefof—rely upon Warden Lawes to delay their executions the two days which lie within his discretion if Cassidy gets any delay.

Thomas J. O'Neill of 309 Broadway, another of Cassidy's lawyers, said last night he would make a renewed appeal to the courts today, and that there also would be a final attempt to obtain clemency from Governor Smith. The attorneys base their strongest hope on the opinion of alienists who made a confidential report to Governor Smith that Cassidy's mentality was that of a nine-year-old child, and that he was not fully conscious of the wrongfulness of his act.

UPTOWN CLUB TO MOVE.

Will Occupy 14th Floor of Former Hotel Manhattan.

The Uptown Club, now at 11 East Forty-fifth Street, is to move into the building on the northwest corner of Forty-second Street and Madison Avenue, formerly the Hotel Manhattan, it was announced yesterday, following a special meeting of the club. The club will lease the fourteenth floor from the National City Company for twenty years at an annual rental of about $60,000.

John H. Town, President, said that about $200,000 would be spent for the necessary equipment and decorating and that the new quarters would be ready May 1, 1921. The resident membership, now about 400, will be increased to 1,000. According to Mr. Town, the new plan received the enthusiastic endorsement of the members.

American Type Founders Co. Profits

The American Type Founders Company reports for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31 net profits, after taxes, of $761,593. This is equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $14.56 a share on the common stock. In the preceding year the net profits were $518 484, or $8.56 a share, after providing for the preferred.

PONZI DEFIANT TO REFEREE.

Will Help Trustees Only if He Approves Those Selected.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 8.—Charles Ponzi faced many victims of his air-castle scheme of millions at a creditors' meeting before a referee in bankruptcy here today. He urged them to look to him for advice in selecting the trustees who will administer their $6,000,000 of claims.

Prisoner Ponzi was as defiant as Promoter Ponzi was confident in the days when a deluge of money entrusted to him marked the public belief in his ability to make good his promise of 50 per cent. profits. Called to the witness stand by Referee H. E. Warner and asked if he was willing to assist the trustees in settling his estate, Ponzi replied:

"That depends. If they meet with my approval, I will assist. If they do not, I won't."

Ponzi went to the meeting from the jail across the street, a dapper figure in a fur-collared coat, while the several hundred representatives of his 11,000 creditors included persons in many stations of life, some shabbily clad. There were many women among them.

CHAS. H. HYDE INSOLVENT.

Former City Chamberlain Files Voluntary Bankruptcy Petition.

Charles H. Hyde, who was City Chamberlain during the major part of the administration of the late Mayor Gaynor, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the Federal Court yesterday. He placed his liabilities at $44,212, with no assets. Among the creditors are Mary E. Mahon and Henry Heisted, executors of the estate of William J. Cunningham, who hold a judgment claim for $20,115; William H. Joyce, $10,000, and the People's Trust Company, $8,887.

General Ireland Corrects His Report.

Special to the New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Major General Merritt W. Ireland, Surgeon General of the army, today corrected a statement made in his latest annual report to the effect that "no soldier who recovered lost both arms and both legs combined, nor did any soldier who recovered lose both arms or both legs, with one of the other extremities." General Ireland said that since the publication of his report it has been brought to his attention that one case existed of a soldier who recovered who lost both legs and an arm. He did not disclose the identity of the case. of the case.

Rathbone Plans to Aid Cuba.

Special to the New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Albert Rathbone, recently appointed adviser to the Cuban Government to assist it in straightening out financial difficulties, will leave for Havana this week for a conference with the Cuban President. It is thought he will define the conditions on which American bankers will lend Cuba $50,000,000 to $100,000,000, the sums tentatively suggested as the amount needed.

Woman Acquitted of Stealing Ring.

A jury in Judge Wadham's part of General Sessions last night acquitted Mrs. Eleanor Johnson, charged with stealing a diamond ring valued at $1,250 from Mrs. Florence Hawkins, wife of a theatrical manager, at 300 West Forty-ninth Street. Mrs. Johnson, who was Mrs. Hawkins's guest when the ring disappeared, denied any knowledge of it. Mrs Hawkins testified that she and Mrs. Johnson had long been friends and that Mrs. Johnson frequently was her guest

GERMAN TRADE REVIVAL.

All Industries Report Business Increasing at Rapid Rate.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—Further evidence is forthcoming of the revival of German trade and industry in the course of the year 1919-20. During November, 135 companies issued their statements for the year. These showed a net profit of 356,583,930 marks for the previous year. The same companies made a net profit amounting to 123,932,008 marks.

The most remarkable result announced was that of the Puga Cocoa Plantations Company of Hamburg. It declared a dividend of 5 per cent. for 1917, 6 per cent. for 1918, but for 1919 the record dividend in Germany since the war, namely 330 per cent. The Directors state that the large dividend is due to the receipt of outstanding remittances in gold from Ecuador, where the bulk of the firm's cocoa supplies for the year had to be sold.

The Plauen Chamber of Commerce states that in the Vogtland the textile industry business "improved considerably." Various firms state that they are full up with orders for months ahead. Some of the cloth factories are turning out 60 per cent. of pre-war production and the whole German textile industry is likely at an early date to go from 46 to 48 hours a week.

In the glove, stocking, silk and upholstery trades greatly increased business is reported by the trade papers.

Denies Magneto Co. Shut-Down.

A report was current in Wall Street yesterday that the Springfield plant of the American Bosch Magneto Company had been shut down. This was denied by A. T. Murray, President of the company, who said the only closing down contemplated would come at the end of this month to take inventory and would last for only a few days. It was stated that the company would ship from 4,000 to 5,000 magnetos between now and the eid of the month.

WILL CUT COTTON CROP.

Memphis Conference Agrees to 50 Per Cent. Reduction in 1921.

MEMPHIS, Dec. 8.—A 50 per cent. cut in cotton production in 1921, through curtailment of the acreage planted to one-third of the total land in cultivation, was agreed on at a conference here today of Southern bankers, merchants and farmers. To make the plan effective, machinery was set in motion to restrict, wherever necessary, credits to individual farmers, merchants, factors or banks unwilling to agree to the acreage reduction plan.

Stromberg Company Cuts Dividend.

The Stromberg Carburetor Company cut the quarterly dividend yesterday from $1 a share to 50 cents a share. The $1 quarterly rate was first declared on May 29 of last year and continued until the present declaration. For some time prior to that the dividend rate had been 75 cents a share regular and 25 cents extra. The present dividend is payable Jan. 3 to stock of record Dec. 20. The report of the company for the three months ended Sept. 30 shows a surplus after charges and Federal taxes of $87,603, or the equivalent of $1.17 a share on the capital stock. In the preceding quarter the company earned $202,478, or $2.72 a share.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 8.—The Chilean wheat yield for 1920-1921, it is estimated, will amount to 686,000 tons, or 80,000 tons more than last year, says a bulletin issued by the Statistical Bureau of the Department of Agriculture today. The bureau estimates that the area sown will be increased by 150,000 acres.

EMPLOYERS TELL OF WAGES

The employing printers in the book and job business yesterday presented their arguments on wage schedule revision to Dr. George W. Kirchwey, who is arbitrator for the employers' organizations and the "Big Six" Typographical Union. Representatives of "Big Six" presented their side of the case at a previous session before Dr. Kirchwey. The session yesterday was secret.

Employers said that it was intended to make the new agreement retroactive to Oct. 1. After the arguments are all in, based upon the cost of living, working conditions and other conditions of the industry, Dr. Kirchwey will proceed to make a decision in the case.

View on Summer Clothing.

One of the leading manufacturers of Summer clothing yesterday thought it a little too early to speak of prospects definitely, although he expressed the opinion that conditions will be sufficiently settled when such goods are ready for sale at retail to restore a normal business in that line. Lightweight worsteds and mohairs, he believes, will have a larger call than in previous seasons because their value is more widely accepted. Owing to a wider manufacturing of the Summer type garments, he is also of the opinion that considerable improvement in tailoring them will be noted.

⁂

Would Reach It in Due Time.

The following is vouched for by a well-known local business man: An out-of-town silk buyer recently wrote to a certain manufacturing concern here cancelling an order. The buyer's letter was not acknowledged right off. So, in a few days, he wrote a second time, asking what the selling concern intended to do. On receipt of this letter the head of the concern dictated this note to his stenographer: "Yours of recent date received. In reply we beg to state that we are about thirty days behind in our acknowledgments of cancellations, but expect that yours will be reached in due time."

⁂

Garment Orders Slow.

Not much activity is expected in the way of Spring orders for women's garments until after the holidays. While fair progress, under the present circumstances, is being made by road salesmen, there is said to be lacking a real start of new business. The manufacturers have been cheered by reports reaching them of the holiday trade, on which a good deal depends. If satisfactory clearances can be made between now and the middle of January, it is felt that the prospects for Spring will be considerably improved. While price continues to be the factor of most importance, there are more inquiries regarding style than usual.

Garment Men Meet.

The preliminary meetings of the International Association of Garment Manufacturers were held yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, paying the way for the general session of the organization today. Conferences yesterday took place of the Board of Directors, State Vice Presidents and leaders of the various sections of which the association is composed. There was also a meeting of the National Boys' Blouse and Shirt Manufacturers' Association. The principal discussion today will centre on the cost accounting campaign recently inaugurated by the association. Senator Lenroot will speak at a luncheon meeting tomorrow.

Suitings May Be Carried Over.

Although some piece goods buyers connected with clothing and garment houses expect to see an auction of suitings follow the sale of overcoatings announced by the American Wool Company, there is said to be some likelihood of the former goods being held over for disposal during the coming heavy weight season. It is understood that the company has about completed its preparation of heavy weight lines, which may appear on the market earlier than anticipated. The general sentiment in the market is that the opening will be delayed and fixed for March. If the suitings are not auctioned, it is felt that the Fall opening may be moved forward.

⁂

Signs of Softening Rumored.

Although it is known that December business was done in 38½-inch 64-60 printcloths at 8 cents in the local gray goods market yesterday, rumors were in circulation that they were available in some quarters at 7¾ cents. Seven cents was paid for this month's shipments of 38½-inch 60-48s, but beyond that there was not much of interest in the printcloths. December lots of 6.15-yard sheetings brought 6 cents. The clothing styles were quiet, and their prices were not visibly affected by the "open shop" move of the manufacturing clothiers here. These cloths have been quiet too long, it was said, to have prices depressed very much by the manufacturers' action.

⁂

Drug Sales Are Limited.

Buyers are purchasing small lots of crude drugs, Drug and Chemical Markets will say today, but the market is still so uncertain that they are unwilling to buy in quantity. Price movements continue downward. Cheap imported goods continue to force price reductions in fine chemicals. Low rates of foreign exchange, permit their importation and sale here cheaper than they can be made in this country. Prices of heavy chemicals are fairly well maintained, although small lots of imported goods have been offered at figures slightly below American producers' quotations. Stocks of dyestuffs and intermediates are larger than desirable, in spite of shading of prices by producers.

High-Priced Dresses Selling.

Makers of the better lines of women's dresses assert that, however dull advance Spring business may be in the case of the popular-priced grades, they have little to complain about. One of the biggest manufacturers in the former end of the business said yesterday that were he to say how good business really was in dresses wholesaling at upward of $60 he would be immediately nominated for membership in the Ananias Club. "But," he added, "I can prove my statements in black and white." Panel dresses are much featured in the lines in question and quite a wide variety of fabrics is employed. Novelty effects in Paisleys, used both for whole dresses or for parts, are proving attractive to buyers.

Testimonial for Silk Man.

Subscribers to the Bureau of Contracts of the Silk Association of America will tender a luncheon today to Samuel L. Feiber, a retired silk merchant, who has acted as Chairman of the bureau. The luncheon, to be held at the Hotel Astor at 1 o'clock, will be made the occasion of presenting Mr. Feiber with a testimonial for his services, which were given without compensation. The Contract Bureau will be continued in operation, since it has rendered noteworthy benefits to the trade. A new form of contract for the silk industry, embodying some necessary changes as indicated by the investigation of the bureau, was considered yesterday by the Board of Managers of the association.

Some Spring Lines Priced.

Although some well-known lines of women's high-grade silk hosiery have been opened for next Spring at prices that are understood to be considerably under those asked at the opening of the corresponding season of 1920, other manufacturers are still holding back. One of the largest concerns of all will not issue its new price lists before Jan. 3 at the earliest. Executives of this concern asserted yesterday that they themselves did not know yet just what the new quotations would be. As for current business, an active demand still exists for fine novelty goods, and limited offerings of the merchandise almost always draw requests from buyers for larger allotments. In the case of Fall merchandise still due on back orders, it is asserted that 95 per cent. of the buyers are asking that the goods be shipped as finished.

BUSINESS NOTES.

A meeting of the wash goods buyers of the Dry Goods Alliance will be held on Dec. 28 at 404 Fourth Avenue. Spring purchases of those fabrics will be discussed at that time.

Miss F. Weiss, who for more than three years was associated with Kirby, Bloch & Fischer as ready-to-wear buyer, is now connected in a similar capacity with Hoffman & Harthlay, Inc., resident buyers, 117 West Thirty-third Street.

Baer & Lilienthal, resident buyers, of 1,150 Broadway, have added to their accounts that of the Union Company of Columbus, Ohio.

AID BRAZILIAN IMPORTERS.

RIO JANEIRO, Dec. 7.—Suggestions that 66 per cent. of amounts now due on goods shipped into Brazil from the United States be paid, and that the balance will become due within six months, were approved at a meeting of importers here today. The suggestion was made by New York exporters and was formulated for the purpose of bringing some sort of relief to the foreign trade situation in Brazil.

The meeting appointed a committee of eleven to co-operate with a New York committee to insure a practical working out of the plan. This committee is composed of two representatives of United States banks, two United States exporters and seven importers.

REFUSE TO REOPEN ANTHRACITE AWARD

NO BLANKET WAGE INCREASE

Miners Stand by Their Original Demands—Both Committees Report Back to Their Organizations.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—While willing to adjust any individual cases of injustice or inequality within the present agreement, representatives of the anthracite mine operators today notified the mine workers that they were against granting any general additional wage increase or taking any action that would tend to reopen the award of the United States Anthracite Coal Commission.

Representatives of the operators, it was learned, declared that they were willing to adjust any alleged individual cases of injustice or inequality that would bring about better satisfaction among the miners and other workers, without creating dissatisfaction among other men and without in any way reopening the award of the Governmental Coal Commission, the basis of the present agreement.

The mine owners took a firm stand, it was stated, against any blanket increase because of the present downward trend of prices and lowering costs of living.

Besides adjusting alleged inequalities that may be mutually agreed upon, the operators also offered to consider putting some of the long-hour men on an eight-hour schedule.

In protesting against considering a general wage increase the mine owners pointed out to the miners' representatives that there was a surplus of labor and that they could get sufficient help at the present time at the current wage rate. They also asserted that the anthracite miner had a greater opportunity to work and more steady employment than in the bituminous region and in many other lines of industry.

While the miners' representatives declined to issue any statement tonight they declared that, despite the attitude of the operators, they would stand by their original demands and insist on a general additional wage increase and a universal eight-hour day.

"We have not receded from our position," said Thomas Kennedy of Hazleton, Chairman of the miners' delegation. "We intend to stick to it. We will make our report to the Scale Committee and it is up to them to decide upon policy. Nothing is very definite as yet."

INDICT HOTEL AS PROFITEER.

Hartford Hostelry Is Said to Have Overcharged for Meals.

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 8.—A true bill has been returned by the Federal Grand Jury against the Bond Hotel Company, Inc., which was charged with a violation of the Lever act, in charging what is alleged to have been excessive prices for a special dinner served at the hotel on Saturday, Nov. 20, the day of the Yale-Harvard football game at New Haven.

An official of the corporation will plead to the indictment in court here on Dec. 14.

On the day of the football game thousands of travelers stopped off here for meals. Upon complaint as to charges an inquiry was made. It was alleged by patrons of the hotel that on Nov. 20 the meals served as dinner for two persons cost $10, while at another Hartford eating place a dinner more satisfying, both as to quality and quantity, was served to six persons for $11.

CANADA SENDS WHEAT.

Nearly 45,000,000 Bushels Shipped as Tariff Talk Grows.

Special to the New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 8.—References to legislation that Representative Halvor Steenerson of Minnesota, Republican, proposes introducing at Washington "to put a duty of 30 cents per bushel on wheat," are made in Canadian newspapers tonight. Coincidentally in Ottawa, Toronto, Montreal and Fort William, expressions of satisfaction are heard that Canada, while the United States has been talking about an embargo on wheat, has sent across the line at least 45,000,000 bushels of "Western Canada hard."

In twenty-four hours fifteen ships, all heavily laden with wheat, left Fort William for American ports, practically defeating any move that Congress may take to affect the situation for this season.

HELD IN PRIZEFIGHT DEATH.

"Al Roberts" Arraigned on Charge of Manslaughter—Promoter Paroled

"Al Roberts," whose real name is Alfred Heidler, 23 years old, of 156 Beach Street, Stapleton, S. I., was released in bail of $2,500 on a charge of manslaughter yesterday, following the death at 5 A. M. of "Mickey Shannon," under which name Ray McMillan fought Heidler Tuesday in Jersey City. McMillan, whose home is at Elkhart, Md., and who was 21 years old, was knocked out in the sixth round, and his head hit the boards as he fell, causing a fracture of the skull. He was taken to the City Hospital, but he did not regain consciousness. Billy Gibson, Heidler's manager, and his two seconds were paroled as witnesses.

BUYS ON WEST STREET.

Fish Export Company Acquires Additional Property for Business.

The five-story building at 30 and 31 West Street, north of Morris Street, has been purchased by the Seaboard Trading Company, exporters of salt fish. The property has a frontage of 43.3 feet on West Street by 90 feet in depth. After alterations it will be occupied for office and warehouse purposes about May 1.

The company is a strong believer in the value of property in the export section of the city, and owns the parcels at 7 and 9 Front Street, 20 South Street and 46 and 48 Water Street. The present office and warehouse is at 12 Water Street, where the company has been located for fifteen years, and which will continue to be held under a long lease. W. E. Dean & Co. were the brokers in the sale of the West Street property.

Trading in Tenement.

BUYS BLOCK FRONT IN HEIGHTS AREA

ASSESSED VALUE $140,000

Two East Side Flats Near Park Avenue Figure in Co-operative Syndicate Deal.

Evidences of a return to the activity in acquiring well situated unimproved parcels in the upper west side for future apartment house development were shown yesterday in the purchase by Samuel H. Golding, an operator and builder, of the vacant block front containing ten city lots on the east side of Fort Washington Avenue, between 170th and 171st Streets. The property was purchased from Robert S. Clark and has frontages of 195 feet on the avenue by 133.10 feet on 170th Street and 125 feet on 171st Street. Mr. Golding is having plans prepared for the erection in the near future of a high-class apartment structure.

The property is the remaining westerly frontage of the block bounded by Broadway, Fort Washington Avenue, 170th and 171st Streets acquired by the Clark Estates from the late Charles T. Barney in 1905, and is the best unimproved plot in that section of the city. It is situated on the crest of the plateau. Fort Washington Avenue is tree-lined and is maintained under the jurisdiction of the Department of Parks. It has exceptional advantages in having total street frontages of 453 feet, of which 328 feet front on 80 feet thoroughfares, and at that point there is an absence of steep grades.

The property is assessed at $140,000. L. J. Phillips & Co. were the brokers in the sale.

Upper Harlem Plot Sold.

In the upper Harlem district four lots on the south side of 145th Street, 375 feet east of Lenox Avenue, were sold to an investor by the Real Estate Management Company for the estate of Mary G. Pinkney.

Co-operative Apartment Deal.

In the east side residential section the two five-story apartment houses at 114 and 116 East Fifty-fourth Street, between Park and Lexington Avenues, were purchased by a co-operative syndicate. The buildings cover a plot 50 by 100 feet and were acquired from May H. Meyer and others. James Kyle & Sons represented the sellers as brokers and the buyers were represented by Harris, Vought & Co.

The demand for private dwellings in Brooklyn was shown Tuesday evening when Joseph P. Day sold at public auction fifteen dwellings on Avenue R and East Eighteenth Street for a total of $171,550. The seven-room house at 1,802 Avenue R, corner of Eighteenth Street, 25 by 100, was sold to J. A. Billiard for $13,600; 1,824 Avenue R, corner of Nineteenth Street, went to W. N. Steinert for $13,500, and 1,820 Avenue R to H. C. Murray for $11,000; 1,805 Avenue R to Myron Kreiger for $12,000, 1,809 Avenue R to Melbourne Lucas for $12,000, 1,811 Avenue R to Max Udell for $10,000, 1,815 Avenue R to J. J. Leavy for $10,000, 1,819 Avenue R to Ada A. Stapleton for $10,000, 1,821 Avenue R to Sam Hyman for $9,500; on East Eighteenth Street, 1,724, went to Herman M. Schaap for $13,250; 1,730, to William Maurner for $12,500; 1,786, to Jacob S. Kahn for $13,250, and 1,777, to J. J. Leavy for $14,000; 1,901 Avenue P, corner Nineteenth Street, went to J. A. Billiard for $16,750.

$1,000,000 APARTMENT DEAL

Investor Buys Two New Nine-Story West Side Houses.

The two nine-story apartment houses recently completed at 105 to 115 West Seventy-third Street have been purchased by Louis Israelson from J. Axelrod & Son, the owners and builders. They cover a plot fronting 145 feet, the larger of the two being 82 by 100 feet and the smaller 63 by 100 feet. The apartments are divided in suites of three, four, five and six rooms, with one to three baths. The buildings have only been completed two months.

The price involved was about $1,000,000, and the deal was an all-cash transaction. Mr. Israelson, the purchaser, has been active as an operator for several years, but he states that he has purchased this property for investment.

Henry J. Kantrowitz was the broker in the transaction. The seller was represented by Stoddard & Mark, attorneys, and the purchaser by Morrison & Schiff.

FAIL TO FIND TRACE OF KIDNAPPED BOY

LAY BLAME ON VENDETTA

Officers Advance Theory, but Family Deny Having Enemies—Youth Describes Three Guilty Men.

Special to the New York Times.

FARMINGDALE, L. I., Dec. 8.—Although county detectives and members of the State Constabulary have searched the countryside, no trace was found of seven-year-old James Gimminarro, who was kidnapped yesterday by three men in an enclosed automobile while on his way to school at Bethpage, two miles from here. John Gimminarro, uncle of the boy, left for New York tonight to join with Albert Gimminarro, the father, in looking for the child.

Albert Gimminarro, who was in Brooklyn with his wife at the time of the kidnapping, did not return home today, as was expected. Members of the family explained that Mrs. Gimminarro was in a delicate condition, and it was feared that the shock of the news regarding her boy might prove fatal if she learned of it. The parents are visiting a married daughter, Mrs. Rose Sciuto, at 42 Wilson Avenue, Brooklyn.

Assistant District Attorney Elvin Edwards and County Detective Ferdinand Miller, who are investigating the affair, theorized that a vendetta might be back of the kidnapping, although the Gimminarro family disclaim having any enemies. The father and mother are Sicilians who came to this country about fifteen years ago. According to residents, they own valuable property at Bethpage and a house in Brooklyn.

Another theory was that the kidnappers had taken the wrong boy.

A fairly good description of the kidnappers and the car they used was obtained by the investigators from Henry Sadler, 16-year-old son of an employe of the Parkway Commission. He said that three days before the incident he had seen an enclosed automobile of a cheap make with three men inside proceeding slowly in the vicinity of the district school at Bethpage. He believed the men were Italians. This corroborates the description furnished by 10-year-old Frances Gimminarro, whom the kidnappers did not attempt to seize, although she was with her brother at the time.

Friends of Rumania Incorporated.

In accordance with a wish expressed by Crown Prince Carol of Rumania during his recent visit to New York, an organization called the Society of Friends of Rumania has been incorporated under the laws of New York State. The society takes over the work of the Rumanian Relief Committee and will seek to develop the existing friendship between the United States and Rumania. Prince Carol is Honorary President, Dr. William Nelson Cromwell, President; Dr. T. Tileston Wells, Chairman of the Executive Committee; Jean U. Koree and Henry Clews, Vice Presidents, and John Foster Dulles, Secretary, with offices at 450 Madison Avenue.

OPPOSE WHOLESALE INDIAN EMANCIPATION

Commissioners Say "Unscrupulous Exploiters" Lie in Wait for Untutored Tribesmen.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—There are many instances in which Indians released from Government guardianship have been victimized by "unscrupulous" exploiters, who made plans "to rob the Indian even before the latter had received his certificate of independence," according to the annual report of the Indian Commissioners, made public tonight.

The bureau on this ground vigorously opposes blanket release of the Government's wards, which, it says, has been increasingly agitated for some years.

"The removal of restrictions from Indians is an individual, not a group, question," the report said, "excepting for those people who have a larger proportion of white than Indian blood." In the latter case Indians should be given full control of money or property held in trust for them by the Government as soon as possible, the Commissioners said. Where those with half or more Indian blood are involved, however, the Commissioners are "decidedly opposed" to wholesale removal of restrictions.

Cases of Indians victimized on release from supervision have been so frequent, the report said, that it had been suggested that an allotment of at least five acres of land should be made for released wards, inalienable for a period of years, in order that "when a 'freed' Indian, incompetent in fact, but competent by decree, has lost his money and other lands he may have a place of refuge."

The Commissioners point out that 73 per cent. of the Indians, exclusive of the Five Civilized Tribes, are from half blood to full blood, and that only 55 per cent. of the Government wards, exclusive of the Five Tribes, are able to speak and only 37 per cent. able to read and write English. Statistics as to the Five Tribes are lacking, but in view of the known facts, the report asserts that "the cry from interested quarters to turn all Indians loose immediately should receive scant attention."

ROBBER OFFERS CHARITY.

Finding Victim Penniless, He Tries to Give Him $10.

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, Dec. 8.—Daniel Cable, a pottery worker, reported to the police here last night that a robber, who held him up while he was en route to his home in a suburb, offered to give him $10 after the highwayman discovered that he was penniless.

Cable said that the robber leaped down on him, overpowering him and then went through his pockets. Finding no money, Cable said, the highwayman reached into his own pocket, pulled out a roll of bills and offered to give him $10, saying "Here, brother, you need it worse than I do." Cable said he was too surprised to accept the money.

Columbia Acknowledges Gifts.

Columbia University announced a number of gifts yesterday including $2,500 from the France-America Society to support the Maison Francaise, a model of an Elizabethan theatre from the English Department of the University of Pennsylvania for the dramatic museum, and a bust of the late Dr. Edward Delafield, who was President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons from 1858 to 1875, from two nieces of the physician.

We Don't Make Many Shoes

IN the Edwin Clapp Factory, the quantity of production has always been subordinated to the quality of the product. We do not make many shoes, but we are proud of every pair. For over half a century, our trade-mark has been familiar to those who appreciate and admire art and skill as expressed in shoemaking.

We specialize in the finest quality Australian Kangaroo for City wear, but carry an extensive variety of other leathers suitable for every time, every place and every occasion.

WOMEN:—At both our Shops you will find distinctive styles in Edwin Clapp Shoes for Women, embodying trim feminine style with sturdy masculine service.
